Steel Tieup Threatening Idleness for Thousands

Carnegie-Illinois Shutdown Will Force Closing of Other Plants

Pittsburgh, Sept. 8 (AP).—A three-day wildcat strike of 1800 inter-plant railroad workers which has shut down the giant Pittsburgh area operations of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., today threatened with unemployment thousands of workers in other steel companies.

Carnegie-Illinois, dependent on the struck Union Railroad to haul its raw materials and finished products, already has furloughed 15,000 employes as it reduced its operations to near zero.

Steel fabricators and non-integrated companies which buy all or part of their products from the largest United States Steel Corp. Subsidiary grimly predicted the effect of the steel stoppage on their firms.

More Shutdowns Feared

Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp., the Nation's largest producer of stainless and electrical steel, said approximately 5000 employes at its Brackenridge and West Leechburgh, Pa. plant would "inevitably" be furloughed unless a quick settlement is reached.

Spang-Chalfant division of National Supply Co. cut its work week to five days at the Ambridge seamless pipe mill and said it would have to close the mill by the end of the week if Carnegie-Illinois did not reopen by then. This would affect, 2400 workers.

Oliver Iron & Steel, nut and bolt manufacturers, predicted the strike soon would affect its 1500 workers and would hit at virtually every steel and steel products firm in the Pittsburgh district.

Crimes in D. C. Up 28% in Year

Serious Offenses Hit High of Decade

By Charles E. Davis, Jr.
Post Reporter

Serious crime increased by nearly a third in the District last year, a year that saw the number of such crimes reach the highest point since 1937.

This was disclosed yesterday in the eleventh annual report of the Washington Criminal Justice Association, which also reiterated:

"The association has continually advocated an increase in police personnel to give adequate protection to the citizens of the District of Columbia."

There were 6159 serious crimes reported in the District during 1946, according to the report, an increase of 28 per cent over the 4433 serious crimes reported in 1945.

Follows U. S. Trend

The report declared that the increase in crime here "is typical of the general pattern noted in most metropolitan communities during the past two years."

There was an increase in every category of serious crime.

Housebreaking jumped from 2013 in 1945 to 2828 in 1946.

Grand larcenies, in one year, went from 1148 to 1455.

Robberies jumped from 593 to 836.

Homicides leaped from 63 to 106.

Serious sex crimes of rape and carnal knowledge increased from

GOP Labor, Price Record Facing Blast

By the United Press

Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach, described by his friends as "fighting mad," soon will challenge the Republican Party's labor-price record, it was disclosed yesterday.

Associates said the secretary, after a brief vacation at his home in Seattle, Wash., would come out swinging against the Taft-Hartley Labor Law and "Republican high prices" in a series of major speeches at Hot Springs, Ark.; New York City, and possibly San Francisco and Boston.

His plans were revealed as CIO leaders instructed rank-and-file members across the Nation to ask for an opportunity to testify at congressional hearings on high prices, scheduled in major cities during the next two months.

The union members were urged to bring along their wives as witnesses so they can "tell in their own words about the very serious problem of rising prices."

Hitherto Silent

Until recently, Schwellenbach has had little to say about political issues and policy questions under what he described as a "self-imposed silence" to avoid possible charges that his department is biased.

On Labor Day, he hit at high prices in a radio address that was generally viewed as the keynote of a new Administration drive to

Key Strikers Balk British Coal Peace

Grimethorpe Men Reject Plan; Others To Follow Lead

London, Sept. 7 (AP).—A new government plan to end the Yorkshire coal strike of nearly 70,000 miners, a severe blow to Britain's economic recovery hopes, was rejected today by 500 miners at the Grimethorpe pit where the walkout started a month ago.

By a show of hands the miners refused a request they go back to work and cut two extra feet of coal daily, as ordered by the National Coal Board, while a committee investigated their complaints that the extra "stint" was unnecessary.

Spokesmen for most of the other strikers said earlier they would follow the lead of the Grimethorpe men.

400,000 Tons Lost

The strike already has cost more than 400,000 tons of coal. The Coal Board announced tonight it affects 40 pits.

Lack of fuel has forced more than 2000 Yorkshire industries to shorten work weeks, and the West Riding group of gas companies cut industrial supplies by 45 per cent. Street lighting in 15 Yorkshire towns and villages was cut tonight to conserve fuel.

Widespread unemployment was officially forecast if the strike continued.

Cripps' Program

Meanwhile, Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, completed the industrial rehabilitation program which he will submit to the cabinet Tuesday. He is expected to demand a still greater switch of manufacturers from home markets to export.

Newspapers generally forecast that his program, to be announced Friday, would entail:

1. Cuts in steel, coal and other raw materials to nonessential industries.

2. Direction of labor, but only on a local basis.

3. Cuts in home consumption of all raw materials and finished goods.

4. Increased allocations for plants making goods most in demand in the dollar areas.

Pope Urges Fast Action in Moral Fields

Pontiff Tells Throng Of 250,000 in Rome Time for Reflection And Planning Is Past

Rome, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Pope Pius II, told 250,000 persons massed in St. Peter's Square today that the time for action had come in a world situation in which "the opposing fronts in the religious and moral fields are becoming ever more clearly defined."

"The time for reflection and planning is past," the Pope said. "Now is the time for action. Are you ready? . . . The time for the test is here."

The Pope spoke to men of the Catholic Action Organization, meeting here on their twenty-fifth anniversary.

Speaks in Italian

His address, delivered in Italian, followed up closely his exchange of letters with President Truman 10 days ago in which both leaders pledged themselves to work for a moral world order—an order, the texts made it plain, which was opposed to the condition which Communist domination has brought about in Eastern Europe.

The Pope spoke bitterly of present oppression, persecution and violence against the church.

Here it was indicated that he was denouncing the beheading of a Catholic priest in Istria, controlled by Communist-dominated Yugoslavia, August 24—two days before his letter replying to President Truman.

The Pope asked for a "blessing of peace" for the world.

True Peace Held Needed

"Not merely an apparent and juridical peace but a true and just peace," he said. "No matter how enemies of the Papacy have distorted our intentions and our words they are also included in our love and our wishes for good."

The Pope told his listeners, as he spoke from a great throne erected for the occasion in the center of the square, that "the contest of which St. Paul spoke is in progress."

"The hour calls for concentrated effort," he said. "Even a few seconds can decide the victory."

Catholicism must become more aggressive in support of the church and of its doctrine, the Pope said, and must overcome the charge of "anemia of religious life" which "resounds like a cry of alarm."

The Pope urged the Catholic Action Organization to lead the way in improving religious culture, restoring the sanctification of Sunday, saving the Christian family, improving social justice and renewing loyalty and honesty in individual dealings.

Warns Against Materialism

He warned Catholics against "crass materialism" and urged that they work toward "a more just distribution of wealth" and against "short-sighted speculation and practices which harm entire populations."

"Natural events bring an unequal distribution of the goods of the world," the Pope said. "But the church is opposed to the accumulation of these goods in the hands of a relatively small and exceedingly rich group while vast masses of people are condemned to pauperism and to an economic condition unworthy of human beings."

The period of economic and financial crisis, he said, had stimu-

Truman Sails For America On Missouri

By Frank L. Dennis
Post Reporter

Aboard USS Missouri, Sept. 7.—President Truman sailed for home today, assured of Brazil's heartiest friendship for the United States, but with an on-the-scene awareness of some of the obligations entailed in that friendship.

Before the battleship Missouri weighed anchor at 1 p. m., Washington time, Mr. Truman and his party reviewed more than 35,000 troops in a three-hour parade down 12-lane Vargas av.

Airplanes were conspicuously lacking in numbers in a display which otherwise presented a well-drilled, well-equipped, confident army, proud of its GI paratroop-type uniform.

Only about 25 P47s and half a dozen B25s participated. One of the things the President learned down here during his visit which began Monday and ended today was that Brazil desperately wants jet planes from the United States. He learned that Argentina is getting jets from Britain and that Brazil is genuinely afraid to lag behind her dictator-controlled neighbor in air power. Brazil has no jets and the United States has

Greeks Get Sophoulis as New Premier

Liberal-Populist Anti-Communist Regime Sworn In

Victory for Henderson

GREECE'S new coalition cabinet apparently means success has crowned the efforts of Loy Henderson, United States troubleshooter, writes M. W. Fodor. Story on Page 11.

Cabinet Takes Oath

Athens, Sept. 7 (AP).—A Liberal-Populist anti-communist government, headed by Themistocles Sophoulis, a Liberal, was sworn in tonight at the royal palace by Archbishop Damaskinos, former Greek regent.

Constantin Tsaldaris resigned as premier with his two-week-old all-Populist government, and within a few minutes King Paul I summoned Sophoulis, a former premier, and gave him the mandate.

The ceremony ended, at least temporarily, a bitter political antagonism between the two parties, which has continued for 37 years, and united them in a common front against Communist guerillas.

Unity Expected

The action was expected to provide the unity vital for success of the American aid program to Greece and marked a diplomatic triumph for Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh and Loy W. Henderson, director of the United States State Department's office of Near Eastern and African Affairs, who is now in Greece.

The new government was expected to offer a general amnesty immediately to all guerillas provided the rebellion ends within a specified time. Guerillas who surrender will be included in the amnesty, receive a guarantee against reprisals, and jobs, it was learned.

The government also was understood to be considering inviting a "neutral" international commission to supervise the amnesty.

In the event the amnesty fails, the government is expected to consider appointing a single military leader — probably Generalissimo Alexander Papagos, hero of the Greek-Italian campaign—with full authority to crush the guerillas.

Sophoulis served as premier from November, 1945, until April, 1946.

Tsaldaris was sworn in August 30, a week after the coalition government headed by Demetrios Maximos, also a Populist, fell in a crisis over the program for restoring public order.

Cabinet Members Listed

The Liberal members of the new cabinet are:

Sophoulis, Premier; Constantine Rentis, Public Order; Christos Ladas, Justice; Phocion Zaimis, Supply; George Varvoutis, National Economy; Leonidas Jasonides, Public Works; Demitrius Dingas, Air; Apostle Orphanides, Hygiene; Theodore Kizanis, Merchant Marine; Andreas Pirakis, Posts and Telegraphs, and Michael Mavrogordatos, Undersecretary to the Premier.

Populist Ministers are:

Tsaldaris, Vice Premier and Foreign Affairs; George Stratos, War; Alexander Sakellariou, Navy; Constantine Rodopoulos, Minister and Governor General for Northern Greece; Petro Mavromihalis, Interior; Anthony Pappademos, Education; Athanasios Pappathanasis, Agriculutre; Panos Hadjipanos, Transport; Michael Kotzanos, Welfare; Demitrius Londos, Reconstruction; Aristides Pappadakis, Labor; Stephan Stephanopoulis, Coordination; Demitrius Helmis, Finance, and Nicholas Baltazzi-Mavrocordatos, Undersecretary for Press.

Birth of Two Nations

Indian Strife Not Reflected In Division of Capital Staff

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

Washingtonians have an observer's seat at an unprecedented political event: the birth of two new sovereign states in India.

The start of this political evolution came on August 15, when India was divided into India and Pakistan. In Washington, this meant that members of the old Indian Embassy staff had a choice of remaining with India or going with Pakistan.

Pakistan is predominantly a nation of Moslems, India a nation where members of the Hindu religion are in the majority. Yet some of the members of the old India staff who were of the Moslem fath elected to remain with India. Ambassador Asaf Ali is of the Moslem faith.

When the choice was finally made, the new nation of Pakistan was represented by two Moslems in Washington, and a secretarial staff; the new nation of India by a staff which included Hindu, Sikh, Moslem, Parsi and Indian Christian.

But despite newspaper headlines of warring factions in India itself, there is no friction between local representatives of the two new nations.

Prior to the division of India, they met socially, be they Moslem, Hindu or Sikh, and they continue so to do. There is no personal animosity, no clash of personalities here. Assurances that this was the

Stern Gang in Paris

14 Arrested in Terrorist Plot To Bomb London From Air

By Joseph W. Grigg

Paris, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—The Ministry of Interior announced today that the Surete Nationale, France's FBI, had seized 14 persons involved in a fantastic plot of the Jewish Stern Gang to bomb London from the air.

Rabbi Baruch D. Korff, 33, of New York; Reginald Gilbert, described as a former United States Army pilot, and Mrs. Judith Rosenberg, a 23-year-old Hungarian, were also arrested last night as they prepared to take off and shower London with 10,000 pamplets signed by the Stern Gang and saying, "We are prepared to fight a war of liberation now to avoid a war of enslavement tomorrow."

The Ministry of Interior would not say specifically, however, whether Korff, Gilbert and Mrs. Rosenberg were tied in with the actual bomb plot. Two Sternists named "Jacques" and "Olga" were captured yesterday in an apartment where Surete agents discovered six bombs, made of fire extinguishers, which the French said were to be dropped on London.

A spokesman for the Ministry of Interior said more arrests were expected as Surete agents ran down leads they had discovered in the homes of those already in jail. The alleged plotters had been shadowed for more than two weeks, but only a few were known until yesterday when the first arrests began to involve others.

The Surete Nationale would not announce the names of any under arrest, nor would they give any details of the case.

The bombs they discovered when they arrested "Jacques" and "Olga" were made of red fire extinguisher cases, packed with gelignite and fitted with fuses and detonators.

The plan of the Sternists, who had a long record of killings, bombings and kidnapings, allegedly was to bomb London in "retaliation" for the British decision to send 4300 illegal Jewish immigrants back to Germany. They were caught trying to run the blockade around Palestine and are now on three transports at Hamburg, Germany, awaiting unloading.

Rabbi Korff, promoter of a plan to parachute thousands of illegal immigrants into Palestine, was arrested at a private airport near Versailles, while he and his confederates were preparing to take off for London with the pamphlets.

"This is a warning," the pamphlets said. "Your government has plunged the crown of His Majesty in Jewish blood and soiled it with Arab oil . . . We will carry the war to the very heart of the empire.

"We will strike with all the

'Won't Land,' Refugees Say On Docking

British Set to Use Truncheons, Gas As Exodus Group Pledges Resistance

Hamburg, Germany, Sept. 7 (AP).—The Ocean Vigour, first of three ships returning the 4300 Jewish refeugees from the Exodus 1947 to Germany, docked here today and a group huddled on deck in a drizzling rain gave the first hint that they will resist British attempts to disembark them at dawn tomorrow.

A North Sea fog that blanketed the Elbe River delayed the docking.

A reporter who evaded a military cordon thrown around the tightly guarded dock area shouted this question at a group of Jews aboard the transport:

"Will you disembark tomorrow?"

"No!" came an answering chorus from the group of 50 refugees on one side of the after deck, which was caged off with barbed wire at the rail. No one said yes.

British authorities expressed "reasonable hope" that the refugees would disembark quietly. They said the soldiers would use their truncheons and tear gas only after the Jews were given warning to come off peaceably.

Despite their expressed hope, the British took elaborate police and military precautions. The dock area was cordoned off tonight by large numbers of German police. In addition to the police on duty in Hamburg, another 1500 were "on call," ready to protect military government buildings in case of disorders, a British official said.

On a railway siding were the trains assigned to carry the refugees to the Poppendorf detention camp near Lubeck. Some of the coaches had barred windows.

There also were hospital cars and three truckloads of doctors and nurses brought to the dockyard tonight in preparation for the disembarkation.

Karl Marx, a leader of Jewish displaced persons in the British zone, declared that the British would have to care for any Jews wounded in the unloading of the transports "because the Jewish agencies will not help them."

He said an agreement had been reached by Jewish relief and welfare agencies that they would not lend any semblance of Jewish sanction to the return of the refugees by cooperating with the British in their care.

Jewish DP's at the former Belsen concentration camp near Hamburg hanged British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin in effigy in protest against return of the refugees to German soil. Afterwards they beat with sticks the dummy that bore Bevin's name.

The Belsen Jews are housed in quarters of former SS guards. The Exodus Jews are to be taken to similar camps in this area for "screening."

Originally scheduled to begin disembarking her passengers at dawn, the Ocean Vigour was delayed by fog and docked at 3:30 p. m. British authorities then announced the disembarkation was off until tomorrow. The transports Empire Rival and Runnymede Park remained at the mouth of the Elbe off Cuxhaven with the remaining Jews of a 58-day odyssey to Palestine and back to Europe.

The drastic security measures at the dock drew vigorous protests from the correspondents, but the British said only that the presence of too many people "might excite the refugees to riot."

One informant said photographs taken aboard one of the ships by a refugee had been confiscated by British authorities who went aboard.

Yesterday British authorities removed some Jews from the three transports in what was an apparent attempt to take off any leaders who might urge the refugees to resist the debarkation.

44 Countries Join in Vital Money Talks

World Bank Meeting In London Occasion For Economic Parley

London, Sept. 7 (INS).—French ministers and economists from 44 nations were on their way to London today for the most important series of money talks since the end of the war.

They will gather here Thursday for the second annual meeting of the International Bank and Monetary Fund, but they also will discuss outside the conference hall:

1. Stopgap American aid to Britain and other European countries to carry them through until the Marshall Plan goes into effect.

2. Whether the frozen remaining 400 million dollars of the American loan to Britain shall be released, and under what conditions.

3. New sterling convertibility agreements to replace those unilaterally denounced by Britain last month so far as dollars are concerned.

4. Coordination of British and Commonwealth import and export programs to limit the drain on their joint dollar resources and to prevent any overlapping of industrial effort.

5. The possibility of a British Commonwealth and Empire customs union such as suggested by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin in a speech before the Trades Union Congress last Wednesday.

The most important talks will take place between United States Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder and British Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton, probably with United States Undersecretary of State Will Clayton sitting in.

Acting Secretary of State Robert Lovett said in Washington Wednesday the European economic situation had deteriorated so seriously that interim American aid may be necessary until the Marshall Plan is working.

The political correspondent of the Sunday News of the World added that Lewis Douglas, ambassador to London, will fly to Washington shortly to talk over Europe's plight and especially Britain's with President Truman.

France's Bid For Loan Runs Into Trouble

500 Million Request Seen Barred by Bank Aid-Industry Policy

By The Associated Press

An expected French bid for a 500 million-dollar American emergency loan yesterday bumped into trouble at the U. S. Export-Import Bank.

Government officials said it was extremely unlikely the bank would approve any such French request because it would violate the bank's lending policy.

For the last 18 months, the bank has extended loans only when they directly benefit American trade and are to be used by foreign industry that can earn the funds to repay the credit.

The French application seemingly could not meet these conditions because Paris apparently wants the money to buy American food, coal, gasoline and other supplies required until the Marshall Plan goes into effect.

Dispatches from Paris said Saturday that French Ambassador Henri Bonnet would present his country's request early this week, when he returns to Washington after a last-minute conference with Prime Minister Ramadier.

The American officials, who withheld the use of their names, said the Export-Import Bank, although sympathetic toward France and other countries in economic distress, could not change its policy without congressional sanction.

Whatever financial assistance the Export-Import Bank might provide would be necessarily limited by the amount of funds left in the bank's treasury. Only $800,000,000 of the bank's original $2,500,000,000 capital remains, and $500,000,000 of this until recently has been earmarked for China.

The inability of the American Government to provide stop-gap aid for Europe without congressional action has increased the pressure on the only other available source of financial help—the $9,100,000,000 World Bank.

The U. S. officials said that France's best chance of getting some kind of financial help fairly soon was to turn again to this

Russians Reject U. S. Ideas for Korea Talks

State Department Has No Plans for Going Ahead Unless Soviet Cooperates

By the United Press

Russia has rejected the United States invitation to begin four-power discussions here today on a provisional government for Korea and the talks will be postponed, it was revealed yesterday.

Official quarters confirmed receipt of a note from the Kremlin but its contents were closely guarded. It was disclosed by Radio Moscow, however, that it constituted a rejection and that the State Department has no plans for going ahead with the talks without the Russians.

Given Alternatives

The rebuff confronts the department with at least two alternatives:

1. Either it can dump the explosive question into the lap of the United Nations General Assembly, or;

2. American officials can go ahead and set up a provisional government in U. S.-occupied southern Korea and trust that later Russia will see the wisdom of a provisional regime covering both the southern and northern (Russian-occupied) areas.

Most diplomatic observes expect the United States to put the matter up to the U.N. later this month, although there may be some delay while American officials try to work out a $200,000,000 economic aid program for the U. S. zone.

The United States proposed the four-power discussions when the Soviet-American commission in Korea became hopelessly deadlocked. The dispute thus was to be turned back to its point of origin—the Pacific Big Four.

China, Britain Agree

China and Britain agreed to the U. S. invitation. But State Department spokesmen admitted that they didn't give the Russians much time. The invitation was extended August 29—barely 10 days before the conferees were supposed to assemble.

The U. S. appeared to be signi-

Showdown With Soviet Predicted by Ball

By the United Press

An early "showdown" with Russia was forecast yesterday by Senator Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.), who said it may come over the disputed veto issue before the United Nations General Assembly later this month.

Maintaining that Russia has stalled the U. N. by abuse of the big power veto, Ball proposed in an interview that the United States take the lead in restricting the veto right. He emphasized that U. N.'s role in world affairs should be strengthened to help carry out the Marshall European Rehabilitation Plan.

Reminded that some American officials were loathe to launch a campaign to limit the veto power lest such action finally disrupt U. N., Ball said he believed a "don't rock the boat" policy would result in continued strangulation by Russia's excessive use of the veto.

'Crisis Legislation' Opposed

Ball said he believed a special session of Congress to deal with Europe's economic plight is inadvisable until the Administration is prepared to provide full information on how far the United States must go in aiding Europe.

He decried "crisis legislation" and proposed that Congress block any large-scale commitments until sound plans have been drawn. He added that in his opinion the money voted last session for relief in Greece, Turkey and the United States occupation areas should tide Europe over until the next regular session of Congress can act.

This view opposes that voiced over the weekend by Paul H. Nitze, acting director of the State Department's Office of International Trade Policy. Nitze warned that some European countries including France and Italy, "are nearing the end of their economic rope" and that the United States aid schedule "may have to be stepped up."

There are increasing indications, meantime, that the U. N. veto issue may be aired in Congress.

The Washington Post Poll

3 Out of 4 Washingtonians Think America Should Assist Other Nations Get on Feet

Three out of four Washingtonians think that it is up to the United States to help other countries get back on their feet.

Some of these people are willing to help even if it means rationing again or doing without things they would normally buy in the next few years, while others' desire to aid falls off when the sacrifices they may have to make are pointed out.

This was revealed by a recent Post Poll which showed that 59 per cent of people interviewed were willing to make sacrifices to send help abroad even if it meant returning to rationing. Eighteen per cent wanted to help but without sacrifice by themselves and 23 per cent were unwilling to help at all.

Just 31 per cent think of United States aid to world recovery as confined to sending food and clothing to people who need our charity. Only 26 per cent indicate support of a reconstruction program which will enable other countries to get back on their feet and eventually become self-supporting.

(Individual Expressions of Opinion on Page 5)

The 62 per cent who are willing to aid recovery of other countries think we should help all countries or those who need it most. Only 32 per cent would limit aid to certain countries. Most of this group draw the line at helping Russia or countries dominated by Russia.

These findings of The Post Poll are based on personal interviews with a representative cross-section of adults living in the Greater Washington area.

Local residents were asked:

"Many countries are having a hard time getting back on their feet after the war. Do you think it is up to the United States to do anything to help them?"

Seventy-seven per cent of respondents signified their willingness to help.

Post Pollers then asked these people:

"What do you think the U. S. should do about it?" "How much should we help?"

Resign? No!

Sen. Wagner To Return Fighting

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—Senator Robert F. Wagner (D., N. Y.) announced today that he did not plan to resign, and at the same time made a vigorous attack on "the money-mad real estate lobby and their unholy representatives in Congress."

Wagner, in ill health for several years, said in a statement that he was rapidly convalescing, and that he would "fight with all m vigor" at the next session of Congress for adoption of the Wagner-Ellender-Taft housing bill, and for repeal of the "pernicious Taft-Hartley Labor Law."

The Senator from New York, who is 70 years old and went to the Senate in 1927, declared:

"I have no intention of resigning from the Senate. I never have had. It never has been suggested to me by anyone that I should resign."

Reports that Wagner would resign, and support either Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt or Mayor William O'Dwyer as his successor, had reached the stage of public discussion in recent weeks.

Wagner said "the thought occurs to me that the Republicans appear slightly over-eager to allow Governor Dewey a chance to appoint a Repubican to the seat."

bitterness and anger of our servitude and our slavery . . . Call your sons and daughters back from Palestine now. Otherwise you risk never seeing them again."

The pamphlets were signed "Fighters for the Freedom of Israel," the name by which the Stern Gang prefers to be called. Police said Korff had chartered the plane specially to fly over London.

Threatened London

When he described his 10-million-dollar plan for a parachute "invasion" of Palestine, he told correspondents that if the Jews at Hamburg were forced to land, "London will be a more dangerous place to live than Palestine itself."

French newspapers said the Surete had worked on information from "a mysterious personage well-informed about the activities of Jewish organizations in France." Considering the timing of the raid on the apartment where the bombs were found and Korff's arrest, there was some belief that the informant had been in with the plotters.

Gilbert and Mrs. Rosenberg were arrested at the airfield with Korff. The Ministry of Interior would not say whether any specific charges had been filed against any of those arrested. But it was learned that Korff's luxurious suite in the Hotel Crillon, Paris' finest, had been raided.

Arms Caches Discovered

Korff came to Paris from New York recently to organize his parachute "invasion" of European refugees. Cochairman of the Political Action Committee for Palestine, he said that he "morally and financially supported" the Stern Gang. One of the two bands of extremists in the Holy Land. The other is the Irgun Zvai Leumi.

He asked the French government to let him use France as a base for the training of the would-be parachutists. The French Foreign Office announced yesterday that it refused to consider the requests.

Police have discovered secret caches of Jewish arms belonging to the Stern Gang and Irgun in Paris in recent weeks, and the Surete was trying to determine whether there was any connection between the caches and the bomb plot.

Joins Sternist Gang; Aids Paris Police in Arrests

By David Perlman

Paris, Sept. 7 (NYHT).—Reginald G. M. Gilbert, a 25-year-old former combat fighter pilot from St. Louis, was hailed by French police tonight as the "ehor" who risked his life to foil an alleged Stern Gang plot to bomb London by air.

An ace with nine enemy planes to his credit, Gilbert allowed himself to be recruited a week ago to carry a load of six homemade aerial bombs over the British Foreign Office, according to Paris police inspectors. They said the flier warned them of the plot immediately, and kept playing his double game under constant surveillance by police and Sternist agents.

"We owe all our success in smashing this plot to Mr. Gilbert: he is the key to the whole affair," one inspector declared. "He is reckless, this young American, and we are taking pains to guard him carefully as the Sternists will surely seek their revenge."

Woman Arrested

Gilbert was arrested last night, along with Rabbi Baruch Korff of New York City, and Mrs. Judith Rosenberger, Hungarian-born alleged Stern Gang member, as they were about to climb into a private airplane at Toussus-le-Noble Field nar Versailles.

They carried two suitcases containing 10,000 leaflets warning that "We will carry the war to the very heart of the empire," and addressed to "the People of England." Police said the group had scheduled the actual bombing run for Monday night in reprisal against the landing of the Exodus refugees at Hamburg.

The young flyer was released from his normal arrest early this morning, and police said he plans to leave France for home in a few days. He is now hiding under police guard in Paris.

Police officials, who said yesterday that they had seized six homemade bombs in a Paris apartment, admitted today the bombs had been spirited out of the house. Detectives planted in a room across the street had been watching two Sternists make the bombs, and had full descriptions of the missiles. They arrested the bomb-makers yesterday, but found only a few tools and the remains of some explosives.

Bomb Plans Found

Police added, however, that a complete and meticulously drafted set of blueprints for the bombs was found last night in Rabbi Korff's suite at the Hotel Crillon, just across the street from the American Embassy. The 33-year-old Russian-born American Rabbi and his alleged accomplices were still held incommunicado at police headquarters tonight, but officials said they would soon permit Korff to seek intervention from the American Embassy.

The story of Gilbert's role in the affair, as outlined by police inspectors, rivalled the most flamboyant fiction. The tall, thin, boyish flier was said to have been approached by Rabbi Korff about two weeks ago, after Gilbert had expressed sympathy with the Palestine resistance movement.

Korff, according to police, asked the flier if he would be willing to make an air raid on London, and Gilbert accepted. The next day Gilbert told his story to security officers at the British Embassy, who took him to the French police.

Kept Police Posted

During the following days Gilbert held more than a dozen secret meetings with Sternists at hideouts all over Paris, and at the same time kept French inspectors informed of each new development by a complicated system of code signals and telephone messages.

Gilbert signaled to police last Thursday that Korff had ordered the leaflets dropped that night, but at the last minute the flight was postponed until the next morning. On Friday Korff, Gilbert and another member of the group drove out to the airport, but on instructions from the French police Gilbert told them the plane would not be ready to fly until Saturday.

By last night when the leaflets were scheduled to be dropped, 25 detectives disguised as airplane mechanics surrounded the plane or hid in a nearby hangar. They caught Korff and his party at gunpoint.

Apparently Gilbert played his part perfectly, as detectives said that even tonight Korff does not know he was tricked by his American pilot.

Gilbert enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force in 1941, became a Spitfire pilot in England, and then transferred to the Army Air Forces, where he served as a Mustang pilot with the Twelfth and Fifteenth Air Forces in Africa, Sicily, Italy, the Balkans, southern France and Germany.

Subsidy Urged For Atlantic Ships

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 7 (AP).—A United States Maritime Commission sub-report, finding that Hampton Roads shipping services are "inadequate," has recommended the subsidizing of a direct shipping line between the tidewater Virginia harbor and north European ports.

The report, received yesterday by the Hampton Roads Maritime Exchange, recommends that the South Atlantic Steamship Line, Inc. of Savannah, Ga. be permitted to make Hampton Roads its arrival and departure terminus in weekly sailings to United Kingdom-German-low country ports.

Over protests by United States Lines and Waterman Steamship Corp., the report—prepared by examiners G. O. Basham and Charles H. McDaniel—also recommends granting the Black Diamond Steamship Corp. a subsidized run between American and European North Atlantic ports.

Sign Marks Sign Of Famous Train Wreck in Danville

Danville, Va., Sept. 7 (AP).—The leisurely pace of recorded history finally has overtaken "the wreck of the old 97."

The State Conservation Commission has erected one of its regular historical-site signs at a point on Danville's outskirts where the Southern Railway's fast mail-express train plunged from a trestle into a ravine 44 years ago. Nine were killed and seven injured in the wreck.

Reason most widely given for the State's delay in putting up the marker designating the famous wreck of song and story is that until recently the ravine where the 97 came a cropper was almost inaccessible.

The Southern Railway Co. changed its main line roadbed here a number of years ago and later tore down the trestle. Last year the State Highway Department built a major roadway right across the ravine. Hundreds of tourists began passing the spot daily with no marker to give them pause.

Report After Tour

All Peaceful In Java Area, Consuls Say

Batavia, Java, Sept. 7 (U.P.)—Australian and French representatives returned to Batavia today after a 500-mile tour of Republican territory, including the capital of Jogjakarta, and said they found everything "quiet and peaceful."

The two consuls described their trip, made to prepare the way for a full consul commission investigation of cease-fire violations as ordered by the United Nations Security Council, as "interesting, useful and fruitful."

A Dutch communique reported meanwhile that six Indonesians had been arrested in Batavia while trying to set fire to government buildings and that other "subversive elements" had been arrested in the big port of Soerabaja.

In East Java, where the communique said Republican saboteurs had distroyed bridges and railway communications, Dutch troops took drastic military action resulting in "serious losses' 'among the Indonesians.

The communique confirmed an earlier Republican charge that the Dutch have opened an assault to the northeast of Malang. The Dutch said that two towns in the area 14 miles northeast of Malang, described as "two centers of Republican unrest within the liberated area," have been occupied with little resistance.

Van Mook Here for Talks

New York, Sept. 7 (U.P.)—Dr. Hubertus Van Mook, lieutenant governor general of the Netherlands East Indies, arrived here today enroute to Washington to discuss the Indonesian question with Secretary of State George C. Marshall and other State Department officials.

He plans to return to Holland Saturday.

Six Killed During Riot in New Delhi European Quarter

New Delhi, India, Sept. 7 (U.P.)—The Indian cabinet's emergency committee to combat rioting announced today that an Indian caught killing, looting or burning would be shot on the spot.

The committee met soon after a short but bloody riot broke out for the first time in the European section of New Delhi.

Six persons were killed before police gunfire sent the rioters scurrying.

Informed sources said yesterday that it had been decided to impose martial law in the worst of the massacre areas. Other sources said the emergency committee "seriously discussed" martial law for the Punjab and other areas today but decided not to impose it at this time.

About 300 persons were arrested afte rtoday's riots. Indian soldiers, patrolled the streets tonight, warning gathering groups that authorities mean business and are determined to save New Delhi from the fate of the blood-soaked Punjab.

The riots broke out in the morning in the exclusive Connaught Place shopping area, with wild-eyed Indians taking advantage of the general frenzy to loot and destroy the big stores that serve the district's large American and British population.

case came last week from both Pakistanian and Indian nationals.

Both nations' rperesentatives explained that while the present border clashes in their native land are costly in lives, they do not signify civil war in India or Pakistan. The motivation behind the dispute is the desire of the Sikhs, a sect of Hinduism, that their strong, cohesive community not be separated by the national division.

When India was divided, neither of the new sovereign states adopted the red flag with wheel of fire encrusted on it which signified the old Indian Dominion.

India has a tri-color of saffron, white and green; Pakistan has a green and white flag, with star and crescent.

India is represented by staffs in four buildings; Pakistan is represented by a small nucleus of persons housed in a single five-room suite at the Shoreham Hotel. Both nations plan expansion of their local representation.

India has 18 officers in Washington now; Pakistan, two.

There is a comparison also in the personalities of the local representatives of the two nations.

For instance Ali Baig, charge d'affaires for the Pakistanian Embassy, who will head his government here until an ambassador is named, was formerly first secretary and head of Chancery in the Embassy of India at Washington. He declared for Pakistan on the partition of India last month.

He explained it simply: "If I am to serve a government, it will be a government for Moslems."

Baig, an unassuming slight man with a clipped British accent (he received his education at English schools), said the new embassy's first piece of business is to be filing Pakistan's request for membership in the United Nations. In addition, Pakistan must negotiate basic agreements with other countries governing air transport, commerce and navigation, currency and communications.

"It is an unprecedented situation," sad Bag.

How does Baig feel about India?

"I have no more feeling about India than any other nearby state—no more than Afghanistan or Turkey or Iran," he said quietly. "I am a Pakistanian."

But while Baig feels that the division of India and Pakistan is permanent, there is a different feeling in the Indian Embassy.

B. R. Sen, Minister Plenipotentiary of India in the United States believes that the division of India will some day be ended. He believes this because of the physical factors involved; the fact that the economy of the two countries is interdependent and inter-related. "The two states will come together again when the disadvantages of partition are fully realized," said Sen.

"At the present moment," he said, "the differences are between peoples of different faiths. In the future the differences wil lie on economic and social factors. That has happened before in other countries. I am certain that, as in other countries, economic and other factors will come into play to decide the political stature of India."

The division of India has resulted in distributing India's millions as follows: According to a 1941 census, India has 118 million Hindus, 2,500,000 Sikhs and 29 million Moslems.

Pakistan has 17 million Hindus, 1,500,000 Sikhs and 50 million Moslems. In addition, there are altogether 565 states in India ruled by princes. Prior to the division, the British had a "paramountcy" relationship to the princes, based on treaties and arrangements by which the crown protected the independence and sovereignty of the prices' states, on condition they give up control of their foreign affairs.

Britain has indicated that with the partion of India, she will not recognize the states of the princes as separate international entities, but expects them in time to become either Indian or Pakistanian.

All but two major states already have signed an Instrument of Accession, joining either India or Pakistan and ceding to such states all matters related to defense, foreign affairs and communications, while preserving internal autonomy.

In a radio address last night, Sen declared that so far as India is concerned, "our policy is going to be an independent one, based on the fullness of peace and freedom everywhere, on the lines laid down by the United Nations Charter."

Major Policy Talk Drafted By Marshall

Lake Success, Sept. 7 (AP).—The United States delegation will inaugurate a series of high-level planning conferences this week in preparation for the United Nations General Assembly, where Secretary of State Marshall plans to deliver a major address shortly after the September 16 opening.

Preliminary drafts of the Secretary's policy speech already are under study by State Department experts. It was expected he again would stress Washington's faith in and adherence to the peace agency.

It was considered doubtful that Marshall would go into specific details on such delicate issues as the Palestine report so early in the session, but his remarks will be watched closely for any indication of the American position on the Holy Land.

The extensive planning under way within the delegation reflects American determination to be prepared for any surprise moves by the Soviet Union. Last fall Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov tossed the arms reduction scheme into the 55-nation assembly without warning and other delegations generally were caught off guard.

All except Marshall in the 10-member United States delegation will start Friday a series of two-a-day conferences extending right up to the assembly opening.

Pending Marshall's arrivel September 15, permanent delegate Warren R. Austin will preside. The other three Assembly delegates are Herschel V. Johnson, Austin's regular deputy; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Foster Dulles.

The alternates are Charles Fahy, recently State Department legal adviser; Willard Thorp, assistant secretary for economic affairs; Francis B. Sayre, delegate to the Trusteeship Council; Adlai Stevenson, former representative on the U. N. Preparatory Commission, and Dr. Virginia C. Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard College.

U. N. officials here meanwhile reported planning for the big meeting was in the advanced stages. Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York and Dr. Oswaldo Aranna of Brazil, temporary chairman, are scheduled to speak at the opening meeting, and there may be a message from President Truman.

U. N. officials hope to complete organization of the assembly the first day and then wind up general debate, where nearly every delegation makes a lengthy policy speech, by the end of the initial week. The entire session may run three months.

Austin to Get Award

New York, Sept. 7 (U.P.)—The American Association for the United Nations announced today that its first annual United Nations Service Award will be presented to Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate to the U. N.

The presentation will be made at a dinner September 20 at which Secretary General Trygve Lie and Austin will speak.

Gets Into Spirits

Dunkirk, N. Y. (U.P.)—When Joseph Freitas began excavating to build a tavern, he found a buried cache of liquor, believed to be a "holdover" from prohibition days. The cache included whisky wine and gin of types not common in today's legalized liquor trade.

Hornets Enliven Vote

Spokane, Wash. (U.P.)—A real hornet's nest was stirred up during a special municipal election. At one precinct, election officials tried to beat the heat by lowering a seldom-used awning. Hornets swarmed out by the hundreds. No more votes were cast until firemen dispersed the insects with DDT.

Orchids for Missouri

Independence, Mo. (U.P.)—Dr. Juan Pastor, director of the botanical services at Quito, Ecuador, has written newspapers in this area that orchid seeds will be sent free to citizens of the United States along with instructions on how to raise the exotic flower.

U.S. German Policy Hit by De Gaulle

By Rep. Vursell

More Work Held Vital For France

Russian Menace Aggravated by Reds Of France, He Says

Bayonne, France, Sept. 7 (AP).—France is caught between the "grave menace" of Soviet Russia and America's persistence in "opposing France's vital interests in the settlement of German problems," Gen. Charles de Gaulle declared today.

"We would be deeply mistaken if we expected a miracle" from American economic aid, he told his listeners at a political mass meeting.

De Gaulle had strong words for American policy in Germany, but he was stronger than ever before against Russia and the French Communist Party.

Liberty Being 'Stifled'

"Behind the iron bars of the Soviet regime, we find two-thirds of Europe isolated in an enormous bloc of peoples and resources, where the liberty of man and the independence of nations is, little by little, being stifled.

"Nobody can tell today what will be tomorrow the limits to the ambition of the leaders of this colossal enterprise . . . But what we realize only too well is that for our fatherland a grave menace has arisen, aggravated by the action within our country of a group of separatists blindly devoted to this foreign domination."

De Gaulle accused France's Communists of "exploiting with able tactics all of our difficulties, to increase confusion, calculating that national irritation and despair will finally result in what they want: their own control of power in the republic and the subjection of France to the system of slavery of which they, themselves, form the vanguard."

U. S. Held Victim of Error

"On the other hand," he said, "the United States, which, happily for the freedom of the world, intends to counterbalance the totalitarian ambitions of the Soviet regime, is nevertheless the victim of an error with regard to the old continent."

The error, he said, is that the Americans "seem inclined to oppose the vital interests of France in the settlement of German problems."

Paris, Sept 7 (AP).—Representative Charles W. Vursell, (R., Ill.) declared today that France needed for its recovery "new hope, backed by the determination to put forth a greater effort, more work and greater production."

From Representative E. E. Cox, (D., Ga.)) came the comment that "it is perfectly clear there can be no substantial recovery of Europe in the absence of a revitalized Germany." He added:

"The Germans are the only people in the world who can rebuild that country and, if it is given back to them, they will rebuild it."

These two congressmen are members of a committee studying conditions in Europe under which the Marshall Plan and other aid proposals may be expected to work. Both are members of the German mittee, and came to Paris three days ago to examine conditions here and elsewhere in France. They prepared to return to Frankfort tonight to rejoin their German subcommittee tomorrow and begin a tour of Austria.

Neither they nor other congressional committee members now in Paris were willing to estimate publicly the chances of Marshall Plan appropriations getting through Congress. But it was clear that not all were pleased with what they had found in Europe. All members visiting Paris stayed at the Crillon, one of the city's best hotels, and were impressed by the excellent food and the number of persons employed in serving it.

Some also were impressed by the number of people sunning themselves for long hours on the sidewalk cafes in Paris and elsewhere. One commented that it was a nice way to live but that it didn't show much determination to work hard for recovery.

institution. The Italian government asked several weeks ago for a $250,000,000 loan when confronted with a similiar dollar crisis, they recalled.

France's prospects would be even better, they said, because Bank President John J. McCloy said last May that he would be willing to consider a second French request during 1947. He made this announcement when he granted a 250-million-dollar credit to the French—one-half of what France requested.

Some American officials, however, are known to doubt whether this international agency can be of help in this emergency. Loans from this institution, they recalled, are designed primarily to finance long-term reconstruction projects and not purchases of food and fuel.

Even if the World Bank is willing to stretch its policy, there is some question whether it can complete the necessary investigation of each application in time. Other countries already are lined up at the bank waiting for financial help.

Filipino Judge Slain By Gunmen in Home

Manila (Monday), Sept. 8 (AP).—A provincial judge and a soldier were killed last night by 12 gunmen who invaded the judge's residence, 6 miles north of Manila.

Police early today arrested a suspect hiding in a fishpond, and said he told them robbery was the motive but that his companions were members of the Hukalahap guerilla organization, against which the judge had given some recent decisions.

The judge, Basilio Bautista, reputedly was one of the wealthiest men of the neighborhood.

Chinese Reds' Forces Broken

Nanking, China, Sept. 7 (U.P.)—Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi, China's defense minister, today declared the campaign against Communist troops had entered a period of "pacification," with the main Red forces broken.

He declared Russian aid to Communists in Manchuria was a "cold fact," because there were no Communist forces in the area before Russia entered Manchuria at the close of the war.

The defense minister did not accuse Russians of actually engaging in the civil war, but said they had transferred more than 100,000 rifles and other weapons to Chinese Communists.

He reiterated the government's in suppressing Communists in Manchuria and elsewhere. No heavy warfare is now in progress and Nationalist forces are busy mopping up, he said.

General Pai admitted the situation was not favorable on the Hupeh-Anhewei border, but claimed raiders under the one-eyed Communist General Liu Po-chen had been cornered and were no longer a threat.

Youth Corps to Go

Nanking, Sept. 7 (AP).—The Youth Corps of China's governing party, organized with great fanfare nine years ago, will be abolished before the end of the month, members of its executive committee said today.

Known as the San Man Chu I (Three People's Principles) Youth Corps, its membership of about 400,000 will be absorbed into the parent Kuomintang on orders of the Kuomintang political council and at the request of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Reasons for the dissolution were not given, but Youth Corps leaders speaking before the committee said "active infusion of new blood" into the Kuomintang should help cure China's political ailments.

The Youth Corps, formed in 1938, did its best work against the Japanese invaders, both on and behind the front lines. Restricted the ages of 16 to 25 of both sexes, it has continued after the war, with national, regional and local offices paralleling the Kuomintang.

Unions Blame Reds

Shanghai, Sept. 7 (U.P.)—Twenty-five Shanghai labor unions today sent a message to President Truman blaming Communists for the present chaotic condition of China and urged America not to be misled by "Red propaganda."

"Everybody in this country knows the root and cause of all our troubles is the Communist question," the unions said in a cable addressed to Mr. Truman, Secretary of State George C. Marshall, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) and Senate and House leaders.

200 Hurt in Collapse Of Bombay Bleachers

Bombay, India, Sept. 7 (U.P.)—Two hundred persons were injured, 45 seriously, when a crowded section of bleachers collapsed today during a football tournament.

Hundreds of other spectators escaped injury because the stands fell away from the field, missing a crowd on the side lines.

Three in Four Here Favor Foreign Aid

tries, or just some? Which?", about half (51%) of those who are willing to help wanted to assist all countries. An additional 11 per cent say "Help those who need it most." Thirty-two per cent would limit aid to certain countries, 19 per cent specifically saying, "Help all but Russia, or Russian-dominated countries." The remainder do not know which countries we should help.

In order to find out how far Washingtonians are willing to go in their desire to aid foreign countries, Post Pollers asked all people (77%) who signified they wanted to help, the following two questions:

"If the United States did this, it might mean that people in this country would have to do without some things. Would you personally be willing to do without some of the goods and food you would normally buy in the next few years to send them abroad?"

(If "Yes") Would you be willing to ration some things in this country to send them abroad?"

Replies to these questions were as follows:

ALL OUT FOR U. S. HELP Willing to help, do without normal purchases, and return to rationing	59%
WILLING TO MAKE SOME SACRIFICES Willing to help and do without normal purchases, but would not want to return to rationing	12%
WILLING TO HELP IF NO SACRIFICES REQUIRED Willing to help, but would not want to do without normal purchases, or ration	6%
Total	77%

Resistance to helping other countries in their reconstruction struggles is strongest among people with lo weducational levels and low family income. 39 per cent of the grade-school educated are unwilling to help at all, as compared with only 24 per cent of the high school educated, and 13 per cent of those with college educations. 29 per cent with family incomes under $2000 a year are opposed to any U. S. aid to world recovery, as compared with 22 per cent with incomes between $3000 and $4999, and 15 per cent with incomes of $5000 and over.

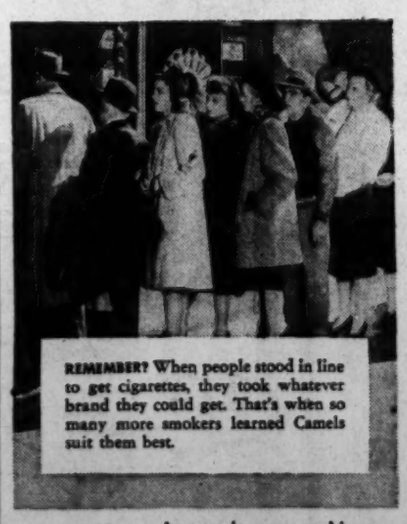
R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.



REMEMBER! When people stood in line to get cigarettes, they took whatever brand they could get. That's when so many more smokers learned Camels suit them best.
Yes, experience during the wartime cigarette shortage taught millions the differences in cigarette quality!
● Mrs. Dorothy Newstead speaking: "During the wartime cigarette shortage, I smoked many different brands. And that's when I found that Camels suit my 'T-Zone' best!"
You and millions of other smokers, Mrs. Newstead, found yourselves comparing brands. And that full, rich flavor and the cool mildness of Camels found a happy welcome in many, many "T-Zones."
Result: More people are smoking Camels than ever before.
Try Camels. See how they suit your taste . . . your throat. Let your own experience tell you why, with smoker after smoker who has tried and compared, Camels are the "Choice of Experience."

YOUR "T-ZONE" WILL TELL YOU...

That's your proving ground for any cigarette. See if Camels don't suit your "T-Zone" to a "T."

According to a Nationwide survey:
MORE DOCTORS SMOKE CAMELS than any other cigarette
● Three nationally known independent research organizations asked 113,597 doctors—in every branch of medicine—to name the cigarette they smoked. More doctors named Camel than any other brand.

Spot Opinions in Washington Favor Aiding Other Nations

Residents interviewed by The Washington Post Poll were assured their names and opinions would not divulged. Opinions printed here were obtained in spot interviews in the downtown area.

Red-haired Pat Criner, a War Department personnel representative, was emphatically in favor of assisting other countries.

Miss Criner

"If the world is to survive we are going to have to help one another," she told a Post interviewer. "We cannot make a success of this country if other countries are downtrodden."

Miss Criner, who lives at 14 Armat dr., Chevy Chase, said assistance should cover reconstruction needs as well as immediate relief. If necessary, she said, she would be willing to sacrifice certain goods and foods or even return to rationing in order to help other lands.

"I'd help all countries," she stated.

"We are morally bound to aid them," E. J. Samoyden of 1606 U st. se., declared.

Samoyden

"We have all the material here and the money and I think this country wants to help," Samodyen, a telegraph operator, asserted. He urged all types of assistance, including relief and reconstruction aid.

However, he insisted that help be withheld from Russia. He recommended that so-called satellite nations be included in relief plans.

"Certainly I would be willing to return to rationing," he said. "I don't think it is right for us to have everything while they have nothing."

* * * *

"Yes, I think it is the duty of the United States to give them some assistance," said Capt. Emanuel Philip Snyder, who is in the Judge Advocate General's office.

Snyder

"The United States was the least hurt by the war in a material sense and is the only country in a position to give any assistance whatsoever.

"It would have to be both relief and reconstruction assistance, with emphasis on the latter."

Captain Snyder, who lives at 1320 Nicholson st. nw., said he would restrict help to those countries whose "governments reflect the will of the people." He said he didn't feel the United States should help countries that are dominated by interests "antagonistic" to the United States.

* * * *

Glasgow

He urged that aid be made available to all countries, regardless of their political leanings.

The United States, Glasgow said, "should do something to help them since failure to do so would probably result in being entangled in their domestic difficulties. If England, for example, were to go down, we would probably go down right with them so far as our economy is concerned."

Glasgow said he would be willing to return to rationing, if necessary, but "I wouldn't like it."

"I would help all countries that are in bad shape," said R. H. Sinclair, a retired bookkeeper, of 3707 Windom pl. nw.

Sinclair

"We have more than the rest of them," Sinclair pointed out, "and I think it's always proper if a person is down and out for someone who can to help."

Sinclair contended "we did without a good deal during the past war and can do it again." He was not averse to rationing, if it is required to do the job.

He urged full assistance, covering both relief and rehabilitation.

* * * *

"Yes, we certainly should help," Miss Elizabeth O'Connell, a Government clerk, declared.

"Practically all of those nations have been devastated and we haven't had any bombing here at all," Miss O'Connell pointed out. "Then, of course, we are the richest nation in the world."

Miss O'Connell

Miss O'Connell, who lives at 3642 Horner pl. se., expressed the view there is need for immediate relief but that this country's long term project should be to "help them to their feet and then make them help themselves."

She urged that aid be made available to all countries in need. "We have to be liberal because we have always been liberal," she declared.

Meat for Aid Abroad

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 7 (AP).—The United States has contracted to purchase one million pounds of canned meat and gravy from a Mexican meat packing firm for the feeding of refugees in Europe, Dr. W. C. Dye, veterinarian in charge of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry here, announced today.

Starr Urges Congress Call To Rearm U. S.

Cleveland, Sept. 7 (AP).—Louis E. Starr, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, asked President Truman tonight to call a special session of Congress to grant appropriations to rebuild the Nation's armed forces and mobilize the aircraft industry.

In an address prepared for radio delivery, Starr said it was obvious that Russia was determined to increase "economic and political dislocation and chaos" throughout the world.

"We must act immediately, while there is yet time," the VFW leader asserted. "Each week's delay can mean a year's extension of war. We must not procrastinate this time as we did in 1939."

4-Point Program

Starr's address was coupled with a four-point program drawn up by the VFW's security committee and calling for stronger national defenses.

The recommendations, to be presented tomorrow on the fifth day of the VFW's annual convention, ask:

1. Adoption of universal military training.
2. A plan for mobilization of manpower, industry and finance in case of national emergency.
3. Return of atomic energy control to the military with a prohibition against sharing information with other nations.
4. Immediate implementation of the National Science Research Foundation.

Starr declared his request called for "immediate action."

"Our organization has studied this situation carefully, and we are forced to the inevitable conclusion that the peace of the world can be maintained only if the United States rearms rapidly, making it clear the the USSR that a war would mean her total destruction," Starr said.

Housing Bill Backed

He asserted that "Communist stooges are used merely to prepare the way mentally for the military occupation which inevitably follows."

In another convention action, James Murphy of Minneapolis, chairman of the VFW housing committee, reported the committee had approved a resolution calling for indorsement of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill with the qualification that any public housing constructed under the program be made available for private ownership not later than 15 years after passage of the act.

Annual memorial services were conducted by the delegates in Municipal Stadium today and a pageant was presented tonight.

lated and quickened a greed for gain which led to speculation.

Speaking of the persecution of the church the Pope said:

"The immortal youth of the church shines forth—how wonderful!—especially in grief. She is 'the Spouse of Blood.' In blood her sons, her ministers are calumniated, imprisoned, killed, massacred in this Twentieth Century after all the progress of civilization and after so many protestations of liberty.

"Who could ever have believed possible such oppression, so many persecutions, such violence, could exist? But the church fears not."

It was the first time the pontiff had appeared in public in the great plaza.

83-Year-Old Couple Marks 65th Wedding Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. GREEN L. MORRIS

It wasn't long after the Civil War that Green L. Morris and a pretty girl of 17 met at a party near Charlotte, N. C., and fell in love.

That chance meeting, which culminated in a marriage after Mr. Morris "pleaded on my knees 3 or 4 times," made for a burst of happiness yesrday that touched scores of lives.

It was the 65th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Green L. Morris, both now 83 but still together and obviously happy. It was the 30th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Thomas Good, of Charlotte, their daughter and son-in-law; and the fifth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Morris, of 5719 Kansas av. nw., their daughter-in-law and son.

All told there are 8 children, 7 grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren.

The triple anniversary drew dozens of well-wishers to festivities at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris, sr., 1746 Lamont st. nw., which was decorated with numerous bouquets and boasted a multi tiered wedding cake.

The couple posed for photographs, held hands, and then confessed quite unashamedly that they love each other more now than they had at 17.

"They can't stand for each other to be out of sight," Miss Leona M. Morris, a daughter, whispered to a reported.

Do you think love is important?

"Well, indeed so," they chimed. "Children, too."

And to back up that statement they ran through the names of their offspring—including Mrs. Lee Averell of 5230 Maple Ridge rd., Bethesda, Green L. Morris, jr., who flew into Washington from California for the celebration, Oren W. Morris of Charlotte, Mrs. John F. Ryan of Charlotte, and Hugh M. Morris of 1345 Tuckerman st. nw.

Film Strike Parley Recessed Until Oct. 20

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—A conference of AFL union chiefs aimed at ending the 11-months-old Hollywood film industry's jurisdictional dispute was recessed today until October 20 at Los Angeles.

The film tieup was described by Representative Carroll D. Kearns (R., Pa.) as "the worst in the countr ytoday." He is chairman of a congressional subcommittee investigating the dispute. He said today's conference he arranged was "affable" and that "we find that we had more things in common than in disagreement."

Japs Rebuild, Feed Korea

Tokyo, (Monday) Sept. 8 (AP).—Japan is being forced by the United States to rebuild and supply Korea, the nation it regarded as a colony in its days of conquest and empire.

That was disclosed today in General MacArthur's latest report on Korea, which said that Japan is Korea's chief source of parts and machinery for industrial rehabilitation.

Textiles, chemicals, drugs and wood and paper products are being poured into Korea from Japan as the United States seeks to rebuild the southern half of that country, which it occupies.

A recent report of Japan's board of trade said Korea had replaced the United States as the top consumer of Japanese products.

MacArthur's report, covering the month of May, said 18,889 Japanese refugees had returned from North Korea and 1149 from Manchuria.

Despite this increase, Japan was required to help Koreans by shipping summer vegetables to carry them over a food shortage, caused by short crops, the report added.

for what's ahead

CONSIDER, for a moment, just what is ahead when you put your name down for one of these Buicks.

There are weeks and months and years of fun in the step-lively lift of the big Fireball straight-eight that purrs beneath this bonnet.

There's smooth and level going wherever your paths may lead, over boulevards level as a ballroom floor or bad roads tamed by your easy-going coil springs — on all four wheels.

There's plenty of good company in a car big enough to take the crowd, and to give elbow room for six on its soft, deep, three-person seats.

There's long life and durability in a stout chassis and rugged underpinning built big and brawny — there's light handling for the lady of the household and there's enough size to satisfy the most masterful masculinity.

There's fun and satisfaction and pride from the moment one's yours through many a long year; now see how the looks of this beauty fit with all that.

Plainly, no car on the roads today so clearly bears the mark of tomorrow in its styling.

Plainly, no other car is so enduringly smart in the sleekness of its lines, the sweep of its follow-through fenders, the broad-beamed, meant-for-business garb this one wears so proudly.

Whatever the future brings, there's no surer way to be certain you'll be traveling in the newest of the new than to put your money on Buick.

Do that — and you make sure of your future. All that's required is a firm order placed now, with or without a car to trade.

been unwilling to sell or lend her any.

she must have economic help from the United States.

He and President Dutra talked business during the week. The Brazilian President, discussing the economic future of his country, bluntly told United States newsmen yesterday: "That depends on what the United States does for us."

President Truman announced on his departure from Rio that he had changed previously considered plans for visits to San Juan, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, and would return directly to Washington.

His schedule now calls for a leisurely, nonstop trip to Norfc'k Va., where he will arrive September 19, and an overnight cruise on the presidential yacht, Williamsburg, to Washington, where the party is due to arrive in mid-morning, September 20.

The Puerto Rico and Virgin Islands visits were put off, probably until early autumn, largely for the purpose of making them special occasions rather than incidents of the Rio de Janeiro voyage.

After farewell honors at the dock, to which the Brazilian President accompanied him, Mr. Truman boarded the Missouri to the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" and the Brazilian national anthem.

The President is occupying the admiral's stateroom. Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, have the stateroom assigned to the Chief of Staff, when there is a flag officer aboard the ship.

Uses Two Sea-Going Caps

Mr. Truman used two sea-going caps with his business clothes in the first hours at sea. One was the familiar white headgear which he wore last summer on his trip to Bermuda. The other was a new one given him recently by the President's Cup Regatta Association in Washington, resembling a naval officer's cap.

"I call this my six star cap," Mr. Truman wisecracked to his staff. "I've got to have one that outranks Admiral Leahy's."

He referred to five-star Admiral William D. Leahy, his chief of staff.

Special Counsel Clark M. Clifford flew back to Washington ahead of the party today, reporting he had work to do. Stanley Woodward, State Department chief of protocol, took his place in the party aboard.

Davy Jones will come aboard Wednesday night on the eve of the crossing of the equator, and the official party and 1400 of the 1700-man crew will be initiated with paddles.

What initiation is planned to make a "shellback" of the President, now a "polliwog" who has not sailed across the equator, was not disclosed.

In the stand with President Truman and President Dutra for today's parade were Mrs. Truman, the Trumans' daughter and other members of the party.

The two presidents, riding in an open limousine, traveled the full length of the line of march before the parade started.

After the parade, President Truman again entered the open car and drove across the avenue to a special stand for wounded Brazilian veterans of World War II. He stood up in the car and waved his top hat to the veterans, while spectators applauded thunderously.

The thousands who lined the avenue fought against cordons of police to hail the Truman car as it needled its way through the cheering crowd.

"talk prices down." He was particularly bitter at what he called "inaccurate and widespread attempts by those who killed price controls to put the entire blame for price rises on wage increases won by organized labor."

The Boston and San Francisco speeches—before the CIO and AFL national conventions—still are tentative. A Labor Department spokesman said there was little doubt, however, that both the unions would invite Schwellenbach to appear.

Emile Rieve, CIO vice president and administrative chairman of the union's Full Employment Committee, urged all CIO locals and State councils to "ask for time to be heard" so they can put across the CIO's complaint against increased living costs.

John Brophy, director of CIO councils, recommended that members organize community groups behind the CIO's drive by "drawing the attention of the community as a whole to the very serious problem of high prices."

Stanley Ruttenberg, CIO assistant research director, sent State councils a sample questionnaire for collecting facts about consumer problems.

Rail Car Shortage Threatens To Close Several Steel Mills

Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of Transportation, reported yesterday that the freight car shortage is so critical that several big steel mills are on the verge of shutting down.

He told reporters that ODT is taking emergency measures by providing extra cars and reducing the number that may be kept at railroad sidings during unloading.

Johnson said the railroads had done well "but not well enough" in stepping up shipments to record 1947 high of 925732 cars during the week ended August 30. This was an increase of 27,837 over the previous week, but he said there was a weekly demand for at least 1 million cars.

Much of the increase was for shipments of coal and grain for export, which in August showed an increase of almost 50 per cent over the same month of last year.

But Johnson noted that the shortage of boxcars even worse than last year. The railroads operated last year with a 14,000-car shortage, but this year the deficit is 18,000, he said.

Asked about the movement of grain crops from the fields, he said that situation was "in pretty good shape now." But he added that he was worried about the sugar beet crop, which will be harvested in the next few weeks when the railroads will be busy hauling sand and gravel for needed road construction and repairs.

closed session with company and local union officials in an effort to reach a settlement.

The walkout, declared "unauthorized" by spokesmen for the brotherhoods and The National Railway Mediation Board, began Friday morning over a contract dispute. The workers have presented 45 demands, including one for a 50-cent-an-hour wage boost.

A statement by the Union Railroad declared the company was willing to enter national wage negotiations "should wage demands be served on other railroads."

The company said its rates of pay of engine and train service employes ranged from "6 cents to 23½ cents per hour higher than rates paid by neighboring trunk lines for the same class of service."

Brotherhood local officials declined to comment.

One of the Great Historical Novels of Our Time!

TAKE three brothers and two sisters of an old Virginia family, loyal Confederates, and in the first hard pinch of the War for Southern Independence let them learn that their father was also the grandfather of Abraham Lincoln. Tell the effect of that disclosure upon the character of each one.

Tell a story not of soldiers but of Southern civilians; paint the ignorant boasting, the greedy ambition, the complacent arrogance and the secret sense of inferiority which are the soil in which the seeds of war most easily thrive; portray the patient valor of the simple man and the covetous rapacity and the sly evasions of the shrewd; present war as it is and was and always will be, as a bestial murder of fine generations yet unborn, as a disease from which, win or lose, no nation ever recovers.

The result is a novel which can face comparison with the great works of our time.

Potato Prices To Be Higher

Housewives were warned yesterday by a top Agriculture Department official that they may as well resign themselves to higher potato prices this winter.

Exactly how high depends on how well the potato crop turns out.

But on a long-range basis, he said, it probably will be easier on the taxpayer's purse to pay the higher prices.

He said that while the smaller-than-expected potato crop had kept prices high, it also had made it unnecessary for the Government to spend large sums to support prices.

Maryland is expected to produce 14,000 acres of potatoes, of which 6000 will be for commercial use and 8000 non-commercial. Virginia's goal will be 63,400 acres—34,700 acres commercial, 28,700 non-commercial.

Site of Proposed Kingman Island Airpark

By Charles J. Yarbrough
Post Reporter

A private fliers' airpark for Kingman Island, long a dream of the 39-year-old Washington Aero Club, is still just a dream.

New feelers have gone out in the last few months to locate a 2700-foot turf strip and clubhouse on the island in the Anacostia River at estimated costs which range from $200,000 to more than $350,000.

The money—or the District's lack of it—is the first big obstacle in the project's path.

Still another is possible interference with National Capital Park's long-term park plans for the area and the Commission's reluctance to allow airports in National parks.

Future Park Planned

The site and the area surrounding it is, in the eyes of National Parks Service, future Anacostia Park. It is on plans for reclamation and filling by District engineers of the War Department and will be taken over by National Parks Service on completion.

This, according to John Nolen, jr., director of planning for the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, is a matter of "the next four or five years."

The Kingman Island project has the unqualified blessing of the Washington Aviation Planning Council, parent organization of numerous flying groups in the city, including the Aero Club and the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association.

CAA Likes Site

Even the Civil Aeronautics Administration, which cannot move officially on the proposal without application of the District for investigation of the site, has called the Kingman strip "the best available site."

Although the obstacle-cluttered situation may be cleared slightly on completion of a report from a new subcommittee of District, National Parks Service and CAA representatives, there was nothing optimistic emanating from the District Commissioners.

Under aviation expansion plans approved by Congress, CAA has $132,964 earmarked for Washington airport work—providing the city puts up an identical amount.

Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young, engineer Commissioner, said Saturday the Commissioners have never been approached formally on the Kingman site. They heard a CAA representative tell them the city had $132,964 to its credit in airport funds and also heard him discuss Kingman Island as a possible site.

Washington has seven years in which to pick up the CAA money, General Young pointed out. He, too, is awaiting a report from the subcommittee, but "there is no provision for such expenditure in the District's 1948 budget—and that is the only way Washington could raise the money," he emphasized.

Sister Regrets Peddler's Gift

Boston, Sept. 7 (INS).—Neighbors and a sister of John Deferrari, 84-year-old peddler who gave the Boston Public Library a million-dollar fund, today expressed disappointment he had not remembered charitable projects in his own North End.

Deferrari, with a fortune amassed through shrewd investments and securities and real estate, presented a million-dollar fund to the library Saturday, where spare-time reading, he said, helped him build up his wealth.

The gift, which is expected to grow eventually to three million dollars, was made without strings and will establish the John Deferrari Foundation as an irrevocable trust.

The sister, Miss Emilia Deferrari, 50, of Brookline, director of the Home for Italian Children in Jamaica Plain, said that her brother is as much of a mystery man to her as he is to others.

She denied the story that Deferrari was forced to leave school in the eighth grade to aid his five brothers and three sisters.

"Our family always had plenty of money. My father was well established in the produce business in the North End."

For Keeps

We must extend our congratulations to the Department of Correction of the District of Columbia and to its director, Mr. Donald Clemmer. In his first report to the District Commissioners Mr. Clemmer states that throughout the fiscal year ended last June not a single prisoner escaped from the District Jail, even though the number of persons confined in that ancient and notorious institution was greater than ever. As far as we know, this is the first time in the 70-odd years' history of the jail that its administrators have been able to offer such a record, although there are to be sure municipalities in which it would be in no way out of the ordinary.

It appears from this and from other items in Mr. Clemmer's report that his efforts to reorganize and reform the administration of the jail have not only been free of the official frustrations that have deviled his predecessors, but that he has had positive cooperation from the Commissioners. One of the principal causes of the former demoralization of the custodial staff, and the alleged venality of some of them, was the fact that wages paid for such work were so outrageously low as to expose the employes to constant and serious temptations. Within the last year, however, substantial pay increases for various grades of employes have been approved by the District Commissioners and allowed by the Civil Service Commission. These increases, as Mr. Clemmer says (in the quaint mandarin dialect employed in these official reports) "have been a most important determinant of an efficiently operating branch in the department."

In a way it is too bad that the District government had to wait for an astonishing series of scandals before it could be persuaded to do away with the antiquated system of prison supervision that had made such scandals possible; or, as the ingenious Mr. Clemmer likes to put it, before the District government could see the wisdom of a "clear-cut delineation of responsibility" that "has obviated the jurisdictional misunderstandings and split authority which . . . has been causal in part of so much difficulty and unfavorable publicity."

Slow Freight

Advertisements published by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway calling for a speed-up of freight schedules to make better use of scarce boxcars must be viewed as part of Robert R. Young's scrap with the Association of American Railroads. Though his motives are not always clear, Mr. Young's influence has been nothing if not stimulating. This is not the first time he has taken issue with established railway practices. Some months ago, for instance, he published a series of advertisements depicting a complacent hog which, it was said, could cross the country in one car, whereas passengers were forced to change trains. These advertisements were generally credited with bringing about coast-to-coast sleeping cars, though, significantly, Mr. Young's lines do not share in their operation. In another move attended by considerable fanfare earlier this year Mr. Young withdrew his C. & O., the Pere Marquette and the Nickel Plate from the railway association and proceeded to set up a rival and supposedly more wide-awake organization known as the Federation for Railway Progress. Mr. Young's railroads continue to participate, however, in the car pooling arrangement which makes up the bulk of AAR activity.

The current ads highlight a situation that has been developing for a generation. We have been scrapping more freight cars than we have built. The difference has been made up in faster schedules and better utilization of available equipment. After the wartime moratorium on car manufacture the railroads now are hard put to it to meet extraordinary demands for seasonal shipments such as the bumper wheat crop. Indeed, with respect to gondola cars, the shortage is so acute that the Office of Defense Transportation has threatened to embargo shipments to Canada unless cars are returned more promptly. Mr. Young's solution for the problem would be to shorten freight schedules, which are now fixed by agreement, so as to make them the same over different routes regardless of variations in mileage.

The Association of American Railroads points out in reply that there are not sufficient locomotives to pull more trains of less tonnage which speedups would necessitate. Further, it asserts, the C. & O. is itself vulnerable in that its policy of long trains and heavy loads results in slower than average schedules. Regardless of the applicability of these counterblasts, however, it appears to us that Mr. Young has a point. Restrictive agreements have become so commonplace among rail carriers as to minimize competition. This is apparent not only in identical freight schedules, but in the fact that elapsed passenger train time is the same on different roads serving the same points, although distances may vary by hundreds of miles. New schedules usually are announced en bloc. Also, standard fares apply regardless of mileage. While there are some mitigating circumstances in defense of railroad practices, anything that can infuse more live competition serves the public, and in this Mr. Young's prodding is worthwhile.

Tax Reduction Again

When Congress adjourned last July soon after its failure to upset President Truman's second veto of its tax reduction bill, Chairman Knutson of the Ways and Means Committee apparently threw in the sponge. He then said it was doubtful whether the Republicans would make another effort to cut taxes "as long as Truman was in the White House." Since that time the President has issued a revised budget statement pointing to a surplus of 4.7 billion dollars for the current fiscal year, chiefly attributable to an increase of four billion dollars in estimates of receipts. Possibly emergence of that surplus accounts for Mr. Knutson's sudden decision to renew the fight for a reduction of income taxes when Congress reconvenes next January. At any rate, he is considering introduction of another bill that may provide for even larger cuts in individual income taxes than the rejected measure which would have cost the Treasury four billion dollars of revenue.

There are two major reasons for objecting to tax reduction at this time, either one of which seems to us compelling. In the first place it is doubtful whether there will be any sizable budgetary surplus in the next fiscal year—1948-49. Certainly action on tax reduction should be deferred until Congress has had time to pass on proposals for European relief, including applications for immediate emergency aid for distressed countries as well as long-term proposals to assist their recovery as contemplated by the Marshall Plan. Such expenditures will not only make inroads on current budgetary surpluses but they will increase Government costs in the coming fiscal year to an undetermined extent.

The President evidently believes that further paring of Government outlays during the next fiscal year will not be large enough to constitute a substantial offset to anticipated increases in our foreign commitments. If he is correct in this view—and the small savings effected for the current fiscal year by an economy-minded Congress tend to confirm his opinion—it follows that a tax reduction measure that would slice several billion dollars off the Treasury's receipts next year might leave little or no surplus available for financing expanded foreign relief and rehabilitation programs. That outcome would doubtless rejoice the hearts of some isolationist members of Congress, but it would dismay all who realize the importance to us of saving western Europe from the economic chaos that threatens to engulf it.

The second important reason for opposing income tax reductions at the present time is that it would, as Secretary Snyder warns, "prejudice desirable long-run revisions." The country needs and should have tax relief as soon as conditions permit. But the required tax reduction program should not be confined to reductions in individual income tax rates. It should be comprehensive. Mr. Knutson has a hand-picked special committee of private citizens engaged in studying general tax problems for the benefit of the Ways and Means Committee. But the head of the special committee is on record in favor of the rejected tax reduction bill. So presumably its activities will not interfere with plans for pushing a limited type of tax reduction at the next session.

The Treasury's tax experts are also surveying the tax field, and have recently made public a number of valuable studies dealing with corporate income taxation, Federal-State tax overlapping, treatment of family income in community property and non-community property States, etc. The Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation has frequently collaborated with the Treasury in preparation of such studies. Despite their objectivity these studies expose the defects of the existing system of Federal taxation and the need for thoroughgoing revision to correct inequities and eliminate or modify taxes that hamper investment activity and discourage legitimate business risk-taking.

Comprehensive revision of the Federal tax system will be both time-consuming and difficult. Moreover, a well-balanced revision cannot be achieved by relying on limited tax reduction measures of the kind favored by Mr. Knutson. For as President Truman stated in his first veto message on the tax reduction bill: "The reduction in Government receipts resulting from this bill would be such that the Government could ill afford to make fair tax reductions at the proper time in the form of a carefully considered revision of our entire tax structure." That warning still holds good.

Lynch Prosecution

The State of North Carolina seems determined to treat lynching as a crime. It may be that its effort to prosecute the men who took Godwin Bush from a Northampton County jail last May—and from whom he escaped before an actual lynching took place—will encounter the same stone wall of local prejudice that frustrated South Carolina's recent efforts to punish the Greenville lynch mob. Already Judge J. Paul Frizelle, sitting as a special committing magistrate at the behest of Gov. R. Gregg Cherry under a 50-year-old State anti-lynching law, has felt obliged to free six of the seven men accused of participation in the lynching attempt. He ruled, as did the judge in the South Carolina case, that a confession made to FBI agents was admissible as evidence only against the defendant who made it.

Judge Frizelle has, however, held for action by a grand jury the confessed leader of the lynch mob, together with the jailer from whose custody the prisoner was taken. The jailer is charged with conspiracy—a charge which, if substantiated, would warrant Federal intervention under the civil rights statute. But such intervention seems scarcely necessary since Judge Frizelle appears to be pushing the charge with a full sense of its seriousness and odiousness. The jailer not only failed in any way to protect his prisoner; by his own confession, although subjected to no threat, he actually cooperated with the lynchers. "You led the men to Bush's cell and pointed him out," the judge charged. "Not once did you ask or beg them to desist. I couldn't leave this courtroom with my own self-respect if I did not call you to answer to these charges."

In this sort of determination by State authorities to uphold their own laws and institutions lies the best corrective for the lynching evil. It was North Carolina's system of justice which was defied and violated by the lynchers and by the jailer who ignored the responsibilities of his office. North Carolina can best bring the violators to account. The example it is setting is a salutary one, and we hope that the end result will be as consistent with the principles of democratic justice as the beginning has been.

European Food Needs

The agricultural experts engaged in formulating proposals for self-help in conjunction with the Marshall Plan conclude that a return to the 1934-38 food production level of western Europe can be attained by 1951 only by importing agricultural machinery and fertilizers as well as certain essential foods. Even at prewar production levels, moreover, the experts assert that, owing to the increase in population since 1938, the average European would have less to eat in 1951 than he had in prewar years.

With continental food production currently estimated to be only 63 per cent of prewar output, the prospect seems rather bleak. However, the experts point out that in normal times the Continent was dependent upon food imports. Germany was never self-sufficient as regards food products, although desperate efforts were made in preparation for war to reduce her dependence upon imported foodstuffs and fertilizers. Great Britain, even with the most determined efforts, could never hope to become self-sustaining as regards food. France, on the other hand, normally provides the great bulk of the food requirements of her people. In short, averages covering a large number of countries throw no light on the probable needs of individual countries. Nor does it necessarily follow that living standards will have to be permanently lowered if western Europe fails to produce enough food within the next few years to lift the per capita output to prewar figures.

In the days when trade among nations was comparatively free and the world at peace, an insufficiency of domestic foodstuffs did not seem in the least alarming. Nations produced goods that had a ready sale in foreign markets as a means of obtaining funds for the purchase of foodstuffs. The intensive industrialization of Great Britain and Germany was predicated on ability to exchange the surplus products of mills and factories for the products of the soil. Unless postwar Europe proposes to revert to an agricultural economy that would entail restrictions on industrial expansion in order to reduce or abolish dependence on imported foodstuffs, there is no reason to assume that increases in agricultural production far in excess of prewar levels are essential to restoration of an economic system capable of supporting the people without outside aid. All that is necessary is to make sure that food surpluses will be purchasable abroad in sufficient quantity to make up for domestic deficits, and that importing nations will be able to pay for them by exporting goods.

In other words, the problem of agricultural restoration is intimately tied to the problem of industrial restoration. European agriculture and industry both need outside aid now to hasten restoration of the economy, but what proportion of that aid should go to industry and agriculture, respectively, is a problem that will not be solved by studying per capita averages and assuming that it is necessary to make prewar production patterns the goal of postwar endeavor. This type of reasoning unconsciously identifies self-sufficiency with self-provision of the essentials of living, whereas the prewar conception of national or regional self-sufficiency merely implied ability to produce enough in the aggregate to pay for needed goods not produced within the areas. If we were not living in a world made fearful by German aggression, we should not consider geographical deficiencies of food as in any sense a misfortune, because, with the opening of international trade channels, the sharing of food surpluses takes the form of a profitable exchange from the viewpoint of both surplus food producing and food deficit countries.

SUMMER DAWN

The early day-break comes to scatter sleeping
By the sheer wonder of the rising sun,
Its rays of gold and crimson creeping
Across the sky when the long dark is done;
With climbing light the summer dawn is breaking
Above the meadow, over stream and plain,
The close-curled flowers and sap-filled roots are waking
To greet the morning that returns again.
The city-dweller is denied this glory
Shut-in by towering walls of steel and stone,
Rationed on light, living the twice-told story
Of the grey pavements he has always known
While in the country, free to every eye,
The miracle of daybreak fills the sky.

British Strain

As a British subject I find the letters and articles on Britain's crisis in your paper very interesting. I think Ferdinand Kuhn, in the August 31 issue of The Washington Post summed up the situation with sympathetic understanding and tact.

The unceasing strain of seven years of hard work, hunger, and denial of all life's little luxuries, coupled with unrelenting restrictions on every angle of his public and private life would be sufficient to turn an angel surly, and Britons don't claim to be angels.

What the British people need besides food, is freedom of thought and action. The greatest morale-booster possible would be the sight of several large stores like your American stores, crammed with everything imaginable in the shape of food, to be bought without ration cards, and plenty for everyone. That's what we thought the American loan would produce. We, too, wonder where the money has gone, and would be just as interested in the plain figures as any American citizen.

I admire American forthright business tactics. It may seem a scandalous suggestion but I can't help thinking that if England could borrow a few of America's foremost businessmen to assist in running the country for a short time, it is possible the deadly lethargy might be shaken off successfully. Americanize Britain! The housewives would have something to be thankful for, certainly, and I believe poor faded Britain would actually wake up.

"Ballots, Not Strikes"

I just finished reading your editorial of September 3, "Ballots, Not Strikes," in which you praise Mr. Green for his moderation, which you contrast with the "brash and often hysterical threats that have been widely brandished" against the Taft-Hartley Act.

Yes, we do need some more leaders among the organized like Mr. Green, or, from what I've heard, among the rank and file, the organized workers, may well get out of hand. They feel, in many cases not only that the Taft-Hartley Act has deprived them of the "exercise" of their rights but that it is a deliberate provocation. And I know from firsthand experience that many of the organized workers are seething with hatred, resentment, seeking revenge.

It seems a pity that at the very time this Nation needs and cries for unity, the framers of that act have deliberately set about pitting worker against boss, and, what is worse, putting the United States Government in a position of having to fight on the side of the boss. For that's what the Taft-Hartley Act does, i. e., makes the state the worker's opponent. How the Marxists must laugh! Some fine day those whose class views made them see justice in this act will be very sorry they gave it their support.

Prices and Profits

Philip Murray of the CIO hit the nail on the head in his Labor Day statement that the present trend of higher and higher prices and profits, and smaller and smaller purchasing power, except in the hands of the favored few, must be halted and reversed if we are to avoid economic chaos and a depression that could make the last one appear to be only a minor setback.

How this is to be done under private capitalism, which is euphemistically known as free enterprice or the American way of life, I do not know. I hope its proponents do know.

Capitalism is a device by which inevitably and inexorably the rich grow richer and the poor grow poorer. Translated into purchasing power this means that the masses of people, the overwhelming majority, in this vastly rich land of ours, are drawing in their belts tighter and tighter and living more frugally, because they do not have the money to pay present inflated prices. The 5 per cent of the population that own approximately 95 per cent of the wealth, are already glutted with superfluities.

Hence a depression is inevitable and probably soon, even if optimists like Mr. Averell Harriman, who as I recall, inherited a modest fortune of about 240 millions, assures us that he is not worried about it.

Apropos of the constant bombardment assailing us of feverish exhortation to send more and more of our wealth abroad to back the Marshall Plan which is designed to "check the advance of communism," I find it somehow a bit ironical to read in Ferdinand Kuhn's front page story of September 3 that a western European fuel and food crisis "of great severity and danger" grows increasingly acute "in virtually every non-Soviet country abroad."

Restrictive Practices

The Department of Justice is charging the National Association of Real Estate Boards with holding up housing, when as a matter of fact, the Nation-wide complaint of real estate agents is that they cannot find anything to sell.

Congress has set up a committee to find out why there is a shortage of housing. Any 10-year-old school boy should be able to tell them. When bricklayers are getting $22 per day and on top of that are deliberately restricting the number of bricks laid per day to less than half the normal, it means that today it costs at least $44 to get as many bricks laid as could have been laid for $12, under normal conditions.

The labor unions are getting ready to try to purge from Congress those who voted for the Taft-Hartley law. They will conduct a house to house canvass to "get out the vote." If the white collar workers who have had no salary increases and who are not in the labor unions are too lazy to register and go to the polls to support the Congressmen who took their political lives in their hands, to try to put a stop to the featherbedding practices of certain labor unions, they deserve to go on paying through the nose for housing, automobiles and everything else.

The Taft-Hartley law permits a labor union to do anything that reasonable men ought to ask to be permitted to do. It prohibits only those things which give those in the labor unions an unfair and unreasonable advantage over their fellow men. That they ought not to ask. F. G. CAMPBELL.

Greenbelt Cooperative

I wish to correct the erroneous impression left by the Greenbelt Cooperative story in The Washington Post of September 3. The story started by stating as a fact, not as an allegation of the House Small Business Committee, that the Greenbelt Cooperative paid less than 30 per cent of the Federal taxes it would have been charged as a private corporation. This is absolutely false. A private corporation, selling at the same effective prices as the cooperative would have paid precisely the same taxes.

The fallacy of the committee's arguments lies in their distortion of the true significance of patronage refunds. Patronage refunds are not profits, as the committee asserts, but price cuts and as such are not properly taxable. Any private business is entirely free to effect the same tax savings by making price reductions.

A study of the history of the cooperative movement will prove this. The basic idea of the cooperative is selling goods to members at the actual cost of handling plus a small fixed rate of profit on the capital invested paid to each member according to the number of shares he owns. At first the attempt was made to fix prices in advance on this basis, but because of the many factors involved it became difficult to do so. Therefore cooperatives usually found that they had charged too much or too little and often ran into financial difficulties.

In order to correct this it was decided to fix the prices after the goods had been sold and all the costs were determined. The customer pays a sum about the same or a little below the prices charged in ordinary stores and at the end of the accounting period the actual costs are calculated and the overpayments are returned to the members as patronage refunds.

If the committee's arguments were carried to their logical conclusion the Government would require private businessmen who voluntarily cut prices and thus reduce their profits to pay as much in taxes as their competitors who sell at greater prices and make greater profits. JOHN R. CARLSON.
Washington.

The Washington Post was glad to make a front page headline out of: "Greenbelt's Tax Savings Topped 70 Per Cent."

Since The Washington Post is interested in printing all the facts in every important story, it will be glad to headline this fact: "Greenbelt Cut $99,540 Off Cost of Living."

Your "Tax Savings" story on the front page of September 3 stated: ". . . the cooperative paid Federal income taxes totaling $25,299 for the seven years of 1940-46 (inclusive). Had the cooperative been a privately owned corporation, it would have had to pay $85,447 in similar taxation, he estimated."

That last figure—$85,447—was an estimate of Willis J. Ballinger, counsel for the House Small Business Committee. Mr. Ballinger did not release another estimate he must have made—the total profits that would have required his theoretical corporation to pay a Federal income tax of $85,447.

Had the cooperative been a privately owned corporation, its net profits would have increased the cost of living in Greenbelt by at least $99,540. This amount—$99,540—the Greenbelt Cooperative made available in cash refunds on purchases to its customers. (Any customer who buys one $10 share of cooperative stock can collect a patronage refund in proportion to his purchases of the previous year.) The Greenbelt Cooperative gave its customers $99,540 in patronage refunds and paid Federal income taxes of $25,299 on the remainder.

Mr. Flynn's Republic

YOU'RE THE BOSS, by Edward J. Flynn. (Viking Press, $3.)

The curious thing about Mr. Flynn's book on politics is the utter absence of political ideas. It is curious because Mr. Flynn, for all his naivete, is obviously an intelligent man, and apparently also a man of education, who has, so his publishers assure us, "a long-time love of letters and a literary background"; but if he has ever reflected on such matters as the origin and purpose of the state, the constitution of the good society, the problem of the few and the many, and the relationship of politics and economics he has carefully kept his reflections to himself. Nor is he much less reticent of his opinions on the more urgent and concrete political questions that are now vexing the world. He is in no way concerned with principles or policies, but only with the techniques of politics as they are practiced in the United States under the special set of circumstances created by the Twelfth Amendment to the Constitution. These circumstances are taken by the positivistic Mr. Flynn as much for granted as the weather or the progression of seasons. Thus the whole purpose of politics, as he tells us with ingenuous candor, is merely the winning of elections and the purpose of winning elections is "to enjoy the fruits of victory."

Mr. Flynn, of course, has been winning elections and enjoying the fruits of victory these many years. There is, I am sure, no need to remind you that he is the boss, or, to put it formally, chairman of the executive committee, of the Democratic Party in the Borough of the Bronx, or that he was chairman of the Democratic National Committee, during three of the last five years of the Roosevelt Administration. He makes no bones whatever about confessing that he owes his rise in politics to the patronage of the late Charles F. Murphy, and that he has maintained his power by his own control of local patronage, by personal favors to his henchmen and their relatives, and by his prescience in choosing the winning side in the various intra-Tammany conflicts. Mr. Flynn is, as I said, a positivist; he does not bother to defend the ethics of government by political machines; he simply asserts that where a two-party system prevails no other kind of government is possible; thus the argument about whether machine government is intrinsically good or bad is rhetorical and irrelevant. Political machines and their bosses have of course been overthrown; but this means merely that they have been supplanted by another machine, and this indeed not infrequently happens when an entrenched machine becomes too lawless and greedy, as in the example of the Pendergast gang in Kansas City. Thus the character and quality of machine government depends upon the degree of interest taken by the citizens in what the bosses do and in how they do it. Since the paramount desire of the boss is to win elections he will win them, if he must, by nominating qualified candidates for the offices to be filled. In respect to good government, then, the primary election is much more important than the general election; and so, observes Mr. Flynn, if the people who teach civics courses knew what they were talking about, they would not glorify the "independent voter," as they do, but would condemn him as a shirker.

So it appears that the question of honesty and corruption is one of expediency rather than of morality. The Bronx machine does not pay money for votes, mainly because it doesn't have to, but also because Mr. Flynn discovered that money provided for such a purpose may get no farther than the pockets of the petty politicians who offer to do the purchasing. Similarly, it is unprofitable to do business with professional gangsters, although, as Mr. Flynn acknowledges, many political bosses have thought otherwise. The gangsters, if we may trust Mr. Flynn, had no little to do with electing Mr. LaGuardia, a reformers' candidate, Mayor of New York in 1934. But the trouble with gangsters, it seems, is that such services as they are able to render in the way of illegal registration and voting come at a destructively high price and there is therefore no place for them in any efficient and durable machine. Nevertheless, at higher levels and among political peers bartering is still the essence of the political art. Thus at Chicago in 1932 the question of which of two rival delegations from Louisiana should be seated was quickly resolved for Mr. Flynn and his associates by the assurance of the late Huey Long that he and his set of delegates intended to support the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt. But there are some situations in which bargaining is impracticable; the choice of Mr. Truman as vice presidential candidate in 1940 was imposed arbitrarily on the convention after Messrs Flynn and Roosevelt had agreed that he was the candidate likely to frighten away the fewest votes. At a national convention, as Mr. Flynn reminds us, all the important questions are decided by "considerably less than 100 men," and there is nothing much for the delegates to do except attend the parties and to vote when they are told to.

But even politicians, however positivistic, are human and thereby prone to curious error. Mr. Flynn tells us, among other examples, that the nomination of Prof. William E. Dodd of Chicago, as Ambassador to Berlin, was sent to the Senate merely because the White House had confused him with Prof. Walter F. Dodd of the University of Illinois. Politicians also can be sensitive, it seems, and Mr. Flynn is still a little bitter about the business of the Belgian paving blocks under which the Senate buried his nomination as Minister to Australia.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

Month Before Doomsday

ROME, SEPT. 7.—Here in this ancient city, the surface of life is deceptively tranquil and agreeable. Among their monuments of 2600 years, among the fountains and the flowers, the people of Rome appear to enjoy themselves without a care for the morrow. Yet here a disaster is preparing which, if not averted, is entirely capable of undermining the whole shaky postwar structure of Europe.

The Italian government is running out of dollars. It is as simple as that. The American public has already received intimations that trouble is afoot. But the dimension, the depth and the extreme urgency of the trouble have not as yet been even vaguely suggested.

In the simplest terms, and according to official estimates agreed upon both by Italian and American authorities, the treasury of Italy now contains no more than 45 million dollars of hard cash. That is the entire reserve. That is all the Italian government has wherewith to buy abroad the wheat, coal and raw materials without which the Italian people cannot live. Since the government must spend approximately 40 million dollars a month on imports to maintain the life of Italy at the present low level, doomsday is only a few weeks off.

FOR US in the complacent United States, with our gigantic budget, it is difficult to conceive the difference that 40 million dollars a month makes in this country. The facts, however, are all too bleakly plain.

The rich eat well on the free market, but the average Italian lives on 200 grams of bread daily, plus a few drops of oil, a little vegetables and a morsel of cheese. Two hundred grams is less than a pound. A very large proportion of the wheat to make the bread is imported, and this proportion must rise in the months ahead because of this summer's bad harvest. Cessation of wheat purchases in the United States will mean a minimum cut in the bread ration of about one-third.

Furthermore, Italian industry imports the bulk of its raw materials and requires 12 million tons of foreign coal annually to keep running. There is already serious unemployment in Italy—at least a million and a half are jobless—chiefly because coal imports are currently at the rate of no more than 10 million tons annually. Of these coal imports, somewhere close to seven million tons must be brought from the United States because of the failure of British and German production.

Thus, if Italy is no longer able to buy coal from America, the entire industrial machine will collapse like a house of cards. With their already inadequate fuel supplies cut by approximately three-quarters, most factories will have to close their doors. It is frightening to calculate what proportion of the six million Italian industrial workers will then be without support.

FOR A LONG TIME the Italian government has been addressing despairing appeals for assistance to the Administration in Washington. Indeed, the first of these appeals must have reached the State Department before President Truman made his curious remark that he saw nothing on the horizon demanding a special session. Nor is it any wonder that the Italian government should be desperate. What threatens here in Italy makes the discussions of the Marshall Plan in Paris almost wholly academic for the present. If aid of some sort is not immediately forthcoming, Italy will be plunged into starvation and joblessness.

Precisely those groups in the population among whom the Communists have made their gains—the industrial workers of the north and the landless agricultural workers—will be hit the hardest. The whole economy will inevitably collapse in a violent surge of inflation. And the ultimate absorption of Italy into the Soviet sphere will become almost a certainty.

This is the main outline. Washington can still take steps to avert the disaster, but they must be taken quickly. Meanwhile two things are plain. If this disaster is permitted to occur, all the effort of American policy in the past two years will be wasted. Moreover, if Italy enters the Soviet sphere, the eastern Mediterranean and the Middle East will be cut off, and the rest of western Europe will be in urgent danger. For want of a sum approximately one-third as large as the American female population pours annually into the beauty parlors, the United States will be brought to straits as inherently desperate as the straits of Britain after Munich. This is a crisis worse than the Greek crisis of last winter.

Second Battle Of OPA

By Kenneth Crawford

Associate Editor Newsweek

Back To Price Controls?

NOTE—During Ernest Lindley's absence on vacation, his column is being written by Roscoe Drummond, chief of the Washington Bureau of the Christian Science Monitor, and Kenneth Crawford, associate editor of Newsweek.)

A SERIOUS EFFORT to revive controls, or some of them, at the next session of Congress is cooking in the kitchen cabinet. Restoration of the OPA, under some sweeter name, may be recommended in the October report of President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers, the influential group of economists set up under the so-called Full-Employment Act. Coming from this source, such a proposal couldn't be laughed off easily as a hare-brained scheme for restoration of the New Deal bureaucracy.

If advance information about the report is as reliable as it has been on other occasions, the commission will point out that prices are still dangerously high and still rising. It will recall that all Truman's efforts to keep them down by persuasion failed. It will conclude that the only logical answer to all this would seem to be temporary return to Government control, not over all the prices regulated during the war, but over the prices of key commodities most readily susceptible to regulation at the wholesale level.

It is, therefore, possible that the Second Battle of OPA will be fought next year. The first Battle of OPA ended in Democratic rout on the floor of Congress and Republican triumph at the polls in the 1946 congressional elections. Republicans doubtless will win again in Congress if the issue comes to a vote. But the probability is that any price-control bill will be killed off in Republican-dominated committees.

REPUBLICANS CAN WIN the price-control battles one way or another as long as they retain their present commanding majorities in the House and Senate. But this doesn't necessarily mean that they can win the war. The ultimate victor will be determined by the 1948 Presidential and Congressional elections. This time price control may be as popular as it was unpopular a year ago. It may be the determining campaign issue, as it was last time, but the outcome may well be reversed.

Many voters and a few politicians have changed their minds about controlled prices in the last few months. Republicans are certain to be haunted for a long time by their postwar prediction that prices would come down automatically once producers and distributors were freed from the hobbling restraints imposed by Chester Bowles and his cohorts. Organized labor was never very much impressed with this prediction but middle class people, with more or less fixed incomes, doubtless were. When prices failed to respond to freedom in the promised fashion these people were disillusioned and they have become increasingly angry about it.

And it doesn't do Senator Taft very much good to remind them, as he frequently does, that the Republican Congress never flatly refused to extend price controls—that it only refused to pass the bill Truman wanted and that Truman himself vetoed the measure he was given. Neither does it profit Taft very much to point out that wages were set free long before prices were decontrolled and led the inflationary movement that now has got completely out of hand. Pleas in mitigation aren't likely to be effective with angry voters, particularly when they rest on complicated legislative maneuvers already lost in history.

THE UNPLEASANT CONSEQUENCES of too-high prices are cumulative. Until now many American families have found it possible to keep up with the Joneses even though their incomes have fallen far behind in the race with inflated prices by drawing on wartime savings. These savings are gone or dwindling. From now on there will be a real pinch, especially since it is necessities, like meat, that are becoming dearer.

Indirect results of price inflation also are beginning to be understood and felt. It is obvious, for example, that the sharp rise in American prices is responsible in some measure for the current crisis abroad. Britain's borrowed dollars are worth only slightly more than half as much in terms of desperately needed American supplies now as they were when borrowed. That is one of the reasons they have been so quickly spent. To a lesser degree the dollar inflation also has hurt other U. S. customers like France and Italy. Now the Marshall Plan must be rushed to fruition to give further relief.

One American writer now in London puts it this way: "American businessmen did not act with intelligence and foresight, such as displayed by their opposite numbers in Canada (where prices are still controlled). On the contrary, they wrecked price controls . . . Prices went up almost 50 per cent and the world ran out of dollars. Make no mistake, in the eyes of the world the villain is free enterprise . . . While crisis succeeds crisis in the free western world, there are no crises in the Russian sphere. Standards of living may be painfully low, but there is nothing to prevent their steady improvement."

Thus, in the crucial contest now going on between totalitarian Russia and free America, price freedom has played into totalitarian hands. When all the returns are in, it may be found that the effects of high prices on our foreign allies was what cost us most.

Loy Henderson Given Credit For Greek Cabinet Solution

By M. W. Fodor

Post Reporter

Athens, Greece.—Success has apparently crowned the mission of Loy Henderson, chief of the Near East Division of the American State Department.

Working quietly, Henderson accomplished something the Greeks could not bring about themselves—agreement on a cabinet.

Announcement that Constantin Tsaldaris had agreed to step down as premier and serve under Themistocles Sophoulis, "grand old man of Greece," was received with unconcealed joy everywhere in Athens.

Henderson, accompanied by Lincoln MacVeagh, American Ambassador, conferred with Tsaldaris, Sophoulis and the King, and shortly thereafter anouncement was made.

It is true that Sophoulis is very old (he admits to 87 years and is probably older), but that does not mean he will be a figurehead and that Tsaldaris, popular leader, will actually be the power behind the throne. Sophoulis is an independent old fighter and his Liberal party colleagues will see to it that he is given proper backing.

Sophoulis is insistent that internal peace in Greece depends on complete amnesty for everyone concerned in the civil war that is raging in the Northern mountains. That will be his program.

"I am hoping that formation of a coalition givernment of the two great national parties will bring about national unity," Sophoulis told me after the two-hour conference with Henderson and MacVeagh. It appeared that the Americans were satisfied with the information they had received.

Sophoulis declared that complete indentity of views existed between him and the Americans, and that, contrary to reports, he was not approached on the question of army leadership by Henderson and MacVeagh, because there was absolutely no American discussion of details. Far from intervening the American representatives confined themselves completely to expressing the desirability of national unity.

Conn.), has suggested that, as an entering wedge, the United States voluntarily surrender one of its veto rights—that of depriving the international court of jurisdiction over disputes which this country may regard as purely domestic.

A few Senators maintain that the Security Council veto should be made inoperative in cases where two-thirds of the 11-nation body agree on a course of action.

Senator Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.) yesterday also raised his voice against a special session of Congress. He said that Mr. Truman should give the Nation a definite report on the European outlook before any decision is made.

"We don't intend to go into this thing blindly," he said, echoing the words of Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.). "The Administration should give the public all the facts."

Vandenberg has left the recall decision up to President Truman. The President is not expected to take such action without:

1. A recommendation from Secretary of State George C. Marshall who, it is understood, is still open-minded on the issue.

2. Consultations with Vandenberg, House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., and other top GOP leaders.

Marshall is pondering a preliminary report on Europe by George F. Kennan, chairman of State Department's top policy-making group.

Russia Stands Pat

[Russia reiterated its flat opposition to any modification of the veto in a letter sent Saturday to Sir Alexander Cadogan by Ambassador Andrei Gromyko.

[A statement that the Soviet government had "declined" to waive the veto was connected with atomic control decisions was misquoted in The Washington Post of Sunday. Through a typographical error the report stated that Russia had "decided" to waive the veto instead of reporting that Russia had "declined" to waive the veto. —Editor's Note]

Sen. Young Predicts Special Session Call

By The Associated Press

Senator Young (R., N. Dak.) declared yesterday he believes that Congress, "after a battle," will approve some version of the Marshall Plan to help put Europe back on its feet.

Even then, he added, United States troops would have to stay in Europe to protect any machinery and equipment sent over since, "otherwise, we would just be turning it over to Communism."

ficant. United States officials apparently wanted the conference to get under way before the General Assembly convenes, if the conference was to be held at all. If plans for the conference fell through, then the way would be clear for the United States to take the case to the United Nations.

Russia's refusal to join the talks apparently makes it useless for the other three powers to resolve any differences they have. No matter what they decided upon, the Soviets would still remain in control of the north zone.

The Soviet-American commission in Seoul has been working on the Korean problem off and on for almost two years without making progress. The State Department proposed the talks here after giving up hope that the commission would ever agree on the basic issues.

In the proposal for the four-power conference, the United States called for a joint report from the commission on its fruitless negotiations. State Department officials said the report had not been received, although the deadline set for it was last Friday.

Chief obstacle to the commission's efforts was Russia's refusal to establish a government representative of all Korean political segments.

Draft Of Proposed U. S. Treaty

By The Associated Press

Assistant Secretary of State William Benton made public yesterday the draft of a suggested international agreement of freedom of information prepared under the direction of Richard J. Finnegan, publisher of the Chicago Times. At the same time, Benton invited interested persons and organizations to submit comments and suggestions on the proposed draft to the State Department.

The draft resulted, Benton said, from his request to Finnegan to formulate a suggested treaty which would reflect prevalent thinking in press, radio and motion-picture circles and would express principles which private industry would like to see written into treaties.

In preparing the draft, Warren H. Pierce of the Chicago Times staff, consulted personally some 75 leaders of the newspaper, magazine, radio and motion-picture industries. Printed copies of the original version were mailed to more than 4000 persons and organizations. Hundreds of responses furnished suggestions considered in preparing the final draft.

Covers International News

The proposed treaty covers those aspects of freedom of information connected with the gathering and international transmission of news and information. Among other things, correspondents—defined so as to include press, radio and film personnel—would be guaranteed the right to enter other countries and travel freely about. Their copy could be sent in and out without censorship except such as might be required for reasons of military security.

In his letter of transmittal to Benton, Finnegan pointed out that the principles expressed in the suggested treaty are such as could be used in the United Nations, or in a multilateral convention signed by many countries, or in bilateral agreements between the United States and other governments.

In releasing the draft Benton said, "the free flow of news and information among nations and peoples was never more necessary than it is today, and never faced with a greater array of deliberately erected barriers. Mr. Finnegan and his associates have undertaken to crystallize the deeply held but rarely formulated views of the executives of American private information agencies on this problem. The principles expressed in Mr. Finnegan's draft would help to make it possible for news, radio and film agencies to seek and disseminate accurate information everywhere; in Secretary Marshall's phrase, to cover the earth with truth. The Department of State is grateful to Mr. Finnegan and the Chicago Times for the time and the intelligence they have given to this crucial matter."

Finnegan's Letter

Mr. Finnegan's letter to Mr. Benton, transmitting the draft follows:

"Honorable William Benton,
"Assistant Secretary of State,
"Washington, D. C.
"Dear Mr. Benton:

"Herewith is a draft of a suggested International Treaty on Freedom of Information.

"In November, 1946, you asked me to attempt the preparation of such a draft. It was to reflect as much as possible the prevalent thinking among the information media of our Nation—the press, radio and motion pictures. You said that the State Department would like to see a draft that expressed, in principle, the ideas that private industry would expect to have our Government write into an international agreement.

"I consented to undertake the chore because for many years newspapermen had been hoping that Congress and the State Department would get busy and do something on the subject. There had been a lot of discussion but no action.

"The sentiment for action is stronger now than ever. Leaders in the newspaper and other media feel that this is one of those important subjects that is so much above party and personality differences that it should attract prompt, unanimous and lasting attention in both Houses, as well as in the State Department.

"It will be impossible to get all the elements of private industry to agree on the wording of such a document. We think we have covered the principles on which all agree.

"The principles are such as could be used within the United Nations or a multilateral convention of nations or for a bilateral agreement. Right now it is felt that a start should be made with a bilateral treaty. It is our opinion that this draft expresses:

"1. The principle of freedom of speech and freedom of the press that exists in the United States.

"2. The principle of freedom of movement, freedom of observation, and freedom of transmission of facts and ideas.

"3. The principle of world public opinion as the ultimate source of judgment in controversies between information media and government.

"We have tried to comb all possible sources from which we could get ideas for presentation to the State Department in the draft that is attached to this letter. Warren H. Pierce of our staff, in seven months has consulted personally some 75 leaders of the newspaper, magazine, radio and motion picture industries. Printed copies of the original draft were mailed to more than 4000 persons. The original draft was printed in full in Editor and Publisher. Hundreds of responses brought suggestions to us.

"We are especially indebted to Quincy Wright, University of Chicago authority on international law; John O. Levinson, a member of the Chicago bar who specializes in foreign relations activities, and Frederick S. Siebert, head of the journalism school of the University of Illinois, all of whom participated in the drafting and redrafting conferences.

"During the time that our inquiry has been under way the discussion regarding the 'responsibilities and obligations' of the press has been called to our attention.

Government Controls Hit

"It has been suggested that unless the United States accept certain ideas regarding the 'responsibilities and obligations' in order to woo response from totalitarian states, there is no chance of this formula being accepted by governments with which we would like to negotiate.

"All who are aware of the faults of the American press deplore them and have worked for their correction. But a completely free press will cancel out its own evils long before any government would.

"If the servants of the people in government are permitted to control the voice of those who select the servants, the only recourse the people have left is forceful rebellion. And Jefferson's idea still holds: that freedom of the press is the substitute for rebellion.

"Those who talk about responsibilities and obligations use language that almost parallels that employed in England in 1680 when the King and the judiciary decided to put down 'lies or vain reports which are many times raised on purpose to scandalize the government,' etc. That effort of government against 'lies' was so disastrous to truth, public welfare and individual freedom that it became one of the precedents for the American concept that the press must be free, not fettered by any magistrates of government.

Not a Jot Less Freedom

"We wish to impress upon you that there is unanimity among the communication media of the United States that we should enter into no treaty with any country on any terms that shrink American practice one jot. We cannot abridge freedom of the press under our Constitution; we should not do it under a treaty. We who have worked on this draft think that it would be far better to have an agreement with a half-dozen nations consistent with the American belief that the free press is the defender of the people's rights than to agree with all the nations of the world on any pact or treaty that would change our traditional conception of the independence of the press.

"Sincerely yours,
"RICHARD J. FINNEGAN."

Following is the draft of the treaty on Freedom of Information:

Individuals and peoples improve their understanding of each other through communication of facts and ideas. In order to promote freedom of expression by every means of communication, including speech, writing, press, radio, motion picture and art, and to assure to their respective peoples the benefits of free access to information and opinion, the high contracting parties agree to the following articles:

Treaty Terms Defined

Article 1. For the purposes of simplification and understanding, certain terms used hereinafter are hereby defined.

(a) "Information agencies" shall mean: Newspaper, magazine and book publishing organizations; press associations and news or feature services; radio and television stations and networks; motion picture producing companies.

(b) "Correspondents" shall mean: Properly accredited journalists, press reporters, photographers, columnists, editors and publishers; radio and television reporters, commentators and technicians; news artists and illustrators; newsreel and other documentary picture production personnel. A correspondent shall be deemed to be properly accredited when he is the holder of a passport duly issued to him by his own nation certifying that he is a correspondent, and provided he is admissible to the nation of destination under its general laws governing the entry of visitors or immigrants.

(c) "Copy" shall mean all reports of information or opinion, whether visual or auditory, intended by correspondents or information agencies for publication.

Article 2. Correspondents from each signatory (together with their equipment) shall have free ingress to and egress from the territories of the other for the purpose of carrying on the activities of their calling.

Article 3. Correspondents from each signatory shall be permitted freely to travel within the territories of the other and to have access to all places and all news sources available to the correspondents of the most favored nation.

Free Egress Stipulated

Article 4. All copy of correspondents or information agencies of each signatory shall be permitted free egress from the territories of the other without censorship, deletion or editing. Provided that: each of the signatories may make and enforce regulations applicable to foreign correspondents relating directly to the maintenance of national military security, if such regulations apply equally to all such correspondents. In the event that the copy of any correspondent is detained or delayed the correspondent shall be notified immediately of such action and given a full explanation of the reasons therefor.

Article 5. The correspondents of each signatory in the territory of the other shall have access to all facilities for the transmission of copy and may transmit copy on the same basis and at the same rates applicable to all other users of such facilities for similar purposes.

Article 6. Each of the signatories agrees to permit all copy of the information agencies of the other to enter its territory and reach its information agencies on the same conditions as are accorded to information agencies of the most favored nation.

Article 7. Nothing herein shall be construed as depriving the nationals of any signatory of the remedies provided by the domestic laws of such signatories concerning the publication of libel, slander or obscene material.

Correspondents on Board

Article 8. (a) In order to facilitate attainment of the objectives of this agreement, the International Information Commission (hereinafter called the commission) shall be established, to be composed of representative correspondents or executives of information agencies designated by their respective governments.

(b) The commission shall have jurisdiction over all causes arising out of a petition filed by a party in interest alleging breach of one or more of the terms of this agreement. It shall be empowered to decide all questions as to its jurisdiction arising hereunder, and to promulgate rules of procedure, evidence and such other rules as it may deem necessary to fulfill its functions hereunder. Subject to such restrictions as are hereinafter set forth.

(c) A party in interest in the original instance shall be any correspondent or information agency alleging injury because of violation of this agreement.

(d) Opportunity shall be given the respondent to answer the petition, thereafter, upon the initiative of the commission or at the request of either party a public hearing shall be held.

(e) Upon conclusion of the hearing, the commission shall publish a written report which shall include the findings and opinion of the majority of the commission, together with any special concurring or dissenting opinions. The commission, whenever it deems appropriate, may make an abridgement of the report which shall be published simultaneously with the text of the report.

World Court Final Arbiter

(f) In the event of the non-appearance of the respondent in any case arising hereunder, a public hearing shall be conducted ex parte and a report shall issue as in the case of adversary hearings.

(g) The signatories agree that any report or abridgment thereof, of the commission, shall be made freely available to all information agencies of all nations, and to such repositories of information as libraries, schools and universities, and shall be made available at cost to all nationals of the respective signatories.

Article 9. If, after the commission has issued its report, diplomacy fails to settle the dispute between the signatories concerning the interpretation of this agreement, or the consistency of the report of the commission, either signatory by unilateral application may invoke the jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice.

D. C. Crimes Up 28% in Year, Reach High Point of Decade

38 to 45, and there was an increase in incest offenses from 3 to 6.

Other Increases

There were slight increases in the offenses of arson, embezzlement, false pretenses, forgery, mayhem and receiving stolen property.

The association said its reports on these crimes were "obtained from police teletyp records and incidental reports to the Police Department."

The report notes that each case is followed through the "subsequent steps of the criminal process," namely, apprehension, preliminary hearing in Municipal Court or before the United States Commissioner, action by the Grand Jury, disposition in Criminal Court, release on probabtion or cimmitment, and finally, parole.

The association, whose managing director is James Allen Nolan, offers these explanations for the rising tide of crime:

1—The general unrest following a war era.

2—The displacement of persons from war industry.

3—The greater availability of weapons.

4. The economic hardship caused by high cost of living on persons with a marginal subsistence income.

5. The return of much of the male population from service life to civilian life.

6. The maturing of juvenile delinquents who grew up during a severe period of unrest to participation in the field of serious crime.

Precinct No. 2 Leads

Although the increase in serious crimes in the District during the calendar year of 1946 was rather generally distributed throughout the precincts, the greatest number of offenses occurred in Precincts No. 2, 1 and 13, in that order.

Here are how the precincts ranked in volume of serious crime:

No. 2	1232
No. 1	890
No. 13	681
No. 9	582
No. 4	484
No. 3	452
No. 11	448
No. 10	411
No. 8	237
No. 12	213
No. 6	212
No. 5	193
No. 7	124

The report points out that the precincts in which the greatest volumn of serious crimes occurred compose the major commercial area of the city with a large residential fringe of substandard living accommodations.

"Included in the area," the report said, "are numerous low class amusement centers, cheap rooming houses, and residence missions for the derelict population which periodically inhabit the penal institutions."

Cleared 56.9%

According to the Criminal Justice Association, they cleared 3500 of the 6159 serious crimes by the end of 1946, or 56.9 per cent of the total.

This was the breakdown on cases cleared by police: 3190 by actual arrest, 183 because the complainant refused to prosecute, and 127 for miscellaneous technical reasons.

There were 2659 serious cases open at the end of the year, in which no arrest had been made and no other clearance claimed by police.

In 1945, police cleared 2473 serious crime cases of those reported, for an average of 56 per cent.

In 1946 they upped their average by almost one percentage point and solved 1027 more cases than in the previous year.

Even so, the report states that it is a "disturbing fact" that the 2659 serious crimes of 1946 still uncleared include 1534 housebreakings, 350 grand larcenies and 245 robberies.

106 Homicides in Year

The year 1946 witnesses more homicides (106) in Washington than in any year since 1936. Of the homicides, 11 were solved by the suicide of the murder and 20 were adjudged justifiable homicides by the coroner's jury.

In 10 cases occurring near the end of the calendar year an arrest was made, but there was not sufficient time for indictments to be returned.

Sharp, Exciting Melodrama In Gangster Film at Capitol

(Mr. Brady, an instructor in the speech and drama department at Catholic University, has handled theater reviews while Richard L. Coe was on vacation. Mr. Coe returns tomorrow.)

By Leo Brady

THE SOUNDEST advice you can be given about "Kiss of Death" now on the Capitol screen is simply: see it. It is a sharp, exciting melodrama endowed with practically uninterrupted tension, drawing in the wake of its suspense some genuinely affective emotional scenes.

Written and directed with care and precision, the film carries throughout its story-telling the curt pungency of the gangster idiom in which its characters speak and builds at climactic moments to the wailing agitation of a police siren.

"Kiss of Death" is a gangster film, but it is distinguished because it avoids, for the most part, the criminal excesses of many of its forbears. The story of Nick Bianco, a man with a police record who turns informer, is told crisply and dramatically, with believable motivation and full-bodied characters.

You will have to go far back through the movie thrill annals to find a scene equal to the final sequences when the hunted man becomes himself the hunter and sets off in search of a bullet.

If the picture doesn't quite make an actor out of Victor Mature, at least it puts him in such good company that he is forced to play somewhat over his shining curly head. Under the spell of a script by Ben Hecht and Charles Lederer and with the firm and knowing hand of Director Henry Hathaway guiding him, old sensitive nostrils is in there pitching every minute.

Chief influence on him is a young man named Richard Widmark who plays Tommy Undo, a jeering, relentless gunman who could take on George Raft, Edward G. Robinson and James Cagney without missing a single beat of his insane, unmusical laugh.

Widmark, an actor who managed somehow to get buried in bad Broadway plays for a long time, is probably lost to the stage forever after this. He'll spend the rest of his career pushing old ladies down stairways—despite the fact that he did an excellent juvenile lead in "Trio" and a good farce part in "Kiss Them for Me."

Anyway, in "Kiss of Death" he is nothing less than superb—and if he appears at times to overload his histrionic gat, it's probably because we have become so browbeaten by superb-inhibited performers.

KISS OF DEATH

A Twentieth-Century Fox Picture. Directed by Henry Hathaway. Screen Play by Ben Hecht and Charles Lederer from a story by Eleazar Lipsky. At the Capitol.

CAST

Nick Bianco	Victor Mature
D'Angelo	Brian Donlevy
Nettie	Coleen Gray
Tom Udo	Richard Widmark
Earl Howser	Taylor Holmes
Warden	Howard Smith
Sergt. Cullen	Karl Malden
Ma Rizzo	Mildred Dunnock
Williams	Anthony Ross
Skeets	J. Scott Smart
Blondie	Temple Texas
Max Schulte	Millard Mitchell

Otherwise, the film gives you Brian Donlevy as an assistant district attorney, Coleen Gray as the girl Mature discovers he left behind him when he took off for Ossining and Taylor Holmes as a sleazy, smooth mouthpiece—as we say.

It also givs you the quite irrelevant assurance that all its scenes were shot authentically in New York City; although in this case, we can be thankful because it meant Widmark was nearby—probably doing a radio soap opera—and was therefore available to turn in a performance you will remember for a long time.

The Capitol stage offers you Bob Evans and his alter-ego Jerry, Andree, Andre and Bonnie, Allen and Kent assisted by Emma Francis, and Mary McClanahan, a girl who can drum on anything. Sam Jack Kaufman and the pit orchestra feature themselves for a change in an overture medley.

7 Foreigners To Be Deported From Norfolk

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 7 (AP).—Seven young foreigners are being held in the Norfolk Jail today awaiting deportation on the ships upon which they arrived here.

An immigration board held a special hearing Friday night and ordered all seven deported. The immigration service office here reported that no appeals were entered.

Six arrived yesterday aboard the American steamer Sarah Pone Jewett, from Le Havre, and a 19-year-old Frenchman, Michael Shayhe, was aboard the Keystone State, which sailed from Rotterdam.

Those aboard the Jewett were: Manno A. Huortari, 26, a Finn; Alfonso Fanchez, 23; Silvestre Unzeita Vicandi, 24; Jose Nunez Aristuro, 30; Moracio Reguo, 26, and Jose Lecurn Berru, 23. The last-named five are Spaniards.

Bell Backs Social Group, Chest Union

Daniel W. Bell, president of the Community Chest Federation of Washington, yesterday strongly indorsed proposed consolidation of the Chest and the Council of Social Agencies.

The plan, recommended to governing bodies of the Chest and Council August 29, awaits approval by these groups.

In a statement, Bell said the reorganization "should achieve the greatest possible efficiency and economy as well as greater understanding and cooperation" from the community.

A single board of trustees with 212 members would replace the two separate boards now operating, Bell explained.

Trustees of the Chest-Council would represent civic groups, community organizations, public and private welfare agencies.

Bell expressed "hope" that "differences of opinion will now be set aside in the interest of meeting our varied and complex problems." He added:

"The Community Chest Federation is a community affair and its functions are the direct responsibility of not just a few but each and every citizen of this area."

Still Needs Teachers

Leonardtown, Md., Sept. 7.—With more than 3000 pupils expected to turn out for the opening of school tomorrow, the St. Mary's County Board of Education is still faced with a teacher shortage.

Board members said that vacancies exist for science and vocational agrieulture teachers in the high schools, and for upper grade and physical educations teachers in elementary schools. More teaching applicants were reported this year following the general raise in salaries.

District and Va. Parochial Schools Reopen Tomorrow

Washington and Virginia parochial schools reopen tomorrow morning, while on Wednesday, public school students in Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties will begin their trek back to classes.

Registration of new public school students in Montgomery and Prince Georges will be held tomorrow and Tuesday.

School bells in Arlington, Alexandria, and Fairfax rang Thursday. Maryland Catholic schools opened September 3.

Some 73,000 District school children will return to school on September 22. Registration of new students in Washington began September 2 and will continue through September 21.

King Quits Legal Post

Fredericksburg, Va., Sept. 7.—Mayor W. Marshall King resigned yesterday as Commissioner of Accounts for Fredercksburg Circuit Court, a post to which he was appointed in 1935. King must relinquish his law practice and all legal duties because of his appointment as a member of the State Corporation Commission by Governor Tuck on August 29. King will join the SCC in October. . .

Army Reports Reds Plot to Take Italy

By Drew Pearson

Undersecretary of State Lovett didn't say anything about it, but one factor behind his strong hint that Congress must return to cope with trouble in Europe was the discovery that Soviet Russia was plotting a Communist revolution in Italy.

Lovett

The United States Army has discovered hidden stores of Communist arms, and an underground Italian-Slav army ready to seize northern Italy as soon as the American Army evacuates. United States agents in disguise have attended Communist meetings, and now have the names of the leaders, plus full details regarding the size and location of the Communist army, and arms hidden.

Probably the fact that this Communist plot is now ripe was what caused Moscow's sudden decision to ratify the Italian peace treaty. Up until two weeks ago, the American Army was digging in for another winter in Italy. But now, under the terms of the sudden ratified peace treaty, it must withdraw within 90 days, leaving Italy at the mercy of Soviet-inspired revolution and intrigue.

Leaders of the carefully planned revolt have been revealed as Dozza Giuseppe, Mayor of Bologna; Luigi Longo, vice commander of the National Association of Italian Partisans; Ilio Barontini, commander of the Emilia-Romagna Single Military Command, and Dr. Aldo Guccho, head of the propaganda office of the Military Command.

"The chief aim of insurrectional action," says the secret War Department report, "is to build a bridgehead for the Slav elements of the Emilia-Romagna region.

"Thus a sort of wedge would be built along the Adriatic coast from Ravenna toward Chioggia, with advanced points on the Parma, Modema, Reggia, Bologna line. The occupation of this wedge would impede the afflux of (United States) troops and equipment from the Leghorn replacement depot toward central Europe. This would practically isolate Allied occupation troops in Germany, because similar disturbances would be carried out on French territory by similar semimilitary organizations of the Communist Party.

"In any event, the supply route across France would be longer and less well organized than the one now used from Leghorn.

"To further the Italian insurrectional aims, the occupation wedge would, by acts of sabotage on highways and railways, ambush and other guerilla tactics, cut off the movement of the Allies in support of the government troops sent to crush the insurrection.

A New Mussolini?

"The preparation is perfectly worked out at Modena, Bologna, Reggio, and Parma, but less so at Forli, Ferrara, and Ravenna (except at strategic coastal points like Comacchio), either because the provinces of Modena, Bologna, Reggio and Parma have been more ready to respond to the Communist appeal or because they have been considered the key to the position, while the other provinces are concerned only with the coastal strip where help would be received from the Dalmatian coast.

"Having started in the heart of Emilia, the movement would immediately extend into the Veneto and the Liguria and gradually embrace the surrounding regions 'like an oil spot,' either through disorganizing and flanking operations of the militarily less organized Red elements of those districts, or by direct armed action, aiming at a new 'March on Rome' whose duce would be LONGO.

"The action is based particularly on surprise and ferocity in the early hours so as to gain a few days of insurrectional autonomy in order to mobilize.

"The movement will be preceded by a 'St. Bartholomew's Night' during which the most fearless anti-Communists and the several directors of the offices not won over to the movement will be eliminated by specialized gappisti groups, so that on the following morning the political and administrative services of the city will be paralyzed owing to lack of leaders. The gappisti will go at night to designated elements uniformed as carabinieri or police agents, and will tell the respective persons that they have to hold them for police or legal measures. The execution will take place later in the respective centers."

Red Officers in Italy

Citing direct Soviet aid given to the Ialian Communists, the report states:

"The Russian officers residing at the Soviet repatriation office of Salsomaggiere are the technical advisers of the Regional Command.

"A Russian marshal and another officer, not otherwise identified, who arrived in Italy together with Bottonelli, vice secretary of the Communist Federation of Bologne, have been guests of the Communist Party for many months. Bottonelli and a certain Gottardi Memo are presumed to belong to the staff of the Regional General Command.

"If these first insurrectional acts succeed, there will follow the mobilization of volunteers in the respective occupied provinces, the infiltration of disguised slav troops and supplies.

"The whole organization of the Communist Party is presided over by a very small hierarchy of leaders, upon which depends the civil organization and the semimilitary organization of the party.

"The military organization is modeled under the direction of foreign advisers, Russians or Slavs, following the Soviet system of organization. Therefore, it is identical in all the provinces, and it can be said that there exists a semimilitary organization even in the largely anti-Communist provinces."

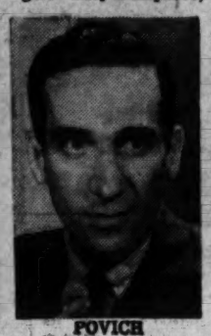
Dodgers Bow, Lose ½ Game as Cards Split; Wrong Way Run Features Colts' 16-7 Win

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

DENVER, SEPT. 7.—The Redskins did not quite resemble a mass of class the other night in Los Angeles when they took that 20-7 beating from the Rams, and were lucky the score wasn't bigger. They'll improve, of course, and I am merely theorizing that any change has to be for the better, but there's need for haste.



POVICH

The Redskins have been representing Washington in the National Football League for 10 years now, sometimes as a very good club, in other years an ordinary outfit, but one item has always remained constant—Sammy Baugh. The Redskins go as far as Baugh takes 'em and it was never so apparent as the other night.

When the annual ballyhoo over the new sensations in the Redskins' training camp subsides, it always boils down to Baugh and his pitching arm. He makes the Redskins move, with his pinpoint passing or the threat of his passing.

This year it's no different. The Redskins' running attack, as it usually is, merely stooges for Baugh's passing business. This is no slur on the club coaches. They're smart in tieing in the team's fate with the world's best passer.

TOO MANY TIMES Baugh doesn't get a fair shake, though. The protection the Redskins give him on his passing is not of the best and that's overstating it. There were times the other night when Baugh was taking the ball from center, scampering back to pass and then running for his life because they weren't blocking for him.

It was in contrast to the excellent protection the Rams were giving Bob Waterfield, who rarely had to pick a Redskin off his neck like Baugh, who found himself involved with the Rams. Yet Sammy completed five passes in a row to get the Redskins their only touchdown. Waterfield outpassed him for the night, yet under the conditions, Baugh's was the better performance.

The tip-off on the lack of deception that handicapped Baugh is offered by the first half statistics the Redskins wound up the first 30 minutes of plays with a net loss of half a yard to show for their running efforts. That weak running attack robbed Sammy of the vital threat of the fake.

THE NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE may not be quite so smug and confident of its top rating in the football business this week, incidentally. The NFL is doing very well, but if it reads the papers it must know by this time that there is another big pro league. The All-American Conference is doing very well, too.

Two conference games were played the other night. In Cleveland the Browns drew 61,000 to their league contest with the Buffalo Bills, a second division outfit of 1946. In New York the Yankees, who had lost their first game of the season, played the Chicago Rockets, and drew more than 36,000 customers. You'd have to say that the league could subsist on that kind of attendance.

The Yankees will be in Los Angeles this week to play the Dons. That contest will draw 70,000. With the Yankees is Buddy Young, the biggest drawing card on the Coast, whose feats with the Fleet City during the war were super-sensational, and who came back to California last year with Illinois Rose Bowl team and recaptivated Coast fans.

THE REDSKINS FIGURE to be a better ball club by the time they open the regular league season, and in one respect—the ends—appear vastly improved over last year. Baugh went far out on the limb in praise of rookie Hugh Taylor, the lanky lad from Oklahoma, and was pitching to him with obvious delight the other night and watching Taylor make some fancy grabs.

On the other end rookie Joe Tereshinski was catching no passes but he was getting into the open, nevertheless, and he, too, figures to be a Baugh target. But it was on defense and as a blocker that Tereshinski played like the best gent in the Redskin line, and he will be very useful, we think.

So will Jim Gillette, the formere Cleveland, former Boston halfback, who never did quite shake loose, but was threatening all evening. He took a couple of Baugh's passes smartly, and apparently will wind up with Dick Todd in the club's starting backfield.

27,418 See Baltimore Triumph in Pro Opener

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

Baltimore, Sept. 7.—Thirty-two seconds of the craziest football you ever saw, topped by a 25-yard gridiron version of Doug Corrigan's stunt, today introduced this city to its new professional football team—the Colts.

From that play on the opening kickoff the Colts, with the franchise of last year's Miami Seahawks, went ahead to open their 1947 All-America Conference season with a sensational 16-7 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

A crowd of 27,418 was treated to almost everything in a football way, including a two-quarter downpour. Before it was over and the Colts were boasting the Eastern Division lead, fans saw their new favorites jump into a lead, fall behind and trail for one and one-half periods, then score the winning and clinching points in the third and fourth quarters.

But that first play of the game was the thriller. It sent everybody—right down to the officials—home in an argumentative mood. Here it is:

Augie Lio, former Georgetown great, kicked off for the Colts. Elmore Harris, speedy Negro back, swished with the ball from his own 5 to the 25, at which point he was tackled hard and fumbled. It looked like the Dodgers were saved when another Brooklyn starter, 210-pound Harry Buffington, grabbed the ball.

But he ran the wrong way with it. Unlike the famous Roy Riegels, who took off in the wrong direction during a Rose Bowl game, Buffington had no Benny Lom to tackle him on the 2-yard line. Buffington went over his own goal untouched.

Suddenly realizing his error, the former Oklahoma A&M player did a hot potato act. He got rid of the ball, but quickly. Some observers thought he was trying to pass. Whatever he was attempting, the ball had barely hit the ground in the end zone before another Georgetown grad, big Jim Castiglia of the Colts, was on it for what was ruled as a touchdown.

It wasn't the last dazzler of the game. After the Colts went behind, 7-6, on the Dodgers' 50-yard march capped by Glenn Dobbs' five-yard streak around end, they outdid themselves to start the second half.

Hillenbrand Runs 96 Yards

Again it was on the kickoff that Billy Hillenbrand, fresh out of Indiana University, grabbed the ball and sprinted 96 yards for a touchdown. That gave the hosts a 13-7 lead and they were in. Hillenbrand cut 17 seconds off the time it had taken Castiglia to score in the first period, finishing his jaunt in 15 seconds flat.

The game-clincher was provided by Ernie Case, former U. C. L. A. ace, in his only appearance. Sidelined with a severe shoulder injury, Case came in with 1:55 of the final period elapsed and booted a perfect field goal from the 16-yard line.

Although threatening all afternoon, the rains didn't come until the start of the second period. Then it poured, letting up just in time for the halftime band concert and other entertainment. By then the field was so sloppy players' numbers were undistinguishable and every step was accompanied by a slip.

Colts Pass Well

Despite the soggy ball, Baltimore hung up an excellent passing record. It tossed 19 passes and completed 11. Big gun was Wilson Schwenk, a product of Washington University in St. Louis, who made good on eight of his 13 attempts for 95 yards.

Hillenbrand stole the running show and helped the Colts to a 9-8 margin in first downs. In two kickoff returns he amassed 134 yards; he intercepted two passes and ran them back 57 yards; he caught one of Schwenk's aerials for 12 yards.

Because of the condition of the field much of the game was played between the 30-yard stripes. The only real scoring threats that fizzled were a pair of field goal tries by Lio, another by the Colts' Steve Nemeth, and a fourth by Brooklyn's Martinovich. All were from beyond the 30-yard line and far wide of the target.

Pendleton Club Takes Canoe Races

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

The Pendleton Canoe Club of New York won the Sir Thomas Lipton Trophy yesterday as the canoeing and rowing events ended the first weekend of the President's Cup Regatta program on the Potomac River.

The trophy, awarded annually to the team scoring the most points in the six events, thus, goes to the New York club for the second straight year. The Lipton Trophy has been won the Pendleton five times since 1935.

Trailing were the host Washington Canoe Club with 17, Potomac Boat Club of Washington with 10, Cacawa of Philadelphia with 5, Balmy Beach of Toronto, Canada, with 4, and Dempsey's Boat House of Washington with 1.

As in the previous year, the Pendleton crew was led home by their international one-man double blade champion Ernie Riedel. The 48-ear-old building supply contractor defended his crown by scoring an easy five-length victory over Potomac's Tommy Horton as 7000 fans looked on.

Riedel teamed with Adolph Springel in two other events, finishing first once and second the other time. With Springel, Riedel won the tandem double blade event.

Paddling for Springel in the canoe tilt, Riedel was on the losing end to the national champion Billy Havens, jr., and Dusty Rhodes of the Washington Canoe Club.

Billy Havens, jr., was the only other contestant to figure in two victories. Besides capturing the national tilting championship for the eleventh consecutive year, he also successfully defended his international crown in the one-man single blade event.

Billy's younger brother, Frank, who owns the international tilting championship, was eliminated in the semifinals by John Eiseman and Ken Clark of Potomac, but his title was not at stake.

By performing so well in the regatta events yesterday, the Havens brothers were following in the tradition of their father, Billy, sr., who held the international one-man single blade championship in 1925 and '26. Billy, sr., was handling the public address speaker yesterday.

The only big upset of the day was perpetrated by the Potomac

Mize Clouts 46th Homer, Giants Edge Brooks, 7-6

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—New York's booming home run bats doomed the Brooklyn Dodgers for the second straight day today as Willard Marshall, Buddy Kerr and Johnny Mize clouted four-baggers good for six runs in the Giants' 7-6 conquest of the league leaders. It was homer No. 46 for Mize.

The Dodgers by losing lost a half game in the National League race to the St. Louis Cardinals, who split with the Cincinnati Reds. The Dodgers now lead by 5½.

A bumper crowd of 50,638 at the Polo Grounds saw the game. The Dodgers smacked out three four-baggers to account for five of their markers. Dixie Walker, Cookie Lavagetto and Pinch-Hitter Gene Hermanski connected for the circuit.

Lavagetto and Hermanski hit their homers in the eighth inning off Larry Jansen, third New York pitcher, to come within one run of a tie.

Ken Trinkle stepped in and stopped them cold.

The Giants got after Clyde King, first of five Brook hurlers, in the first inning with three runs on Bobby Thomson's single, Mize's run-scoring double and Marshall's thirty-fifth homer.

Scarborough Loses
Yanks End Nat Win Streak at Three, 7-1

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

The Nats ended the Yankee losing streak yesterday, dropping the series finale, 7-1, to the pennant-bound New Yorkers.

Any ideas the Nats entertained of making a clean sweep of the four-game set were brushed off in the first inning when the champions-to-be hustled in three runs.

In addition to snapping a three-game losing streak, the game also served as a test for Pitcher Allie Reynolds, bothered with a lame shoulder since August 23. Making his first appearance since then, Reynolds passed the exam in commendable fashion.

He hurled a five-hit shutout for 7 1/3 innings. Manager Bucky Harris, obviously impressed that Reynolds was in fine trim again, permitted him to retire at that point with his seventeenth victory secure.

Vernon Drives One Home

Reynolds' departure enabled Relief Pitcher Joe Page to make his forty-ninth appearance of the season. It also enabled the Nats to avoid a shutout as Mickey Vernon banged him for a single to produce the only Nat run of the day.

It was quite obvious to the 15,122 customers in that first inning that the Nats would not win again as the Yankees started their assault on Ray Scarborough, who suffered his eleventh loss.

Scarborough yielded three of his nine hits that round, but his battery mate Frank Mancuso, wasn't much comfort in the crisis, dropping a perfect throw to pave the way for the big inning.

Yankees Are Off

After Snuffy Stirnweiss had dropped a fly into short right which went for a double, Henrich moved him to third with a long fly to Sherry Robertson in left. Johnny Lindell followed with a bouncer to Eddie Yost and Yost rifled to the plate to catch Stirnweiss. Mancuso tagged him, but overlooked the formality of holding the ball and the Yankees were off.

Joe DiMaggio doubled Lindell to third from where he scored as Billy Johnson grounded out. Aaron Robinson shot a single to center and DiMag checked in with the third run.

DiMaggio's second hit, an infield tap, was the third straight hit of the second inning and scored Henrich with the fourth Yankee run.

Yanks Score Again

Yankee run No. 5 was the result of a questionable bit of fielding by Shortstop Johnny Sullivan. With Johnson on third, as the result of his double and an infield out, Sullivan raced into short centerfield to drag in Phil Rizzuto's pop up. Spence was set to make the catch, but Sullivan grabbed it. The alert Johnson noticed that Sullivan was out of position to make a throw and he made capital of it—racing home with another tally, beating the toss by two steps.

After that, Scarborough settled down to some fancy pitching and quieted things for the next three innings, but got pasted again in the seventh as Henrich followed Stirnweiss' lead-off single with a triple and scored himself as Robertson hauled in DiMaggio's long foul in left field.

The Nats were able to get only two runners to third base in the first seven innings, so effective was Reynolds. They stirred up their lone marker in the eighth on singles by Yost, Tom McBride and Vernon.

Reynolds Removed

Reynolds was removed after Robertson followed McBride's single with a hoist to Henrich and Vernon greeted Reliefer Page with his only hit to score Yost.

Tom Ferrick hurled the last two innings for the Nats and got the side out in order.

Buddy Lewis, hurt Saturday when he ran into the signs in right field making a catch, started yesterday, but was replaced by McBride in the second inning . . . Announcer Arch McDonald joined a lot of others and conceded the flag to the Yankees when he asked the constituents in the ninth inning to give the Yanks a "World Series send-off"

Lupien Shows Fans He's Using Head

Hollywood, Sept 7 (AP).—Hollywood fans had some nice surprises for popular, balding first baseman Tony Lupien last night.

It was his night and they gave him an automobile and a flock of other gifts.

But Lupien had a surprise for his admirers, too.

Bears Club Yanks, 37-20

Akron, Ohio, Sept. 7 (AP).—Scoring in every period, the Chicago Bears clawed out a 37 to 20 victory over the Boston Yanks today in a National League exhibition before 12,000 fans.

The Bears began moving late in the first period when Sid Luckman hit George McAfee and Jim Keane with a series of passes that carried the ball to the 2-yard line. McAfee plunged over on the next play.

McAfee gave the Bears their second touchdown when he scored on a 27-yard dash in the next quarter, and five minutes later Chicago recovered a Boston fumble and Luckman passed 25 yards over the goal to Ed Sprinkle.

Boston came back before the close of the half to tally on Paul Governali's 24-yard touchdown pass to Joe Golding, but the Bears again hit pay dirt in the third period, Mike Holovak plunging over from the three and George Culyanics dashing 26 yards through center for another score.

Worsham Has 71, Wins Denver Open

Denver, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Lew Worsham of Washington, D. C., shot an even-par 71 today to win his first major tournament since his National Open victory with a 72-hole score of 276.

It was consistently good golf that brought the 29-year-old Washingtonian the $2500 top prize in this first $15,000 Denver Open on the tough Cherry Hills course.

He fired an even-par 71 the first day and then followed with a 68 the second and a 66 the third to top the list as the linksmen moved into today's final round.

Behind Worsham today came Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa.; Tommy Wright of Knoxville, Tenn., and Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., in a three-way tie for second place with 280's and Dutch Harrison of York, Pa., was next with 283.

Hogan Has 71

Hogan fired an even-par 71 today, barely missing sole possession of second place with his 25-foot putt on the eighteenth green. It rolled two inches from the cup.

Hungry-looking Wright hit a 66 today—only the third 66 of the tournament—and Palmer, recent winner of the Western Open at Salt Lake City, had a 73, thanks to a blowup on the eighteenth, the toughest hole of the tournament.

Hogan, Palme and Wight collected $1433.33 each fo the second place tie and Harrison got $1100. Bunched at par 284 were Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del.; Bobby Locke of Johannesburg, South Africa; Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., and Dr. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn. They received $750 each.

Lew's Putts Off

Worsham's putts were a little off today and he had several chances for birdies that became only pars. He went out in 36, one over par, with three bogies and two birdies.

On the eleventh, a long, narrow 560-yard par five, he was on the green with his third shot and plunked in his putt. From then on it was just a matter of holding par, and Lew, his long face creased in smiles, did it handily.

Palmer was gunning for his second straight summer-circuit victory. He played spotty golf on the first nine and produced an even par.

Cards Drop Second After Winning, 12-2

St. Louis, Sept. 7 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds pounced on starter Jim Hearn for three runs in the first inning to start the way toward a 4-to-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals after the Redbirds tronced the Reds, 12-2, in the opener of a double-header today. The split twin bill, coupled with the Brooklyn Dodgers' loss to the New York Giants, gave St. Louis a half-game push in the National League race to a spot 5½ games behind Brooklyn.

The two Cardinals' tallies in the night cap resulted from circuit blows by Erv Dusak and Whitey Kurowski in the first and sixth innings, respectively.

The big fourth inning of the opener, when St. Louis crossed the plate six times, saw the loss of second baseman Red Schoendienst, who dislocated a right shoulder sliding into the second sack. Dr. Robert F. Hyland, club physician,

Los Angeles Dons Lose, 17-14, To San Francisco on Field Goal

San Francisco, Sept. 7 (AP).—Joe Vetrano's 12-yard field goal midway in the final quarter canceled the Los Angeles Dons' strong second half comeback and gave the San Francisco 49ers a 17 to 14 victory in an All-America Conference professional football game here today. The crowd was estimated at 31,298.

The 49ers, beaten 14-7 by the Dons in an exhibition two weeks ago, rolled up a 14-to-0 first half lead only to see Los Angeles convert an intercepted pass pass and recovered fumble into two touchdowns to tie the score early in the fourth period.

The 49ers scored in the first two minutes, taking the ball 80 yards after the opening kickoff. John Stryzkalski circled left end for 18 yards and Standlees made 4 at center. Albert passed 55 yards to Alyn Beals, who made a spectacular catch on the Dons' 3. Standlee made 2 at center and then went over for the touchdown. Joe Vetrano place-kicked the extra point.

The 49ers drove 70 yards to their touchdown, which came on the first play of the second quarter, with Albert going the final eight yards around right end. Vetrano again converted.

Los Angeles went 84 yards to its first touchdown in the final minutes of the third quarter. Chuck O'Rourke started it with a 30-yard pass to Bert Piggott, and finished it with a 41-yard touchdown pass to John Kimbrough. Ben Agajanian place-kicked the extra point.

Early in the fourth quarter Bob Reinhard quick-kicked from his own 3-yard line 80 yards to Earle Parsons, who fumbled, and John Brown recovered for the Dons on the 49er 18. Bob Kelly and Chuck Fenenbock made 14 yards, Reinhard made 1, and Kelly went over for the touchdown. Agajanian converted to tie it, 14-all.

College Head Wants Schools To Form Own Pro Grid Loop

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 7 (AP).—Undisguised professional football for universities and colleges was proposed by President John W. Taylor of the University of Louisville in an invitation sent to 14 institutions, Dr. Taylor revealed today.

Heads of the universities, all in urban centers of the midwest, southeast and east, were urged to "give earnest and serious consideration" to Taylor's proposal to found "their own professional football league."

No question of "simon pure" amateurism would bother the schools which might take up the plan, Taylor told newsmen in an interview here today, since the football players would not be students of the school they represent. "They would be hired, just like professors," Dr. Taylor said, although he suggested that outside of the football season, they might use their incomes to enable them to get an education which they could not afford otherwise. This could be at the university for which they played or not, just as they chose, he suggested.

In his letter to the university and college presidents, Taylor pointed out that sponsorship of a professional football team would not interfere with continuation of amateur football by the same schools.

Schools whose presidents or chancellors will receive the Taylor letter, probably tomorrow, include:

Transylvania College, Lexington, Ky.; University of Chicago; University of Pittsburgh; University of Houston; University of Kansas City, (Mo.); University of Buffalo, (N. Y.); University of Cincinnati; College of the City of New York; University of Tulsa; University of Georgia; George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.; Washington University, St. Louis; University of Detroit, and University of Rochester, (N. Y.).

"Old Drive Gone"

Joe Kozik Moaning at Gonzaga

This is another in a series on prospects of high school, prep and private school football teams by members of The Washington Post sports staff. Others will follow daily.

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

COACH JOE KOZIK of Gonzaga didn't sound very optimistic as he discussed his team's prospects for the coming season.

"We're green as grass," Joe moaned, "and for some reason the boys don't seem to have that old drive. Maybe we've been scrimmaging too much, I don't know."

A glance at the huskies working out on the practice field might make the average coach happy, but Kozik is far from satisfied.

"We only have three regulars coming back; the rest of the boys are very inexperienced. A few were second-stringers last year, but many have never played football.

"The three veterans we have—Gil Buckingham, Donny Hogan and Ronnie Redmond—are fine ball players, but aside from them we are an unknown quantity."

Kozik has lopped his original squad of over 100 to a more workable group of 50 men. The boys have scrimmaged 12 times already so Kozik and his aide, Athletic Director Father Herlity, have a pretty fair idea of what the players can do.

* * * *

THE backfield should be a standout with Buckingham, Hogan, Tom Deveau, Ray Augusterfer (nephew of the Catholic U. Coach), Johnny Hogan, John McAuliff and Dan Mountin supplying plenty of speed and punch.

The line will be big but green. Ronnie Redmond, a standout last year and Mike Tyler will be at guard. Bill Hitselberger, Jack O'Neill and Bob Whitman are the leading tackles and Mike Nolan and Charley Fletcher have the inside track on the end jobs. Johnny Wolfe, an experienced wingman will join the squad in a few weeks.

Pat Gibbons, a fighting 150 pounder has the edge on two big boys, Mike Logan and Dave Gardner for the center positions. Gibbons, a boys club product, is a vicious tackler and good line backer.

Kozik is a fanatic on fundamentals and his teams always have that hard hitting look about them. Joe spends an hour and half daily on blocking and tackling and it has paid off in winners.

"Most kids don't realize the importance of fundamentals until their senior year," Joe remarked, "but blocking and tackling are the whole story in football."

Miller Hits Homer 1st Time at Bat

Pittsburgh, Sept. 7 (AP).—Johnny Miller, making his first pitching start for Chicago, knocked out a home run with the bases loaded on his initial time at bat today to account for all of the Cubs' runs as they edged the lowly Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3.

Miller's long swat in the second inning hit into Greenberg Gardens in left field.

However, Miller's pitching did not equal his batting and the 31-year-old rookie hurler from San Antonio was relieved in the third by Doyle Lade who got credit for the win.

Miller had little difficulty with the Pirates the first two innings, but a pair of walks, a single and Ralph Kiner's double, accounting for the three Pirate runs, sent him to the showers.

Lade pitched airtight ball the rest of the way, giving up only three singles. Kirby Higbe lost his fifteenth of the year against eight wins.

Phils Beat Braves On Schultz' Homer

Boston, Sept. 7 (AP).—With Blix Donnelly hurling a three-hitter, the Philadelphia Phils blanked the Boston Braves, 2-0, today as Howie (Stretch) Schultz provided the margin of victory with a two-run homer in the fourth frame.

A paid crowd of 13,223 saw the Phils salvage the final game of the series in the fast time of one hour, 20 minutes—speediest contest of the season in Boston.

Donnelly faced only 29 Braves and didn't issue a single base on balls.

Red Barrett, Boston pitcher, gave up only six hits. The only frame in which the Phils were able to bang out more than one was the fourth when Schultz poled a one and one pitch over the leftfield wall to score Jeep Handley, who had singled. Donnelly retired the first 11 Braves in succession before Bama Rowell pasted a single into left.

Hamilton Has Look

Halfback Hurt in Navy Scrimmage

WHIDBY ISLAND, Wash., Sept. 7.—Coach Tom Hamilton moved the scrimmage schedule up one day on his Navy football team and took his first look this afternoon at the squad that's "out to beat Army."

It was a pretty costly first scrimmage, too, as Alex Sinclair, left halfback candidate, came up with a severely sprained ankle and will probably be out of action for a week to ten days.

The injury was disturbing to the coaching staff since Sinclair had been particularly impressive in the first workouts and it was hoped that he would be ready to help hold down the left half spot with Pete Williams and Billy Earl.

A fair passer, Sinclair has a hard running style which, combined with speed, makes him an elusive target.

While Hamilton was reticent to start talking about any definite placements as far as a first or second team is concerned, he had most of his best players running with what might be classified as the number one club as of today.

* * * *

ART MARKEL and Roy Russell were on hand at the end positions, while Newbold Smith and Dick Shimshak took care of the tackle department. Ed Golding and Ken Schiweck ran from guard with Team Captain Dick Scott holding the fort at center.

Reaves Baysinger was the field general, and had Pete Williams, Bob Schwoefferman and Bill Hawkins to hand off to in the backfield.

This club worked well together and for the most part the bulk of experience on the squad is in this group.

Golfing

E. M. Norton captured the Medal Play Handicap at the Washington Golf and Country Club yesterday with an 83, 15—68, edging R. H. Rife and C. M. Clay by one stroke.

Rife shot a 79, 10—69 and Clay had a 77, 6—69. J. E. Richards took low gross honors with a 75.

In Herrell Cup wto man team championship play, H. J. Webb and J. E. Richards shot a best ball 63 to lead 16 qualifying teams into the first round of match play.

The scores and pairings for the first round:

H. J. Webb-J. E. Richards (63) vs. Jim Gardner-Paul Perkins (67); Col. D. R. King-C. M. Mooney (66) vs. Roy Kaufman-R. W. Westwood (68); R. M. Rife-D. R. Monsees (66) vs. C. E. Wade-E. X. Manor

Bob Brownell defeated R. K. Amick, 3 and 2, to advance to the second round of the Manor Country Club Class A golf championship.

In other first round matches John Hitchborn downed R. P. Gibson, 2 and 1; L. D. Ritter defeated H. L. Gray, 4 and 3; Cliff Andrews beat Tom Tausig, 4 and 2 and W. I. Hicks downed H. E. Deel, 3 and 2.

Washington Aviation

Fran Donaldson and Tom Manning tied for the medal in the club championship qualifying round yesterday at the Washington Aviation Country Club.

Donaldson and Manning shot 76s, and will play off for the medal this week.

Army-Navy

H. H. Neilson with 77—7—70 and A. E. Keeler with 79—9—70 tied for top honors in the full grandicap medal play golf tournament yesterday at the Army-Navy Country Club.

G. W. Henderson was next with 79—8—71 followed by M. M. McGee who shot 78—6—72.

Kenwood

Defending Champion Charlie Price led the way into the third round of the Kenwood Golf and Country Club championships tourney yesterday with a 1-up victory over Bill Wenzel.

While Price was defeating Wenzel, Joe Wilson eliminated Comedalist Don Miller, 1 up, in the round's only upset.

Charlie Price defeated Bill Wenzel, 1 up; William Briggs defeated Jack Bubb, 3 and 2; E. R. Ferguson defeated Dr. H. F. Kreuzburg, 6 and 4; Dr. Joe Kenrich defeated R. T. A Woman Tells A Fish Story

Fredericksburg, Va., Sept. 7. Mrs. W. W. McFarland, who set a female record for this part of Virginia last June by bagging a 7-pound big mouth bass, has come up with another fish story.

She hooked a big one but the fish wound the line around a half-submerged tree stump and snapped off about 20 feet of it, including hook, cork and sinker. Not long afterward Mrs. McFarland saw the cork dancing on the water, made a cast for it, caught it and hauled in a 3-pound jack fish.

Kramer Wins Easily in Nationals

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP). The big Californian, in whose honor the national tennis championships are being held here, Jack Kramer, made his first brief appearance before some 7000 paying guests today, and hours later the big stadium still was echoing to the "ohs" and the ahs."

To supply the proper contrast the officials tossed out an unhappy Brooklyn youngster named Edward McRath. Bedazzled by Kramer's service, and generally outclassed by the great game of the champion, the lad went down by scores of 6—0, 6—3, 6—1.

When the brief spectacle had ended and the crowd still was exclaiming at Kramer's mighty exhibition, the king and the kid strolled chummily out of the stadium together while Kramer explained animatedly to Edward what he needed to do to improve his game. The gesture wasn't lost on the audience.

High Spot of Day

That was the high scopt of the second day of play. All the men players who come somewhere near being as good as Kramer won their matches with due ease and dispatch, and the best of the girls advanced without damaging their hair-dos.

Second round matches were played only in the upper half of the men's division. The girls, after cleaning up 8 first-round matches left underfoot from the first day, also waded through the second round in their upper half. The lower halves were scheduled to be run off tomorrow, squaring things away for the third round of play starting Tuesday.

Among routine victories chalked up was one by Jaroslav Drobny, the left-handed Czech at the expense of Frank Bowen, a New York City veteran, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Brown Beats Hart

Tom Brown, of San Francisco, looked sharp in beating Richard Hart of Miami, 7-5, 6-0, 6-2. Colin Long of Australia, who is in Kramer's bracket, eliminated Dick Mouledous, a brilliant young prospect from New Orleans, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

Such stalwarts of the lower half of the draw as Frankie Parker and Gardnar Mulloy of this country and Jack Bromwich and Billy Sidwell of Australia were not due to play their second-round tilts until tomorrow. Dinny Pails, the Aussie Davis Cupper who somehow got mislaid on opening day, scored an easy 6—3, 6—2, 6—1 victory over James Everet of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to catch up with the field.

The wide disparity between the top players and the rabbits was even more pronounced in the women's department. For the second straight day Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., dropped only one game as she brushed aside Cecile Bowes of Philadelphia, 6—0, 6—1. Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of Hidden Valley, Calif., another Wightman Cupper, beat Mrs. Hope Knowles Rawls of Philadelphia, 6—3, 6—3.

Tribe Beats Chisox, 3-2, on Homer in 8th

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—Hank Edwards' twelfth home run of the season gave the Cleveland Indians a 3-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox and iPtcher Red Ruffing before 9751 persons here today.

Edwards broke a 2-2 deadlock with his drive into the right field stands in the eighth inning to hand the 42-year-old Rffing his fourth loss against three wins.

Bosox Lose Two to A's, 7-4 and 4-3

Philadelphia, Sept. 7 (AP).—The Philadelphia Athletics swept a double-header from the Boston Red Sox today, 7-4 and 4-3, with Eddie Joost's twelfth home run deciding the nightcap.

Rookie pitchers won both contests, each yielding nine hits. Right-hander Joe Coleman bested Denny Galehouse to earn his sixth victory in the opener, then Bill McCahan, who pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Washington Senators on Wednesday, defeated Edgar Smith. It was McCahan's tenth triumph against four setbacks.

Heurich Moves Into Semi-Finals, by Beating Dillsburg, 7-0

Fish Fair Comes to End

By Jack Bell

North Beach, Md., Sept. 7.—The three-day Chesapeage Bay Fishing Fair here at the twin beaches is almost over and soon will be just a memory. Admirably organized under the direction of President Arthur J. Schaffer, Washington, D. C.; General chairman, A. Lee Amos, Hyattsville, Md., and Max Chambers, Preston, Md., secretary. The fair ends tonight.

Because of heavy rainfall Friday night and an overcast sky Saturday and Sunday with intermittent rain Saturday, the attendance fell far short of the number expectsd.

Large fish were conspicuous by their absence, although plenty of small ones—too small for any use—and some medium-sized ones were caught. The list of prize winners is such a formidable one that we are able to give only the chief results.

TILGHMAN PACKING CO. TROPHY—Won by Mrs. Ida C. Thompson, Chesapeake Beach, Md., with a rockfish, 9 lbs. 15 ozs.

HEBER MacWILLIAMS TROPHY—Won by Mrs. Thompson with the rockfish.

J. MILLARD TAWES TROPHY—Won by L. M. Donaldson, Washington, with a 1 lb. 7 oz. bluefish.

HOWARD JACKSON TROPHY—Won by Davidsonville, Md., with a 2 lb. 10 oz. weakfish (sea trout).

CHANEY'S RESTAURANT TROPHY—Won by K. M. Gasastra, Washington, with a 14 oz. Norfolk spotfish.

EWALD'S NORTH BEACH TROPHY—Won by Mrs. Mary Sparks, Falls Church, with a 13 oz. white perch.

FISHING FAIR TROPHY—Won by C. Edenburn, Marvs, Pa., for the largest toadfish.

WESLEY STINNET TAVERN TROPHY—Won by Luther Gar, Tilghmans Island, with a hickory shad, largest general class.

ROBERT S. MEAD TROPHY (for the largest variety of fish)—Won by L. S. Thompson, Washington, 15 species.

ARTHUR J. SHAFFER TROPHY—Won by Bernie Loveless, North Beach, for the largest weakfish (sea trout) caught by a Chesapeake-North Beach angler.

HON. GEO. L. RADCLIFFE TROPHY (to the lady angler catching the largest fish)—Won by Mrs. Ida C. Thompson with a striped bass.

Ball Named Mentor

Amherst, Mass., Sept. 7 (AP).—Appointment of Lorin E. Ball as varsity basketball and freshman football coach was announced at the University of Massachusetts.

Frank Mahon Allows Only Five Safeties

Harrisburg, Sept. 7 (AP).—Heurich's Brewers turned back Dillsburg's bid for a place in the semi-finals of the annual All-American Amateur Baseball Championship today, winning from the York county nine 7 to 0.

Frank Mahon was too much for the Harrisburg representatives, holding the Dillsburg Club to five scattered hits while his mates were getting off to an early start in the run making.

As a result of the victory the Washington team moved into tomorrow's semi-final round along with the Oakmont Club of Pittsburgh, the defending champions from Spring Grove, Md., and the Elkton, Md., entry.

Good was the batting star for the Brewers, his double in the third accounting for three of the Washington runs off Lefty Lerew, starting hurler.

Mrs. Stokes Defends Title

Richmond, Va., Sept. 7 (AP).—Mrs. Walter Stokes, representing the Manor Country Club, Washington, D. C., will open defense of her championship in the Middle Atlantic Women's Golf Tournament Monday at the Hermitage Country Club here.

Mrs. Stokes has won the title twice. Two other strong threats for the 1947 crown in the four-day scrap are Mrs. Maurice Glick, Baltimore City champion, and Mrs. James W. Reynolds of the Glenwood Country Club in Richmond, two times Virginia State and Richmond City titlist.

A total of 51 entries are expected to tee off Monday. The entries include the cream of women golfers in Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

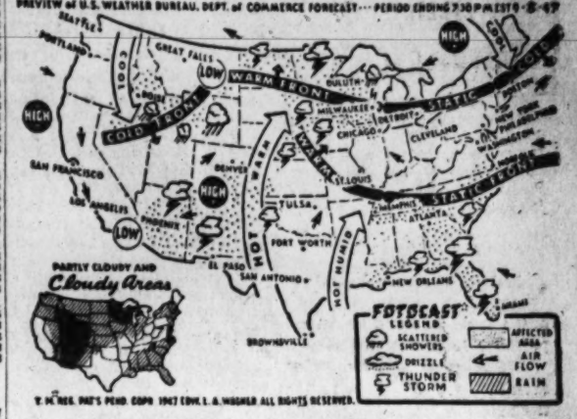
National Weather Summary



24-hour summary: Cooler weather is predicted for New England and northern New York, Monday; also, in the central Rockies. Temperatures over the rest of the United States will remain unchanged, except for some parts of the Middle Atlantic coast where cooling breezes off the ocean will bring relief from the heat.

High temperatures will continue in the South, in the plains States dominated by the hot air flow from the tropics, and in those portions of the Mississippi Valley influenced by the warm air front over the Southern States.

Scattered thunderstorms will drop some much needed rain in portions of the corn belt and plains States. The dotted "affected" area extending from Arizona to Wisconsin and Lake Superior shows where these showers are predicted to occur during the next 24 hours. The relief afforded in the parched Midwest will probably be local and very limited, however, according to the experts.

Rain showers and thunderstorms in the Tennessee Valley, will be associated with the static front conditioning weather in that sector. Those in the Southeast and along the East coast will occur as moisture-laden, hot air moves inland.

Skies will be sunny over most of New England, in the central valleys, extreme southern plains and California. It will be partly cloudy, elsewhere in the Nation, except for the overcast indicated for the Rockies, Western Lakes and Middle Atlantic coast. (See inset chart.)

Maximum temperature forecasts for principal cities, Monday afternoon, include: Boston, 80; Philadelphia, 89; Washington, New York, and Harrisburg, 88; Buffalo, Cleveland and Denver, 86; Grand Rapids and Chicago, 84; Detroit, 85; Milwaukee, 82; Des Moines, 90; St. Louis and Nashville, 95; Kansas City, 98; Tulsa, 100; Phoenix, 104.

World Cancer Study Held Biggest Advance by Parley

St. Louis, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Medical science can slow down the rate of cancer growth, but no one has been able to prove yet that cancer cells can be killed without destroying other tissues, Dr. E. V. Cowdry, president of the fourth International Cancer Research Congress, said today.

"Work on hormones and endocrine glands has proved abundantly that the rate of cancer growth can be modified, though it hasn't been proved that cancer cells can be selectively killed," he said.

Dr. Cowdry summarized the work of the congress, which closed its meetng here last night. He said the greatest steps taken by the experts who came here from countries throughout the world were establishment of an international research commission and expressions of the realization that the fight against cancer requires an all-out world-wide offensive.

Dr. Ignacio Millan, chairman of the executive committee of the newly established International Research Commission, said formation of the commission "is a new link in international cooperation in general and a sign of a re-birth of hope in the battle against cancer."

The congress last night authorized the creation of the commission, supported by government funds.

The commission, consisting of one member from each country represented at the congress, was directed t o"advance our knowledge of cancer by clinical, experimental or other means."

Cowdry was recommended for appointment as U. S. representative on the commission.

Plane-Section 'Chute Foreseen

New York, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Gen. Jacob L. Devers, Army Ground Forces commander, predicted today that the individual parachute soon will be supplanted by detachable airplane compartments that will drop from the skies carrying several men with full combat equipment.

He said the British general staff had announced that the parachute would be obsolete in airmorne operations within seven years. U. S. Army authorities, he added, are unwilling to set a time but have reached the same general conclusion.

Writing in The Pegasus, aviation magazine, he said that eventually an entire plane would parachute to a landing. It might use some form of the German-invented ribbon parachute, he said.

He disclosed that the Air Forces is developing a plane that will provide "complete air transportability" for a standard Infantry division. It will have ramp-loading facilities, lower wheel loading, and two gliders with eight and four-ton capacities.

GI Students Relieved Of Periodic Pay Reports

The Veterans Administration yesterday advised veterans studying full time in colleges and universities under the GI Bill of Rights that they no longer need make periodic reports of their earnings.

Revising procedure for paying subsistence allowance to these veterans, it said they need only estimate their earnings for the full period of their enrollment when they register this fall.

VA Provides For Appeals On Loyalty

Accused Are Given More Protection Than Is Extended In President's Plan

By Jerry Kluttz

VA: Veterans Administration has adopted a loyalty program and policy which will give its accused employes even greater protection than is provided under the President's program. The policy statement reads:

Kluttz

"The VA will vigorously protect employes from unfounded accusations of disloyalty as well as promptly take action against any employe where, on all the evidence, reasonable grounds are found to exist for believing them to be disloyal to the Government of the United States."

The policy also makes clear that no employe shall be fired for disloyalty in cases involving misconduct or unsatisfactory service. A separate procedure is set up to handle dismissals for other than disloyalty.

A loyalty board is to be set up in the central office here—a board order—but also, a loyalty board of appeals is to be created here to hear the case of any employe charged with disloyalty who cares to appeal to it. In other words, the appeals board will give the employe added protection. The appeals board is not required under the President's plan.

The order bars officials from VA personnel and investigation offices from sitting on its loyalty boards—officials who could be charges with prejudice. It clearly establishes the right of the accused employe to know the nature of the charges against him, his privilege to reply to the charges, and his rights of appeal.

VA will establish agency loyalty boards in each of its 13 branch offices as well as the one in headquarters here. One attorney and two officials are to make up each board, plus two alternates. The loyalty board of appeals is to be composed of three members who are to be chosen by Administrator Omar Bradley to handle individual cases from a panel of 12.

Other agencies would do well to study the VA plan.

JOBS: The War Department needs stenographers for jobs in Germany. The salary is $2710 a year. Apply in Room 5-C-942 of the Pentagon . . . NAVY: About 2000 of its employes are slated to be moved to the Pentagon within the next month or so. But some of the top Navy brass are objecting to the transfer . . . INDIAN BUREAU: Civil Service has amended its lay-off rules to give top job preference to Indian employes in Interior's Bureau of Indian Affairs.

DECLINE: The number of war service employes here has declined 23,784 in the past four months. During the same period the net decrease in Federal employment was 19,885.

NO CHANGE: A recent law exempted the jobs of student nurses and internes from the Classification Act. The student employes were led to believe the law would indirectly bring them higher salaries. However, the salaries at Gallinger, Freedmen's, St. Elizabeths, and Federal hospitals here will remain unchanged.

JOBS: The Navy has these openings: CAF-5 editorial clerk, status required; CAF-7 freight classifier, at least five years experience in the field of traffic management and freight rates required; P-4 and P-5 industrial hygienists, college degree plus experience in industrial safety engineering required, and CAF-11 for photolithography work, experience in lithographic camera and plate-making plus a thorough knowledge of all printing reproduction is required. Please get further details in the Navy's employment office.

DOWNGRADING: Jobs reclassifications that will surely lead to many downgradings are under way at both State and Agriculture departments . . . COMMERCE: Over the weekend, Civil Service ordered firings within 10 days of 13 war service employes in its Bureau of Domestic Commerce. One of the 13 is in Sweden on an important mission . . . TREASURY: Joseph A. Woodson, the keeper of Treasury's "conscience fund," is one of the interesting people in this month's issue of the American magazine.

NAVY: The last official act of Vice Admiral George F. Hussey was to confer the meritorious civilian service award to his able administrative assistant, Bernice Winter. Hussey, who retired as chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, has been succeeded by Rear Admiral H. E. Noble.

JUSTICE: A batch of promotions for Alien Property employes has been held up by Justice officials who are afraid some congressman might object to them. That's sure to happen to most anything.

MOVE: The Alien Property office will be moved from the Press and other buildings to the Home Owners Loan Building. The space in the Press Building will be taken over by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. FDIC is dickering with the idea of bringing back its employes in Chicago. But its officials first want to be sure that housing as well as office space is available here before a decision is made.

Montgomery Police Qualify As Marksmen

Practice With Three Weapons At Target Range

Members of the Montgomery County Police force are sharpening up their shooting eyes.

All last week uniformed officers and detectives banged away at targets with a variety of weapons on the police firing range on East-West highway near Rock Creek. The course will continue until all members of the force have qualified.

High scorer among the 25 members of the 100-man department who have completed the course Rockville, a former First Division so far is Pvt. Lester Jones, 26, of Marine who fought in the South Pacific.

Scores 90 Out of 100

Jones fired his way to a score of 90 out o fa possible 100. One of the two instructors, Detective Corpl. Carroll Miller, said a qualifying score is 66, and the general average of those who have completed the course is "about 68 or 70."

Both Miller and his co-intsructor, Detective Corpl. William Whalen, are graduates of the FBI police training academy. They are instructing fellow officers in the use of the .38-caliber pistol, .35-caliber rifle and .45-caliber submachine gun.

What Men Learn

Participants in the course fire 50 shots from 10 positions in relation to the target, using the right and left hand. They are instructed in correct firing technique from prone, sitting and standing positions. Firing from the hip and through car windows also are demonstrated.

The most difficult feat, according to the officers who fired last week, is hitting a 1-inch bulls-eye at 60 yards with the .35-caliber rifle.

Chief Charles Orme said that after the course is completed a pistol team will be organized from the high scorers to compete with teams from other areas.

Yes, It Was The Humidity; More Coming

The weatherman capitulated to the clouds last night, restudied his charts, graphs and scientific instruments, and predicted "considerable cloudiness, rather warm and humid" for today. Hhe opined the thermometer would climb to the mid-80s.

Earlier yesterday, his recorded forecast to telephone dialers was cloudy for this morning, becoming sunny in the afternoon, with a high of 86 degree.

Yesteray's high of 81 degrees at 2:45 p. m. was at least four under his predicted high.

Relative humidity, however, remained high all day and from late afternoon all through the evening it did not drop below 90 per cent.

Almost an inch of rain was recorded in official gauges for the District yesterday, with general showers ranging from light to briefly torrential, depending on where you were.

In Anacostia, for example, a rain of neaf-cloudburst proportion drenched the area for less than 10 minutes around 5 p. m. And the Weatherman, himself, looked out upon a heavy rain while a nearby radio was giving a play-by-play description of the local baseball game.

The rain fell, but hard, almost as soon as the game ended at Griffith Stadium.

$1000 Stolen In Robberies, Police Told

Sneak Thief Steals Wallet With $550 From Sleeping Man

Thieves stole more than $1000 late Saturday night and early yesterday, victims reported to District police.

Gil C. Palabrica, 40, of 1222 N st.nw., said some one forced the back door screen on his house, entered his bedroom while he was sleeping and took a wallet containing $550 in cash and a wrist watch from a dresser drawer.

John T. Ratliff, 40, of 1810 9th st. nw., said he fell asleep fully clothed in his room and someone took a wallet from his hip pocket containing $175 in cash.

Richard Dant, 23, day manager of the Logan Motor Co. service station at 2017 Virginia ave. nw., said the station was entered Saturday night by someone who used a duplicate key, opened the safe by using the combination, and took $296.

Clement Nettuno, 701 19th st. nw., told police that while walking in an alley near 6th and D sts. nw., early Sunday, he was assaulted by three men who took his wrist watch and $65 and fled in an automobile.

Tuberculosis Educational Drive Nears

A city-wide educational program, preparatory to mass chest X-rays for tuberculosis, will be launched here within a few weeks, District Health Officer Dr. George C. Ruhland said yesterday.

Dr. Ruhland announced he will meet, probably within 10 days, with representatives of the District Tuberculosis Association, to discuss plan for the publicity campaign. Conferences have been deferred, he explained, pending return of many residents from summer vacations.

Actual X-raying will not get underway before early next year, however, Dr. Ruhland predicted.

The preliminary education program, he explained, is necessary to obtain public understanding and cooperation in the program.

The survey, designed to discover unknown cases of the disease, will be conducted through the joint efforts of the United States Public Health Service, which will contribute technical services and X-ray equipment; the District of Columbia Tuberculosis Association, which will donate $35,000 for "educational purposes, and the District Health Department, which received $66,000 for the project in the 1948 District budget.

William E. Leahy, former District director of Selective Service, has been named chairman of the Washington Chest X-ray Campaign.

Short Apple Crop Hits Va. Revenue

Winchester, Va., Sept. 7 (AP).—The Virginia State Apple Commission, which collects a bushel tax of one and a quarter cents on packed apples in excess of the first 200 bushels for advertising and sales promotional purposes, expects to find its revenues reduced sharply this season.

Leading growers reported the frosts and freezes of early May played havoc with the Virginia apple crop as a whole and the 1947 output has been estimated at around four million bushels against the normal yield of 12 to 13 million bushels. Processing plants of the State bought about 40 per cent of the big 1946 crop

100 Cranfords and Plasketts Hold 12th Reunion at Lorton

Cranford met Cranford and Plaskett met Plaskett yesterday at the twelfth annual reunion of the two families near Lorton, Va.

About 100 members of the two clans gathered at the Cranford Memorial Methodist Church for handshakings, games, picnic lunch, and a look at new nieces, nephews, cousins and in-laws.

Four generations were there from Washington, Maryland and Virginia.

The assemblage was not without its family rivalries. There was a friendly discussion among the oldsters about who held the title of senior member of the clan. James Plaskett, of Lorton was amazed to discover that he was a great-great-great uncle of one of the toddlers he had not seen before.

Miss Susan Annie Plaskett, who originated the reunion in 1936, was surrounded by relatives she had helped bring together. At the first meeting, a memorial service for her parents, John and Mary Cranford Plaskett, the large family group was organized.

The Cranfords have been leaders in the Lorton area since the early nineteenth century, and the Plasketts arrived there in 1853. Lorton itself was named for the boyhood home of John Plaskett in Cumberland County, England.

Miss Plaskett became interested in the family history during the '30s, when she wrote "Memoirs of a Plain Family," a neighborhood history of the Lorton area. Yesterday's gathering was near the site of the original Cranford church, built by the family before the Civil War.

The reunion began with a church service, followed by a large picnic luncheon. After a short business meeting, conducted by Milton Miller, 3113 35th st. ne., president of the organization, there were games and musical events.

The children concerned themselves with the state of the picnic luncheon. Five groaning tables of fried chicken, salad and a collection of home-made cakes kept the hungriest youngsters passing their plates back for more and more.

For entertainment, there was plenty of family talent.

Fague Springman, family baritone who made his debut in Constitution Hall last spring, was a soloist at the church service, and sang later in the afternoon, while a Cranford barber shop quartet from Washington gave forth with close harmony whenever things got too quiet.

Alexandria Jailbreaker Recaptured

Ernest Jacobs, 20, one of three prisoners who escaped from the Alexandria city jail July 25, was recaptured in Richmond Saturday night after a struggle in which he was shot by a railroad agent.

Alexandria police said they received a report Saturday afternoon that Jacobs had just been seen boarding a southbound freight train in Alexandria, indicating he probably had been hiding in the city since his escape. Special agents of the RF&P Railroad, were notified reached Richmond.

Police said Jacobs was shot in the right hip after a tussle with arresting officers. He was admitted to St. Phillips Hospital in Richmond in "undetermined condition."

Alexandria Detective Sergeant R. S. Greenwalt said a warrant for Jacobs' arrest for a jail-break charge has been forwarded to Henrico County police. Police will return Jacobs to Alexandria as soon as his condition permits.

At the time of their escape, Jacobs and two other men had been locked in the same cell with two trusties while they awaited sentencing on a trespassing charge. When the only guard on duty let the trusties out to fix breakfast about 6 a. m., the three men overpowered the guard and made their getaway.

Still at large are Henry Williams, 24, and James Brown, 24, who had previously escaped from a North Carolina prison where he had been serving 20 years for murder.

Job Security Institute Opens Today

Authorities on various phases of labor economics will participate in a five-day educational institute on "Employment Security," beginning at 9:30 a. m. today at American University.

Today's schedule of addresses, following an introductory talk by Ernest V. Connolly, assistant director of the United States Employment Service for the District and director of the institute, follows:

Austin Van der Slice of American University, "Welcome to the American University," 10:15 a. m.; Assistant Labor Secretary John W. Gibson, "Planning for Employment Security," 10:30 a. m.; USES Director Robert C. Goodwin, "The Contribution of the Employment Service to Nation-Wide Employment Security in a Federal-State Framework," 1:30 p. m.; Arthur W. Motley, assistant director of the Bureau of Employment Security, "The Role of Unemployment Insurance in Providing Employment Security," 2:30 p. m.; Robert J. Myers, assistant commissioner, Bureau of Labor Statistics, "Some Estimates of the Likelihood of Employment Continuing at Present Levels," 3:30 p. m.

Tomorrow's session will be highlighted by addresses by David A. Morse, Undersecretary of Labor; Ray R. Adams, director, Readjustment Allowance Service, Veterans' Administration; R. D. Fletcher, chief, Placement Standards, USES, and Donald H. Dabelstein, acting chief, program division, Office of Vocational Rehabilitation.

The institute is sponsored jointly by American University, the International Association of Public Employment Services and State administrators for employment security in nearby States. At least 50 employment specialists from the District, North Carolina, South Carolina, West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania are expected to attend.

Scalped Woman's Condition Still Serious

Winchester, Va., Sept. 7 (AP).—Twenty-one-year-old Mrs. Gladys Fink continued in a serious condition today at a hospital here fater being partially scalped in an accident at a Winchester rubber manufacturing plant.

Mrs. Fink's hair became caught in the drive shaft of a trimming machine and part of her scalp was torn off before fellow rescuers could rescue her.

General Rent Boost Drive To Continue

Building Owners, Managers Group to Carry on Campaign

The Building Owners and Managers Association will continue its campaign for a general rent increase in the District, it was indicated yesterday.

A demand by the association for a general raise of 15 percent over 1941 rentals was rejected by Rent Administrator Robert F. Cogswell on Saturday as "neither proper nor justified." An alternative proposal, to allow the "voluntary" 15 percent increases provided by the Rent and Housing Act of 1947 for the rest of the country, was similarly denied.

Though the administrator's letter rejecting the demand had not been received by the landlords' groups, Rufus S. Lusk, secretary, said yesterday that he knew from what he read in the newspapers that "it doesn't satisfy us."

Will Continue Efforts

"We will continue to attempt to get what we think we're entitled to," Lusk said, adding that Cogswell's rejection "will be taken up with our executive committee immediately," probably today or tomorrow.

The Board of Trade, John A. Reilly, president, said, is not in favor of a general across-the-board increase — unlike the Building Owners and Managers group—and does not ask for any set increase such as 5, 10 or 15 per cent.

But, he added, he believed the tax increase consideration "was just one phase of it," and said he thought the rent administrator should make more allowances for increased building operating costs in cases where relief is "badly needed."

The Board of Trade, he continued, "feels he has been a little slow in exercising his authority to allow individual rent increases."

Administrator Cogswell told the Owners and Managers Association that in future considerations of rent increases, he would treat single-family dwellings and apartment houses of eight units or less separately from apartment buildings of more than eight units.

He made a personal study of 1948 assessment and real estate ta xincreases, he explained, because the landlords' group was "at pains to treat this real estate tax matter as one requiring almost instant relief, to be embodied in a 15 per cent increase across the board."

A spot check, he said, showed that tax increases on 18 single-family dwellings in the Northwest, Northeast, Southwest, Brookland and Southeast sections of the city, ranged from 24.46 per cent to 35.56 per cent.

On the other hand, the range of increases for six apartment buildings in the Northwest, Southeast and Northeast areas, he said, is only 14.25 to 18.72 per cent. Structures of eight apartments or less purposes, he noted.

are classed as dwellings for tax

Has No Objection

To Cogswell's plan to treat the two types of structures differently in rent decisions, Lusk said:

"We would have no objection to any general relief being made by categories, by sections, or by any other standard. Whether his contentions are right about these specific categories is another matter."

Meanwhile, local boards in hundreds of communities in the United States—not in the District—are setting out to learn whether rent ceilings should be eliminated, raised, lowered or left alone.

Auto Crash Injuries Prove Fatal

Upshur St. Man, Passenger in Car In Pike Accident, Dies in Hospital

William J. Hacking, 54, of 1717 Upshur st. nw., who was critically injured in a traffic accident in Prince Georges County, Md., on Saturday, died early yesterday in Casualty Hospital.

Hacking was a passenger in a car driven by Miss Virginia Flanagan, 40, of Barton Hall, Potomac Park. The car, according to police, got out of control on the Marlboro Pike near District Heights, Md., and careened off the road, striking a light pole and tree.

Miss Flanagan is in serious condition in Casualty Hospital with a possible fractured skull, scalp and ear lacerations.

As an aftermath of another accident, in which Mrs. Ruth Hild Watson, Hyattsville, Md., housewife, was finally injured, Allen C. Witherite, 45, of 5307 38th ave., Hyattsville, remained in serious condition at Casualty Hospital. He suffered head injuries, a fractured right leg and possible fractured ribs.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Lieut. Comdr. Eugene L. Watson, USNR, former District policeman, collided head-on near Clinton, Md., with one driven by Earl Ellis, 21, of 172 Mississippi ave. se.

Witherite was a passenger in Watson's car.

Pvt. Herbert E. Bever, 27, of 4209 Newton st., Takoma Park, Md., a motorcycle patrolman, suffered cuts and bruises when his cycle collided yesterday with a truck operated by William E. Murphy, 30, 742 7th st. se., at New Jersey ave. and M st. se. Bever was treated at Providence Hospital.

Three persons were hurt in a collision of two cars at 18th st. and Montana ave. ne. at 2 p. m. James Bryant, 35, of 600 10th st. sw., driver of one car, was not injured, but Alston W. Gonzales, jr., 17, of 32 Chillum rd., Chillum, Md., driver of the other, was treated at Sibley Hospital for injuries to his left shoulder, elbow and right arm. His brother, Carvel, 11, and father, Alston W. Gonzales, sr., 38, also were treated for minor injuries.

Lie, Harriman To Address Statisticians

The International Statistical Conferences will begin today at 2:30 p. m. when Trygve Lie, Secretary General of the United Nations, makes the opening address at the Shoreham Hotel.

In sounding the keynote of the 12-day session at the Shoreham and Wardman Park Hotels, Lie is xpected to emphasize the need for statisticians to meet the mounting problems of econamic readjustment following the war.

Willard L. Thorp, Assistant Secretary of State and President of the American Statistical Association, will preside.

In the absence of President Truman, W. Averell Harriman, Secretary of Commerce, will welcome the 600 delegates from 55 nations, of whom 325 are from foreign countries. Harriman is chairman of the American National Committee, which is acting as host to the conferences.

Walter F. Wilcox, acting president of the International Statistical Institute, will answer the welcome in behalf of his organization, and the four other nongovernmental organizations which, together with the United Nations World Statistical Congress, are participating in the conferences, to continue through September 18.

They are: The International Union for Scientific Investigation of Population Problems, the International Association for Research in Income and Wealth, the Inter-American Statistical Institute and the Econometric Society.

Over the week-end the statisticians and economists temporarily broke up the professional discussions, which began soon after registration Saturday, and became average tourists on sightseeing tours of Washington.

The majority echoed the words of Georges Lutfalla, director of the National School of Economic Organization, Paris, who said that his only interest in coming was "purely scientific—no room for politics."

Correction

Holy Trinity Church, 35th and O sts. nw., was the scene of the marriage Saturday morning of Miss Rose Marie Lesher and Leonard Patrick Bienvenu, with nuptials performed by Father Provincial David Nugent, S. J. The ceremony did not take place at St. Timothy's Church as erroneously reported in this paper. The Washington Post regrets the error.

Maryland May Open Closed Oyster Beds

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 7 (AP).—John E. Clark, chairman of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission, announced today a seriese of meetings would be held by representatives of the commission with Maryland oystermen to discuss opening oyster beds now closed.

Clark said local meetings would be held in each county, with present closed areas the chief subject of discussion. Beds which are now closed were planted with seed oysters before 1947.

"It is the desire of the commission that these beds be opened to oystering when the oysters are of good quality and at such times when the industry can use them to best advantage," Clark said.

Organization of oystermen into formal groups is moving forward throughout the State.

Areas listed which are now closed include: Choptank River, Church Hill, Kirby and Dixon; Miles River, Long Point; Tangier Sound, Old Orchard, Haines Point, Evans (White Shoals); Manokin River, Drum Point; Chester River, Strong Bay; South River, Hill Point, Outer Round Point; Anne Arundel County, Shufflers, Sunken Island, Long; Patuxent River, Cherry Tree, Swash, Sandy Point Lumps and Hellen.

Honor for Drama Cast

Williamsburg, Va., Sept. 7 (AP). Various events and groups have been honored with specially designated nights at "The Common Glory" since the Paul Green drama opened here July 17, and members of the cast will have their night on September 14, the season's finale.

"Actors' night" will mark the final performance of the opening season of the symphonic drama. Gate receipts over and above operating expenses will be shared by members of the cast.

Tomorrow night, the choir of "The Common Glory" will open the final week of performances with a complimentary concert. Wednesday has been designated Tappahannock night, September 11 Norfolk night, and September 12 will see the Ruritan clubs of Virginia gather at the Amphitheater beside Mataoka Lake.

At Washington College

Chestertown, Md., Sept. 7 (AP).—Annual freshman week exercises will begin September 17 at Washington College, Dean Frederick G. Livingood announced, and will extend through the twenty-first.

Two temporary buildings obtained from the United States Government have been transported from the New Castle, Del., Army base and will house classrooms and faculty offices.

Church to Celebrate

Berryville, Va., Sept. 7.—The 175th anniversary of the founding of the Baptist Church in Berryville will be observed with a special two-day program next Saturday and Sunday.

General cochairmen for the observance are A. B. Hummer and Miss Florence Broaddus, daughter of the late Julian Broaddus, pastor of the church 33 years.

The program will consist of a reception on Saturday night, and an all-day meeting with dinner Sunday. Speakers Sunday will include Dr. L. A. Parker, former pastor; Dr. E. E. Harkness, American Baptist Historic Society, Crozer Seminary, Chester, Pa., and James Bryant, executive secretary of the Baptist General Association of Virginia.

A paper on the history of the local church will be presented by Miss Mary Washington Gold of Berryville.

Apples Dropping Early

Blacksburg, Va., Sept. 7.—Virginia's already short apple crop is in danger of further losses through early dropping of apples, the State Extension Service warned today.

With the lightest crop since 1921, trees are bearing a small load of fruit causing a tendency toward early maturing and consequent early dropping, Horticulturist A. H. Teske said.

Growers were urged to use "stop-drop" sprays to make the apples stay on the trees and prevent waste before the crop can be harvested. The color and size of the fruit will be improved as well, Teske said, if it remains on the stem longer.

1500 Grocers to Meet

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 7 (AP).—Fifteen hundred retail grocers of the Baltimore area are expected to attend a conference at the Emerson Hotel Tuesday night, when University of Maryland marketing specialists will tell of their experiments in preserving the freshness and quality of fruits and vegetables.

Hamlet Named Judge

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 7.—John M. Hamlet, jr., was appointed by Judge A. D. Dabney yesterday to be judge of the City Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court, to fill the unexpired term of J. Phil Grove, who died August 29.

Hamlet, a partner in the law firm of Wingfield, Hamlet & Spitzer, has been practicing law here since 1945. He taught in Charlotte County high schools from 1931 to 1938, when he entered the University of Virginia law school.

From 1941 to 1945 he was with the Michie Publishing Co. as an editor of law.

New Coal Mine Planned

Morgantown, W. Va., Sept. 7.—National Steel Corp. has announced plans for a new mine in this district. The completely mechanized mine, to be known as the Wierton Mine, will be devoted exclusively to the production of metallurgical coal for the Wierton Steel Co., Wierton, W. Va.

The mine is expected to be in operation by 1950. Estimates of the cost of buildings and equipment exceed five million dollars. Present plans call for an initial working force of 500 employes and production of approximately one million tons of coal per year. Following lock and channel improvements in the Monongahela River, production will be stepped up to 1,500,000 tons a year with a force of 750 employes, the corporation said.

Hereford Field Day

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 7 (AP).—More than 1500 cattlemen and others from Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and West Virginia gathered yesterday at Ivy Hill Farm, Bedford County estate of H. B. Thomson, to participate in the fourth annual Hereford field day. A. J. MacWilliams, Eastern representative of the American Hereford Association, spoke on the Hereford industry and reported on a recent trip to Scotland where he inspected herds.

Feeder Calf Sales

Blacksburg, Va., Sept. 7 (AP).—Approximately 7000 calves will be offered at a series of 16 feeder calf sales to be held throughout the State by the Virginia Agricultural Extension Service, starting September 19.

Officials said specifications for the sales have been changed this year with the result that most calves will be dehorned, all steers will be castrated, and all animals will be vaccinated against shipping fever and black leg.

The schedule: September 19, Ewing; September 30, Orange; October 1, Charlottesville; October 2, Richmond; October 13, Wytheville; October 14, Russell County; October 15, Abingdon; October 16, Staunton livestock market; October 17, Winchester; October 18, Lynchburg; October 20, Monterey; October 21, Front Royal; October 22, Buena Vista; October 24, Christiansburg; October 29, Staunton Union Market, and November 6, Lee County.

900 Farms to Get Power

Fredericksburg, Va., Sept. 7.—Officials of the Virginia Electric Cooperative announced plans today for line extensions within the next few months which will add 900 rural consumers to its present 4500, customers in Spotsylvania Caroline, Orange, King William, Essex, King and Queen, Culpeper, Goochland, Hanover and Louisa counties.

Francis D. Pitts, cooperative president, with headquarters at Bowling Green, Caroline County, said VEC had borrowed a total of $1,890,975 from the Rural Electrification Administration and has repaid $219,579. He said 846 families had been added to the consumer list in the past year despite shortage of materials.

Almshouse Fireproofing

Frederick, Md., Sept. 7.—Work will commence early next month on fireproofing the county almshouse at Montevue, the Board of County Commissioners has announced. A fire hazard for the several hundred inmates, Montevue has been condemned by grand juries and firemen's organizations for years.

Bid for Laboratories

Manassas, Va., Sept. 7.—The Prince William County Chamber of Commerce is urging the establishment at Manassas of one of two new poultry and cattle disease diagnostic laboratories for which funds have been appropriated by the State.

Selection of the sites for the proposed laboratories will be decided at a meeting to be held at the senate chamber in Richmond September 10 at 9 a. m.

A laboratory for the diagnosis of Bang's disease formerly was located here but was closed several years ago. Since that time it has been necessary for all farmers to use either the Richmond or Harrisonburg laboratories. Edgar G. Parrish, Manassas, is chairman of a Chamber of Commerce committee to promote the location of the laboratory here.

20th Child Is Born

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., Sept. 7.—The twentieth child was born here yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Unger of this county in Morgan County Memorial Hospital here. It was a boy, weighing 9 pounds and 6 ounces.

Nineteen of their children are still living. The addition makes it the largest family in this Eastern Panhandle. One other family of 19, and one of 18, are known to be residing in the area.

Traffic Deaths Study

Winchester, Va., Sept. 7.—J. Thomas Kremer, chairman of the Winchester Council public safety committee has appointed a committee to make a cause-analysis report on traffic fatalities on Frederick County highways. The committee, composed of State Police Sergt. F. L. Woolf, W. Erle Edwards, and McSherry Lupton will report on October 8.

Panhandle Apples Ripen

Martinsburg, W. Va., Sept. 7.—Despite the short crop this season, approximately 1,500,000 bushels of apples are about to be picked in the four eastern panhandle counties of West Virginia, and "home" labor will do most of it, Carroll R. Miller of this city, secretary of the West Virginia Horticulture Society, said today.

Picking of Grimes Golden and Jonathan, the two earliest "hard" varieties, will not be fully under way here before September 15, growers indicated. Usual starting date for these is September 10. Delicious apples will probably be ready by the time the Grimes and Jonathans are harvested; then Staymen, York Imperial and other commercial varieties will be picked.

Legionnaires Bid Vicar Yarnall Farewell

The Washington Post.

New Pastors Welcomed by Area Churches

Greater Washington churches stirred with activity yesterday as fall programs began.

Congregations welcomed pastors back from vacations and church-sponsored trips abroad. New pastors, new Bible class teachers and other new church leaders also were greeted.

Judge Norris C. Bakke, general counsel for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, appealed for American "stewardship" to a suffering world, as he began teaching the Men's Bible Class of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The jurist, former judge of the Colorado Supreme Court and known as "the log cabin lawyer," told class members that "the decision between communism and democracy might well be determined by American stewardship for supplying a suffering world with food and clothing." Judge Bakke is the new Protestant cochairman of the Washington Round Table, National Conference of Christians and Jews.

New Moderator Speaks

As the young adults of Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, Chevy Chase Circle, initiated their fall program, they heard Wilbur LaRoe, jr., new Presbyterian moderator, warn that Christians must stand together to protect human freedom.

"The church can afford no flirtation with dictators," said the speaker, an elder of Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, adding:

"There is no evil in the world today greater than the evil of dictatorship. I am worried when I see any who bear the name of Christ give aid and comfort to Tito, Franco or any other totalitarian or Fascist leader. The Christian phalanx should be solid today against all attacks on the dignity and the sanctity of man. Our Christian battle line is weakened whenever any Christians give moral support to dictators. Every church should be a fortification of freedom's battle line and every church member a soldier on that battle line.

Harold W. Dickensheets spent his first Sunday as new minister of music at Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church. He supervises the adult, high school, junior high school, junior and primary choirs. Before coming here, he was head of the music department of Lenoir Rhyne College, Hickory, N. C.

Homecoming Services

Annual "Homecoming Day" services were held at Ninth Street Christian Church, 9th and D sts. ne.; Aquila, Va., Episcopal Church, and Oakton, Va., Methodist Church. The Right Rev. Frederick D. Goodwin, Episcopal Bishop of Virginia, preached and administered communion at the servicesat Aquila Church, founded in 1751.

Among the clergymen who preached from their own pulpits after European trips were Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden, pastor of First Baptist Church, 16th and O sts. nw., and Dr. C. Leslie Glenn, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, 16th and H sts. nw. Dr. Pruden addressed the Baptist World Alliance Conferenc in Copenhagen, Denmark, and preached afterward in British churches. Dr. Glen was among 35 clergymen who toured Europe and are reporting their observations to the War Department.

Farewell Said to Dr. Yarnall, Ending Ministry of 47 Years

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

People of three faiths bade farewell yesterday to Dr. Francis Yarnall, vicar of Epiphany Episcopal Chapel, retiring from the ministry after 47 years' service.

The little chapel, among Government buildings at 12th and C sts. sw., was crowded with parishioners from all parts of the city and uniformed members of the Agriculture Department American Legion Post 36, of which the vicar is honorary chaplain.

The Legionnaires, Protestants, Catholics and Jews formed an honor guard at the service for the vicar, who has served Epiphany 17 years.

Chapel's Future

Epiphany Chapel, opposite the South Agriculture Building, is a mission of Epiphany Episcopal Church, 1317 G st. nw., whose officials will meet tomorrow to decide the Chapel's future.

The stooped, white-haired vicar, wearing whote vestments and a green stole, praised the spiritual loyalty of Government employes. He recalled that they particularly enjoyed attending the daily noonday Lenten services in the chapel.

Farewell Sermon

In a voice that age has not weakened, Dr. Yarnall preached a sermon on St. Paul's admonition about "the peace of God which passeth all understanding." There can be no mental or physical peace without peace of the soul, he said. In spite of the tragic events abroad, "there is an underlying desire for peace," he declared.

Dr. and Mrs. Yarnall plan to live for the time being with a daughter, Miss Mary Rose Yarnall, and a son, William D. Yarnall, at 612 Elm st., Takoma Park. They will spend the winter with another son, John H. Yarnall, St. Petersburg, Fla.

The 77-year-old vicar is a graduate of General Theological Seminary, class of 1900. He came here after serving pastorates in Pennsylvania, Florida and New York.

3 Seek Post As Mayor of Bladensburg

Three candidates will be on the ballot for major of Bladensburg, Md., in that town's first mayoralty election on September 15, Supervisor of Elections Headley Gasch disclosed yesterday.

They are Andrew F. Gasch, president of the present five-man Board of Commissioners, James A. Hayes and Walter L. Hodkinson. Hayes and Hodkinson are from the new Sunnybrook ward, which was annexed to Bladensburg by a referendum vote August 15.

At that time, the citizens voted to replace the commission form of government with a mayor and council.

Hayes is an industrial representative of the Washington Gas Light Co., and has lived in Sunnybrook for 3½ years. He was the organizer and Tfirst president of the Sunnybrook Citizens Association. He is a member of the Washington Board of Trade and the American Legion.

Hodkinson, who has lived in Sunnybrook for more than three years, is an employe of Woodward & Lothrop department store. He is a member of the Sunnybrook Citizens Association.

In addition to a mayor, voters will also elect a town treasurer, and two councilmen from each of the two wards. One councilman from each ward will be elected to serve a full four-year term, and one for a two-year term. Starting in 1949, a single councilman will be elected biannually from each ward for a full term.

William C. Morrison, incumbent treasurer, will be opposed on September 15 by Mrs. Clara E. Stanley and Mrs. Gladys H. McKenzie.

H. Edwin Heckrotte, jr., and Leonard Simpson, both members of the present Board of Commissioners, will contest for the four-year council seat from the First Ward, with another commissioner, Vincent McCarron, unopposed for the two-year term from that ward.

In the Second Ward, Luther J. Farris and Carroll Palmer will run for the four-year term, and Robert E. Harris and Otis L. Stevens are candidates for the two-year seat.

Registration of voters who did not participate in the August 15 referendum will be held today and tomorrow at the Bladensburg Fire House, and at 4117 56th ave., Sunnybrook. The offices will be open from 7 a. m. to 1 p. m. today and from 2 to 8 p. m. tomorrow.

Congregation Gets Dollars To Aid Drive

Reversing the usual order, 300 members of Arlington (Va.) Methodist Church, 1423 North Glebe rd., yesterday received one-dollar bills at morning services.

The cash and 200 additional one-dollar bills that will be mailed this week to church members represents an anonymous $500 donation that the Rev. A. G. Lynch recently received.

The pastor decided to put the donation to work for the building fund, following a suggestion from the donor that the money be distributed to the congregation as an inducement to increase the amount. He used the biblical parable of the talents as the basis for his talk yesterday about the building fund plan.

Already recipients of dollars have begun to devise ways of adding to the money.

Last April, the Rev. J. Afrian Pfeiffer, pastor of Takoma Lutheran Church, 7th and Dahlia sts., gave one-dollar bills to each of his 325 parishioners, with the suggestion that they invest it as they saw fit for the church building fund. The principal was increased to $1500 in a month.

Charles E. Sparshott

Funeral services for Charles Edward Sparshott, 53, of 4104 Illinois ave. nw., who died Friday at Emergency Hospital, will be held tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. at Chambers funeral home, 1400 Chapin st. nw. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Until his retirement, due to ill health, 10 years ago, Mr. Sparshott had been a bookkeeper in the Washington Gas Light Co. since his graduation from Tech High School.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Louisa A. Sparshott.

Pleasure Boat Accidents Cost 3 Lives

Newport News, Va., Sept. 7 (AP). Two pleasure boat accidents which occurred within an hour of each other near here late yesterday cost the lives of three men.

Lightning struck in the vicinity of a 40-foot cabin cruiser not far from York Spit light in York River, and killed two Hampton residents, Edward Gray, about 60, retired marine engineer, and William G. Hughes, 33, ABC store clerk.

Captain Jack Maddox, 69, of Newport News, drowned when an explosion of undetermined origin rocked the 42-fot cabin cruiser Lady Mary, at 4:20 p. m. in James River, off the James River reserve fifleet anchorage.

Seven other persons escaped injury in the accident which cost the life of Captain Maddox.

A party of soldiers from Fort Eustis went to their aid in two boats and saved J. D. Allen, jr., owner of the cruiser, Allen's wife and their three sons and two daughters. The father was treated at Fort Eustis hospital for third degree burns on the hands.

Frank T. Gilbert

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 7.—Funeral services for Frank Twyman Gilbert, 80, Greene County farmer who died at his home near Ruckersville, were held this afternoon at Mountain Chapel Methodist Church near Burnleys. Burial was in Spring Hill cemetery, near Advance Mills.

Mr. Gilbert was twice married, first to Miss Lena Elizabeth Durrer, of Burnleys, who died in 1922. Of that union, five children survive. Besides his second wife, the former Miss Alva Riner, of Orange, he also leave two brothers, Zeb P. Gilbert, of Madison Run, and Kemper J. Gilbert, of Norfolk, and a half-brother, Carroll H. Gilbert, of Ruckersville.

Guide Youth, Queen Urges Women

Conclave Opens With Messages From Truman and Elizabeth

By Samuel Gamburg

Philadelphia, Sept. 7 (INS).—Messages from President Truman and Queen Elizabeth of England keynoted the third postwar conference of the International Council of Women at the opening session tonight in Philadelphia.

More than 1000 delegates representing 24 nations are attending the six-day conference at the University of Pennsylvania. The conference theme is "Power and Responsibility of Freedom."

The Chief Executive termed resumption of the conventions proof that the members recognize the urgency of postwar problems and propose to participate actively in seeking solutions.

Queen Elizabeth's message called upon women to guide the world's youth to the "ascending path of progress, and to the footholds of faith."

Declaring that governments are merely the instruments for giving effect to the wishes and opinions of the people they represent, President Truman added:

"The formation of these wishes and opinions, the reasoned judgment leading to wise decisions based on a full knowledge of the facts, must be accomplished with full appreciation of the view of individual citizens. That is the true meaning of the responsibility and the power of citizenship in a democracy.

"The citizens of a democracy are privileged to think as individuals and to act in concert," Mr. Truman continued. "This process is extended a step further in such organizations as the International Council which provides a means by which citizens of different countries can gather together to exchange information, to form opinions, and to express their wishes for just and effective action in the making of a better world."

Queen Elizabeth reminded the delegates that women can do their "greatest service" by providing good homes. She added:

"We are all surrounded, and at times dismayed, by forces of ill-will and bitterness let loose during the years of war through which we have just come.

"Our young people have grown up amid death and destruction and often seek in vain for the way of truth, buried beneath the rubble of disillusion.

"It is for us, the women, to guide them to the ascending path of progress, and to the footholds of faith."

How to Get Rid of Dowager's Neck Hump

By Ida Jean Kain

If you keep your head squarely on your shoulders, you can live to be 100 and never get a dowager's hump. That's why it's hard to face the fact that 90 per cent of the women do get a hump at the nape of the neck, sometimes between 40 and 50.

Better see for yourself. Sit sideways to a mirror, curls pinned up high off the neck and with a hand mirror, look at that spot at the base of the neck. There it is, a pincushion of fat, perched impudently on the seventh cervical vertebrae. Perhaps you didn't even know you had it, and won't thank me for pointing it out. But you don't want something like that going on behind your back, giving your age away!

Don't hang your head in shame; that only makes it worse. That bump can be banished, and, happily, the same exercises that iron it out help to improve the throatline.

Here's an exercise that is guaranteed to fix everything . . . tout suite.

Lie across the bed sideways, face down, keep arms on bed and let your head hang loosely over the edge of bed. Very slowly raise your head and tip chin in air, looking high up at the opposite wall. Relax and slowly lower head, and repeat not more than three times. If you do this exercise fast, it will only make you dizzy.

Most important of all is to try to get the feel of pulling up with the neck muscles and keeping that line at the back of the neck absolutely straight. This exercise will help you to catch on. . . .

Take a towel, a short one, hold it in both hands, grasping the towel swing towel over head and bring it back of head, and pull it taut at each end. Now push against the towel with the back of the head as you stretch up with the neck muscles.

That line at the back of the neck should be stretched up and held straight all the time. There is no use in my implying it's a cinch to make this a beautiful habit. It isn't. You have to practice it, and think about it as you walk along the avenue, and, when sitting in a chair reading, remember to hold your head forward. I can promise that it will pay dividends. It is positive insurance against a hump and a double chin. I could give you more corrective exercises, but that isn't necessary. The simplest and best way is to try to cultivate the habit of holding your head regally high. It can get to be habit.

But don't get tense about it. Follow through by shrugging your shoulders up as near your ears as possible, then slowly circle backward and down . . . easy. This relaxes the nerve center at the back of the neck and brings a fresh flow of blood there.

By all means, Yes! Save Used Fats!

says MYRNA JOHNSTON, Food Editor of Better Homes and Gardens

If you're wondering if you should still save used fats, here's your answer. Clinton P. Anderson, Secretary of Agriculture, says: "It is still necessary to conserve every pound of used fat, since the over-all fat supply situation is little better now than it was last year." You see, almost everything we use requires industrial fats or their products. There just aren't enough fats in the world to go around, so every pound of used cooking fats we American women turn in is a real help! Let's keep up the good work till the world-wide shortage is over!

Woman Who Reared Orphaned Younger Sister, A Beautiful Girl Now 22, Worries About Her Triangle Involvement With Two Serious Suitors

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My sister Janet, 22, is very beautiful, very nice and has always been very popular, although she never cared much for boys until she met Wayne three years ago.

Nine months later they became engaged, just before he went overseas. He was gone a year and I think they would have been married on his return, except that his father died just then, leaving the mother very ill and with little money.

Being an only child, Wayne felt he should go home and support his mother until she had recovered and could manage for herself. Janet agreed to wait—at least a year or possibly two years—and they have been writing almost daily since. Now he counts on marriage soon.

In the meantime, Janet has been going out with Paul, a medical student. It started last year, before she finished college; and was only a lighthearted friendship at first, as Paul knew about Wayne. Now she and Paul are madly in love and he wants to marry her three years from now, when he gets his degree.

She Can't Decide Between the Two

JANET doesn't know what answer to give. I think she cares more for Paul than she ever did for Wayne; but apparently she can't decide between the two and enjoys going with Paul while trying to make up her mind about Wayne,—who doesn't suspect she is going with anyone else. I think somebody is going to get hurt pretty badly.

Our mother died when Janet was small and I, being 12 years older, reared her. I love her very much and think she is doing the wrong thing here. I insist she ought to reach a decision one way or the other and make a clean break with either Wayne or Paul.

Janet doesn't resent my counsel but always says, "Oh, well, don't worry. It will all work out some day." What do you think? Maybe I shouldn't worry; but I just can't help it. I am afraid the longer things drift, the worse somebody is going to get hurt. Please give us your opinion V. E.

Slowly Learning Value of Honesty

DEAR V. E.: At this point, Janet is afraid to confess the triangle to Wayne, because she doesn't know how to explain herself, nor does she know how he will react,—except that she anticipates and dreads a painful denouement, possibly more injurious to Wayne than to her.

Looking back, it's easy to see that she took the wrong tack when she failed to inform Wayne of her lighthearted friendship with Paul from its inception, though perhaps she fancied her intentions were of the best.

Possibly she felt so sure of her love for Wayne at the time that she never dreamed this thing could happen; and in process of accepting Paul's attentions as a social convenience in the beginning—before they got serious—chose to refrain from speaking about it to Wayne on the theory that she was sparing him supposedly needless jealous anxiety, when he was already burdened with family problems.

Girl's Afraid To Make Choice

IN ANY event, she is learning from experience the truth of the saying, "Honesty is the best policy,"—always. Had Paul's name figured in her letters occasionally, she wouldn't feel so scared, indecisive and mute in the face of his proposal—if she'd like to accept it.

Doubtless she has guilt-feelings in respect to Paul, too. Unless a man is seriously, hopefully interested from the outset, he doesn't as a rule systematically pay court to an engaged girl, as Paul has done here.

Moreover, a girl usually knows by instinct when a man is thus interested, long before he recognizes it himself in most instances; and had Janet been playing fair with Paul as well as Wayne, she wouldn't have encouraged his interest by accepting his attentions—if indeed at the outset she felt fully committed to Wayne, as I daresay she did.

For advice: This is Janet's problem to solve. Don't urge counsel on her and don't voice worry. That's giving her to think you intend to be her shield and buckler through life; and at 22, it's time she was learning the value of foresight, by dint of coping with the consequences of her own behavior. Sigma Kappa Chapter Plans Party Tonight

Members of the active chapter and alumnae of Sigma Kappa at George Washington University will give an outdoor supper party this evening at the home of Mrs. Jane Maddox, Persimmon Tree rd., Potomac, Md. Girls entering George Washington as freshmen this month will be guests. It will be the final event of the sorority's summer rush season.

Hints for the Housekeeper

Wax flowers may be cleaned by placing them one at a time in a pint of tepid water to which one tablespoon of baking soda has been added.

The secret of very thin bread for sandwiches is a very sharp knife. No matter how fresh the bread, a very sharp knife can slice it thinly.

Put the rubbers on the jars before filling them with hot preserves. Then screw down the tops onto the rubbers. It will save burned fingers.

If the home does not boast a long-nosed watering can, use the tea kettle for the purpose of watering the house plants. It pours without spilling.

Few Fish But Lotsa Fun At Chesapeake Bay Fishing Fair

ELKS' BOYS BAND—Washington Lodge No. 13 parades through the streets of North Beach during the three-day fishing fair on Chesapeake Bay

The Washington Post.

BEAUTIES—From North Beach—Fay Robinson, Babe Ward, and Sis Ward take a boat ride looking for fish. The fish failed to show. That's why they are called poor fish

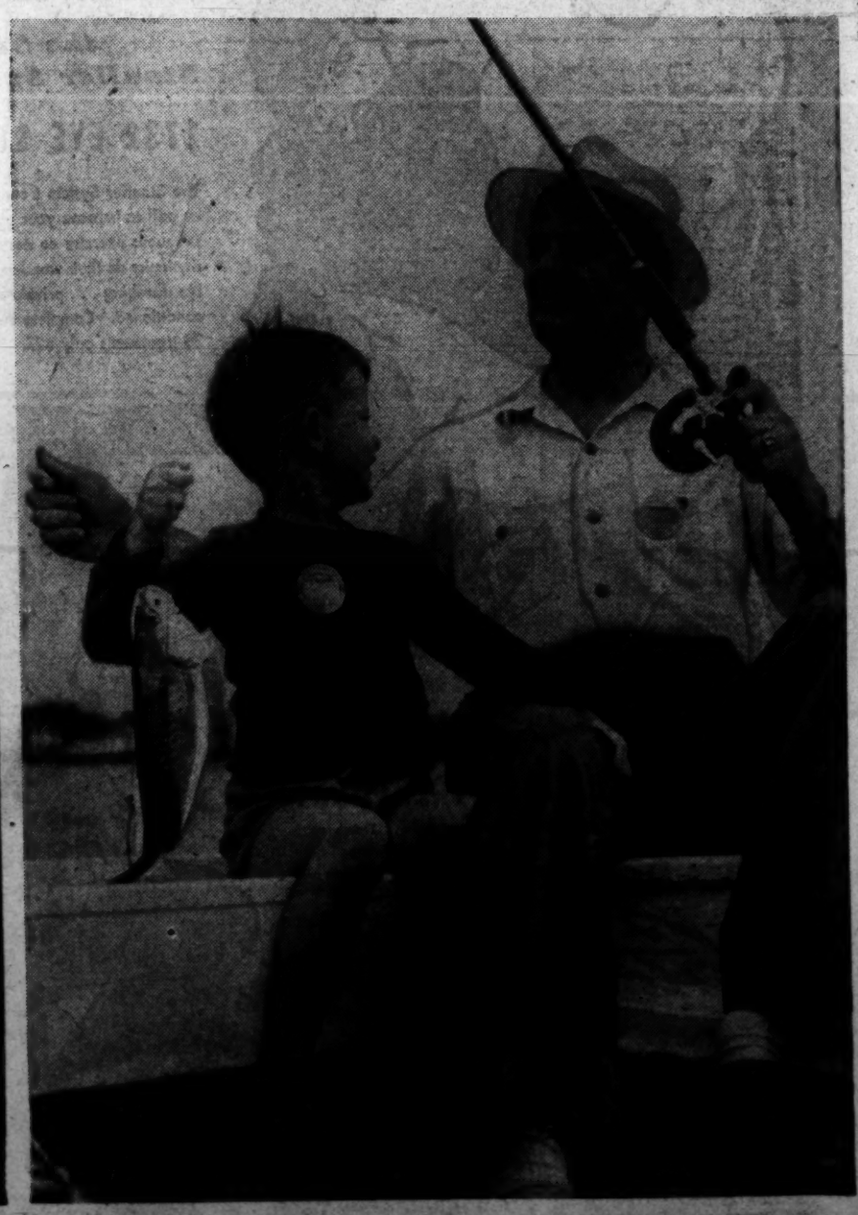
LUCK TO YOU—One of the many fishing boats which entered the three-day contest. Fishermen held up their catches to each boat to compare their luck

THE INSIDE DOPE—George E. Darnall, former Washington fisherman, of North Beach, shows his grandson, Richard E. Darnall, 13, of Cheverly, Md., the right lure and sinker to use while fishing in the bay

THEY SCORED—Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Chamber of Annapolis, Md., bring aboard three of their 22 fish caught Saturday during the fishing fair. Most people were not as lucky as this pair



HELPS DAD—Thomas Xander, 5, helps his father, C. W. Xander of Silver Spring, Md., reel in a fish during the second day of the three-day fishing fair at North Beach and Chesapeake Beach

Your Baby—

Dressing Self Teaches Child Self-Reliance

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Every child has to learn to become independent of the services of the parent. With some children the road is easier, for the parents are busy and glad to allow them to do for themselves.

But many a mother finds personal pleasure and gratification in helping her child to finish the food on his plate, dressing him, combing his hair, washing his teeth and lacing his shoes, long beyond the time when he should be capable of doing these things for himself.

Children show an interest in dressing themselves when they are from 18 to 24 months of age. At this time the child may cry unless he is given the privilege of pulling off his shoes or hose, or yanking his arm from his shirt. It may be fully another year before he can dress without help, but he would still be dependent upon her if during that time she dressed him expertly, deaf to his pleas to be allowed to dress himself.

Make It Easy

Between three and four years of age children are able to dress themselves with the exception of rear buttons or tying shoe laces. Clothes should be laid out for them in a convenient position so that they need not wrestle with sleeves and legs of trousers in order to find how to get into them.

Obviously, if a child has to be dressed in a hurry the mother may have to lend a hand, but many is the time when it is of small importance whether the child is into his clothes quickly or otherwise and this is a good time to let him dawdle, as undoubtedly he will, and learn this necessary skill.

Clothes Should Be Simple

It goes without saying that play clothes should be simple, and bought with a view to the child's self-dressing. Shoe laces are somewhat of a sticker, and it is well to allow the child to practice with the shoe off the foot. Make it a game to learn to tie the laces and once he has mastered the art he can do it for himself with the shoe in its proper place. At five years most children can do this well, if they have been allowed to practice.

In fact it is amazing how quickly children learn when the desire is hot. The child who stays undressed until his mother insinuates him into his clothes, has been shown early in his life that he was not expected to help himself. It's a poor policy from everyone's standpoint.

Hungry Jimmie

Although I know because of it . . . I have no right to fuss . . . I think our Jimmie eats more food . . . Than all the rest of us . . . He has his three square meals a day . . . But always in between . . . He munches on a sandwich or . . . He licks the platter clean . . . And after every evening meal . . . He raids the pantry shelf . . . To see if there is something more . . . To satisfy himself . . . Of course we like to have him eat . . . as much as he can hold . . . Especially the victuals that . . . Might otherwise get old . . . And now at nearly 14 years . . . He stands so tall and straight . . . But still he never shows a sign . . . Of adding any weight.

"Cax Kelly!! You said this was our spot!"

Ask Anne

Your Questions On Homemaking

I have one of the new hand-printed tablecloths with a plastic coated finish. Recently, mustard was spilled on it and the spot would not come out with washing. Can you tell me how to remove it without affecting the plastic finish? I. H. B.

Questions about removing spots from plastics are among the toughest this column receives. There are so many different kinds of plastics on the market, and what may be effective in removing stains from one, may not be for another. Similarly, a solution that may not harm one may harm another. It seems likely that your tablecloth is a vinyl plastic. Carbon tetrachloride should not harm it and may remove the mustard stain. If that doesn't work, try rubbing the spot with denatured alcohol (after rinsing off the carbon tetrachloride). Experiment with both these agents on an obscure corner of the cloth before applying them to the spot.

Can you tell me what to do with a floor lamp that is badly tarnished? M. C. G.

Most metal floor lamps are lacquered at the factory and the use of metal cleaners and abrasives on them is not recommended. If they deteriorate, it's usually necessary to have them sent back to the factory for replating. However, you do not describe the exact type of metail in your lamp and it may be one which can be effectively cleaned with metal polish. You might experiment with such a preparation on an obscure part of the lamp. If it removes tarnish satisfactorily without injuring the metal, it may be possible for you to clean off the lamp and relacquer it.

1. What kinds of dye should be used for dying sand in a cactus garden?

2. I have several pale-colored dresses with white designs which are soiled from powder and perspiration. I have tried removing the spots with dry-cleaning fluid, and have also sent the dresses to the cleaners. The soiled spots remain and the white designs have a grayish look. Can you tell me how to remove these stains?

3. What is the usual percentage for tipping hairdressers in the case of a permanent and other hair items? C. L.

1. According to James H. Beattie, The Washington Post garden editor, many of the vegetable dyes (the kind used as food coloring) would impart a temporary color to the sand but the color would not last. He says that some of the coloring materials used to color concrete would be effective, and since cactus are quite hardy, they might tolerate this treatment.

2. Laundering or steam spotting are probably the only ways in which the accumulation of powder and perspiration can be effectively removed from your dress. Ask your dry cleaner if he thinks the colors and materials will stand either of these treatments.

3. Around 10 per cent of the bill is apparently the usual tip in a beauty parlor.

Anne answers questions through her column only. Write Anne, Room 408, The Washington Post, Washington, 4, D. C.

A Precaution

Wipe off the fruit you have bought in the market with a clean, slightly damp cloth before putting it away. This will clean it and check any rot that may have gotten on it from other fruit.

PETUNIA!

Essential indeed
To my beauty repose

Are sheets that allow me
To wiggle my toes!

Then try leaving a smooth four-inch tuck in the top sheet for toe room when you make the bed. Sleep counts!

AN IDEAL RAMBLER

Situated on 2 acres of beautifully wooded land, this lovely country home offers every opportunity for comfort and tranquillity.

The living room, 34x15, is unusually charming, with full tall book shelves, wood-burning fireplace, and attractive window arrangement. The step-down dining room has a flagstone floor, with French doors, leading to a delightful stone terrace, banked with flowers and perennials. The completely equipped kitchen, which has separate entrances to the dining and living rooms, is most practical. It is 16x9½, having a cozy breakfast nook at one end. The master bedroom, 16½x13, is particularly attractive, with a stone fireplace and French doors opening upon the terrace and rear gardens. The first floor also has a large bath with tub and tiled stall shower. Ample closets, linen cabinet, and another airy corner bedroom.

A quaint stairway leads to an upstairs bedroom and bath, with several storage closets and a full attic. The heat is oil hot water. The basement has an outside entrance, laundry trays, electric water heater, and almost new Bendix, the grounds are perfectly lovely. The property is about 20 minutes' drive from the Pentagon via Lee blvd. Price at only $26,500. This little estate merits your inspection. Shown by appointment only. CH. 3421; evenings, GL. 0085.

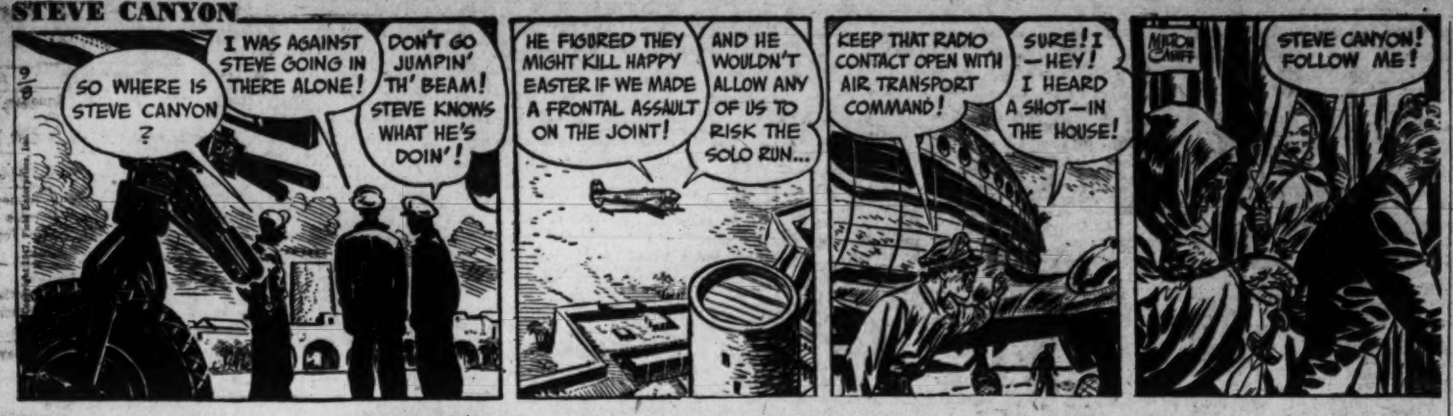
STEVE CANYON



SO WHERE IS STEVE CANYON ?
I WAS AGAINST STEVE GOING IN THERE ALONE!
DON'T GO JUMPIN' TH' BEAM! STEVE KNOWS WHAT HE'S DOIN'!
HE FIGURED THEY MIGHT KILL HAPPY EASTER IF WE MADE A FRONTAL ASSAULT ON THE JOINT!
AND HE WOULDN'T ALLOW ANY OF US TO RISK THE SOLO RUN...
KEEP THAT RADIO CONTACT OPEN WITH AIR TRANSPORT COMMAND!
SURE! I—HEY! I HEARD A SHOT—IN THE HOUSE!
STEVE CANYON! FOLLOW ME!

JOE PALOOKA

DARLING, IT'S YOU... JOSEPH... OH MY BOY...
PAPA'S OVER TO THE STORE, ROSIE'S AT THE GIRL SCOUT CAMP, AN' STEVE'S UP AT THE LAKE...
I RUSHED UP TO SEE YOU... I DIDN'T FIND HER... I WROTE YOU EVERYTHING... I HAD TO COME EAST FOR THAT "YOUTH HEALTH PROGRAM"...
YOU WILL FIND 'ER, DARLING... MY POOR BOY... IS THIS HERE AMMONIA SHE'S GOT ...IS IT CURABLE?
AMNESIA, MOM... YES OFTEN, IT'S A MATTER OF TIME. I WON'T STOP THE SEARCH... WE'RE USING EVERY MEANS ...AND NOW TELL ME ALL ABOUT YOU AND THE FAMILY.

JACK ARMSTRONG

SEE WHAT I SEE WAY DOWN YONDER, JACK!
LET'S GO!
I BETTER EASE UP.. OR I'LL END UP LIKE TOMMY. THE BOSS WAS SURE SORE ABOUT LOSIN' THAT CARGO....ENOUGH STUFF IN THAT PACKAGE TO KEEP ALL THE HOPHEADS IN THE COUNTRY HAPPY FOR A WEEK!
E-E-E-YOW!

PENNY

AH, HARD AT YOUR STUDIES I SEE.
ABSOLUTELY, FATHER.
YOU SEE, THIS YEAR I'M GOING TO DIVIDE MY STUDY PERIODS AND MY AMUSEMENT PERIODS ABSOLUTELY EQUALLY.
BRAVO!
PRINCESS, I'M PROUD OF YOU!
IT'S THE ONLY WAY I'LL EVER GET ANYWHERE. I MEAN LIKE TONIGHT----
ONE HALF HOUR FOR STUDY, ONE HALF HOUR FOR RADIO, ONE HALF HOUR FOR PLAYING RECORDS, ONE HALF HOUR FOR A SNACK.

···SO, MISS HEPPLEWHITE··AS SOON AS I RECOVERED FROM THE SHOCK, I REALIZED I HAD TO WARN YOU!··AN ADDITION TO MY FAMILY WILL ALTER ALL THOSE PLANS WE'VE MADE!
I DON'T LIKE DISCUSSING SUCH IMPORTANT CHANGES BY PHONE!
SUPPOSE I MEET YOU RIGHT NOW?··ON THE USUAL CORNER··?

MICKEY FINN

BUT UNCLE PHIL, YOU DON'T KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT SELLING COAL! THERE'S DIFFERENT KINDS—AND DIFFERENT PRICES FOR EACH KIND!
I GOT ALL THE DOPE FROM HUGO'S BOOKKEEPER THIS MORNING, MICHAEL—WHILE I WAS WAITIN' FOR HUGO TO ARRIVE! IT'S RIGHT HERE IN MY POCKET!
BUT PHIL—YOU'RE THE SHERIFF OF THIS COUNTY—YOU CAN'T GO AROUND SELLIN' COAL FOR HUGO IGOE!
I WON'T HAVE TO GO AROUND MUCH, SERGEANT—TWO OR THREE BIG ORDERS WILL PUT HUGO ON HIS FEET.
TWO OR THREE BIG ORDERS? WHERE COULD YOU EVEN GET ONE?
OH, I'M PRETTY SURE I'VE GOT ONE ALREADY! THE MAN I EXPECT TO SWING IT FOR ME IS DUE HERE ANY MINUTE!
MR. CONRAD TITE—TO SEE SHERIFF FINN!
GO RIGHT IN, SIR! HE'S EXPECTING YOU!

Television Is Boon to Family, Says "Average Man"

Three District Liners recently raised the question of the proper verb form for "television."

Irv Kipnes, of the Western Maryland Broadcasting Corp., casts a radio man's vote for "telecast."

M/Sergt. Joseph W. Scott, jr., of Uncle Sam's Marine Corps, says:

"Why all the difficulty? The new-words section of Mr. Webster's dictionary gives 'telecast' as a verb meaning to broadcast by television, and 'teleview' as a verb meaning to view by means of a television receiver."

Red-faced, I went to my own dictionary and found those two words plus "televise," a verb meaning "to transmit or receive by television."

My reference to the high prices of television sets brought this rejoinder from S. J. Levin of 1629 Nicholson st. nw.:

"I'm an average family man—not a dealer; but I'd say ordinary folks can't afford NOT to have a television receiver. Here's why:

"Since we got ours, my younger children no longer go to movie melodramas, and they seldom listen to hair-raising radio serials. Their education and experience is more varied, yet they stay home more.

"We grownups also enjoy the programs and don't go out as often—which results in a compensating saving. Entertainment is easy when friends drop in, and in short, our home has become complete."

You may not be a dealer, mister, but you certainly are a good salesman.

COFFEE MANNERS

Here are two replies to my question about the propriety of leaving a spoon in a coffee cup while on a railroad diner. (Object: to prevent sloshing).

Joseph S. Vazalis, of 1222 Massachusetts ave. nw., says:

"I'm afraid that Emily Post would gasp in horror. See Page 744.

"But why don't you adopt a good offense, instead of remaining on the defensive? Explain to the little woman that you're merely cooling your coffee, with the metal spoon acting as a heat conductor."

A good suggestion, Joe, except that I haven't been able to get off the defensive in some 14 years.

John Slinkman, of 6615 East ave., Chevy Chase, Md., also has some thoughts about coffee manners:

"The regular rules must be changed for special occasions. If you don't use a spoon to prevent sloshing, there's only one other way to drink coffee on a diner.

"You remove the soaked tablecloth and wring the brew into your mouth."

BY-THE WAY—

How did we ever make out in that argument about the propriety of using a knife to cut lettuce?

Are they still limiting themselves to forks on your side of the tracks?

STREET SCENE

Our reporter for this one is Mrs. S. T. Cabell, of 48 Channing st. nw.:

The young woman was tapping her way slowly off the street car, her white cane serving in the place of her unseeing eyes.

A man seated near the exit looked up from his newspaper, realized her difficulty, and immediately went to her aid.

He helped her down the steps, and then saw her safely to the sidewalk. The motorman held the car until the Good Samaritan returned.

It brightened the day for all of us to have witnessed this simple act of kindness.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Mama cat picked our back yard to have her kittens, and then decided to stay. Don't know where she came from, but there's nobody here to care for them during the day."
(TAylor 7629, after 5:30 p. m.)

TRAFFIC ADAGE

There's no need to sigh
That we're wasting our days.
We can (if we try)
Start mending our ways.
* * *
So long as our Light
Continues to burn
The end to our plight
Is a sharp U-turn.
(Thanks to W. S. A.)

March's Wife Gets Dubious Pat

NEW YORK., Sept. 7.—Fredric March reveals this story about himself and about his wife, Florence Eldridge. They were costarred last season in Ruth Gordon's play, "Only Yesterday." A few days after the opening March seemed a bit distressed and referred to a notice which had appeared that day in a news magazine. "How was it?" asked Miss Eldridge. . . . "Great for you, but not for me," said March. . . . Miss Eldridge's ears lolled in the sweet sound of "Great for you," and she mustered some consolation for her husband's lament of "but not for me." Then timorously and hopefully she asked whether he had brought a copy of the review. March gave her the review and repeated: "Great for you, but not for me." . . . Miss Eldridge read it slowly. The critic reported that Mr. March's gestures and mannerisms were exaggerated, and that he had seemed nervous and was capable of better. "Miss Eldridge's performance," the review continued, "was as good as Mr. March's."

REALITY: Ben Hecht, who in collaboration with Charles Lederer wrote the new movie, "Kiss of Death," had an exchange of letters and telegrams with Darryl Zanuck about basic script changes Zanuck had made and which Hecht deemed ruinous to the plot. Hecht protested particularly about Zanuck's revising the end of the picture and eliminating a gun fight in a crowded street bus. . . . "The gun fight in the bus," Zanuck wrote to Hecht, "was ridiculous." Hecht received this letter a few days after his discharge from Roosevelt Hospital—where he had occupied a room next door to that of Patrolman Murphy, the hero who was recuperating from a gun fight in a crowded bus.

REFORM: Before the recent birth of their own child Dixie Davis and Hope Dare adopted a 10-year-old boy. Davis was the lawyer for the Dutch Schultz mob, who became the State's witness against Jimmy Hines and whose revelations to the then District Attorney Tom Dewey brought Dewey to the governorship. Miss Dare is the former Ziegfeld beauty whose romance with Davis was brought to light by the trial . . . Before they were permitted to adopt the boy the Davises were required by the judge to prove they were religious people. They selected a church near their home in California, and for six months attended the weekly services—which the court deemed good and sufficient proof to legalize the adoption.

WASTE: George S. Kaufman, who just completed directing "The Senator Was Indiscreet," last worked in Hollywood on writing the movie "Marie Antoinette." When he arrived at his office at MGM, Kaufman said he wanted to see some of the scripts written by the other screenwriters who had tackled the "Marie Antoinette" assignment. A porter wheeled in a delivery truck piled high with the "Marie Antoinette" manuscripts . . . Kaufman stared at the pile, which would require months to wade through. After he recovered he said to the porter: "Are you sure that there are no more?" . . . "Oh, we have more," said the porter, and wheeled in a second truckful.

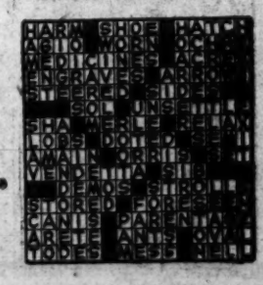
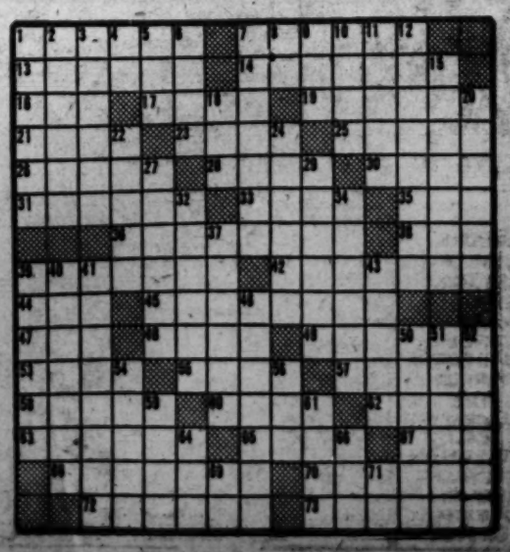
SOLUTION TO SATURDAY'S PUZZLE





TERRY AND THE PIRATES

IT WAS STUPID OF YOU TO GIVE ME A PISTOL, THEODORE, BUT I'M QUITE GRATEFUL. AT LEAST I'VE PREVENTED YOU FROM SHOOTING TERRY LEE DOWN WHEN HE COMES THROUGH THE DOOR... I OWED HIM THAT FOR INVOLVING HIM IN THIS STUPID MESS.
YOU'VE DONE ME IN, YOU FAITHLESS JEZEBEL!... AND NOW THE CYCLE IS COMPLETE — THE ASSASSIN WHO MURDERED MY ANCESTOR WAS ALSO A TRUSTED WOMAN. THE FATES MUST HAVE THEIR LITTLE JEST, IT SEEMS... STRANGE HOW DARK IT'S SUDDENLY BECOME...
THAT SHOT SOUNDS LIKE WE'VE FOUND TUBBY, AND HE WANTS TO DEBATE. THESE COPS ARE EQUIPPED WITH TEAR GAS GRENADES — LEMME...
HOLD IT...'S FUNNY, BUT I'D SWEAR I HEARD SOMEONE FALL AFTER THAT SHOT... I'M GOING IN.

WAHOO AND STEVE ROPER

Give me something to remember you by
THERE YOU GO, PRINCESS.!... WITH YOUR OLD BLACK MAGIC.!... PUTTIN' THE HEX ON MY HEART AGAIN!... I WONDER IF YOU'LL CATCH THE DRIFT OF MY NOTE!
A PUNK IN THE SUPPER CROWD SLIPPED ME A SAWHORSE TO HAND THAT TO MINNIE-HA-CHA!
"How's about one chorus of 'Should Old Acquaintance Be Forgot?'" UM-HUM!
I'D LIKE TO MEET THIS SMART YOUNG 'OLD AQUAINTANCE', EMIL! —TELL HIM THE PRINCESS SENT FOR HIM ---- THEN BRING HIM IN HERE!

DIXIE DUGAN

WHAT'VE YOU DONE TO PA?
NOTHING —
— HE STUMBLED AND DROPPED HIS GUN — WHEN IT WENT OFF HE FAINTED
GOLLY, HE MIGHT'VE SHOT YOU —
PHEW — I DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED
THOSE ARE THE GUNS THAT USUALLY DO THE DAMAGE —
NOW WILL YOU GO, MR. BRADFORD, BEFORE SOMETHING REALLY HAPPENS?
NOPE - SOMETHING REALLY IS GOING TO HAPPEN —

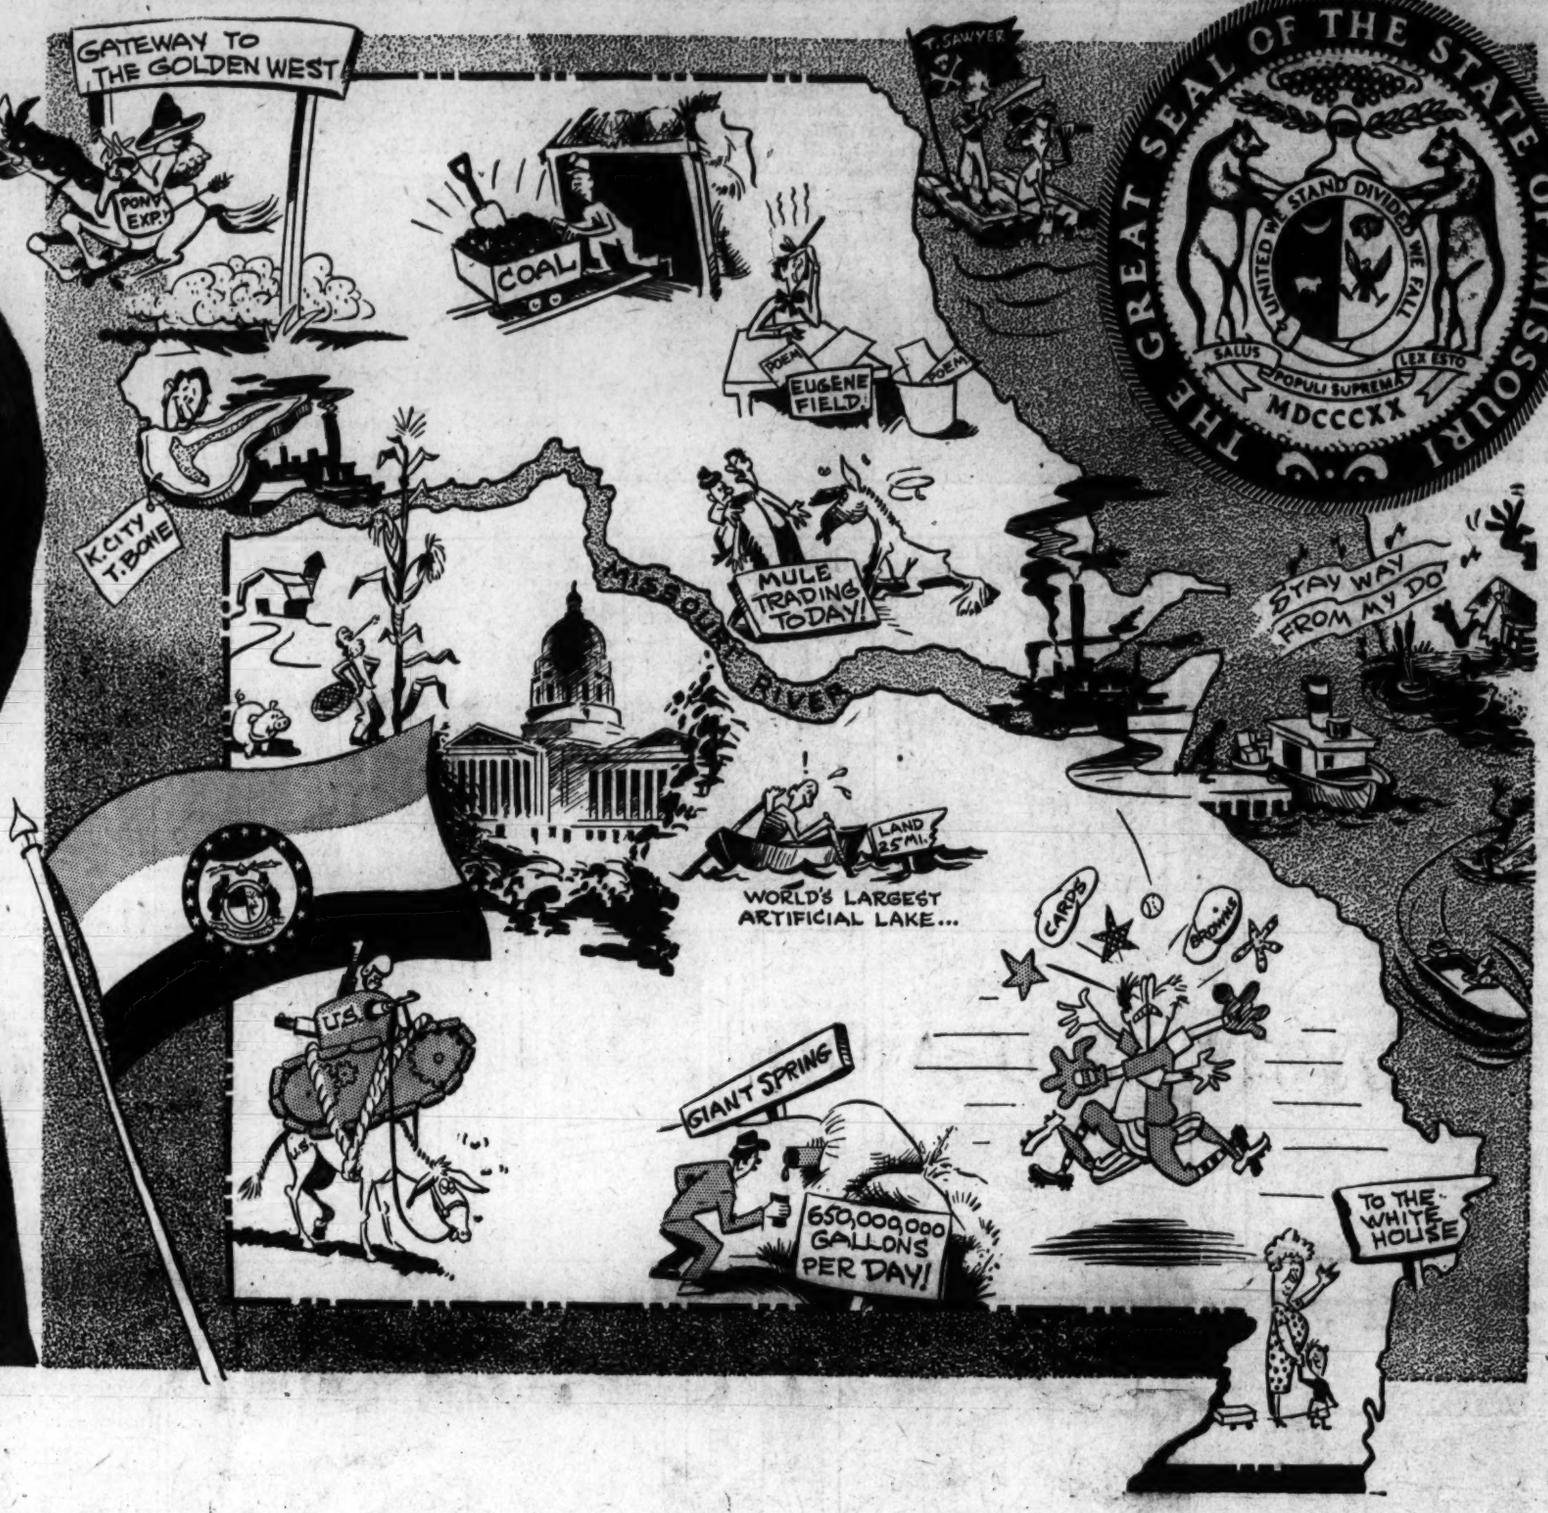
A GREAT STORE IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL



Eva Jane Lewis . . . has been successful in many careers . . . Society Editor of Sedalia Democrat, her home town paper . . . clerk of probate court . . . music buyer in Cleveland department store . . . real estate business in Kansas City, Missouri . . . and is now a government auditor.

MISSOURI . . . the "show me" state

The spirit of Missouri was best expressed in a radio broadcast some time ago: "We salute Missouri as a State which is neither West nor East, North nor South, urban nor rural, but all these in one splendid whole. Romance has traced her history. Yet her people are 'just folks' in the best sense in which that wholesome phrase ever can be used. Missouri is America." Missouri was the first State carved out of the Louisiana Territory, in 1828, under the Missouri Compromise. Her history, since that date, has been dotted with brilliant figures in all fields of endeavor. She has contributed many military and government leaders to the Nation . . . with President Harry S. Truman her most eminent citizen. Another favorite son, Mark Twain, Missouri's most beloved man of letters, has fired the imaginations of millions of American Readers, with his tales of Missouri and along the Mississippi River. Missourians are a shrewd, down-to-earth people, equally as proud of the famed Missouri 'coon dog and corn cob pipe—the Missouri meerschaum—as they are of their outstanding accomplishments in agriculture, transportation, mining and other branches of industry. Missouri became popularly known as the "show me" State from a speech of Congressman Willard Duncan Vandiver: "Frothy eloquence neither satisfies nor convinces me. I am from Missouri. You have to show me." We thank the Hecht Company for this courtesy, enabling us to say that we hope the whole world will some day be guided by the precepts of our State Motto—"Let the welfare of the people be the supreme law."

MISSOURI . . . Whose people possess a spirit of rugged independence . . . and for their part, are showing to the rest of the country worthwhile achievements in industry . . . agriculture . . . mining. Missouri is almost completely independent, economically.

MISSOURI . . . Home of the beautiful Ozark Mountains . . . older than the Rockies . . . with the Lake of the Ozarks, the largest artificial lake in the world . . . 129 miles long with 1300 miles of shoreline. A giant spring in Oregon County flows at the rate of 650,000,000 gallons of cold, clear water every 24 hours.

MISSOURI . . . Proud of her two crack baseball teams—the St. Louis Cardinals and the St. Louis Browns—and the Missouri Mule . . . who is, facetiously, given no small amount of credit for the Allied Victory in World War I . . . as our first "mechanized unit" for transportation of supplies and materiel.

MISSOURI . . . With industrial St. Louis and Kansas City lifting the State to 13th place in U. S. manufacturing. St. Louis, Mississippi River Port, is the country's ninth ranking industrial city . . . and one of the largest fur markets in the country. Kansas City, in addition to producing such diversified items as steel, flour, meat and oil, is the second largest U. S. horse and mule trading center. Missouri is the only State in the Union with two Federal Reserve Banks.

MISSOURI . . . Gateway to the Golden West since frontier days . . . Independence was the jumping-off place for the Oregon and Santa Fe Trails . . . and St. Joseph the starting point and home of the Pony Express. Today, St. Louis and Kansas City are great railway centers connecting the East and the West. The Eads Bridge, spanning the Mississippi at St. Louis, is said to handle more freight cars than any other bridge in the world. Kansas City has a daily average of 17,000 passengers passing through one of the most beautiful Union Stations in the country.

MISSOURI . . . High in agricultural production and mining. Crops of both the North and the South . . . corn, wheat, oats, barley, soy beans, sorghum, potatoes, rice, tobacco and cotton . . . thrive in the climate which ranges from temperate to sub-tropical. One of the largest orchards in the world, famous for its delicious apples, is located in Missouri. The State leads the country in lead mining and is fourth in zinc . . . Mine La Motte, in the St. Francois area, has been worked since its discovery by the French in 1715 and is still a heavy producer.

MISSOURI . . . Proud of Mark Twain, who recorded the legends of the Mississippi, and the children's poet, Eugene Field . . . statesman Thomas Harte Benton . . . and military leaders General Ulysses S. Grant, General John J. Pershing, Major General Enoch Crowder, General Malin H. Craig and General Omar Bradley, who, after compiling a brilliant fighting record, is now Head of the Veterans Administration. The University of Missouri was the seat of the first school of journalism in the United States.

MISSOURI . . . Bears the proud distinction of giving to the Nation, Harry S. Truman, President of the United States.
